BOTH SIDES TURN DOWN RAIL PEACE; TIE-UP THREATENS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—President Harding's proposal that matters of seniority, the snag which is impeding settlement of the shopmen's strike, be left to the Railway Labor Board was rejected by L. F. Loree, chairman of the presidents conference of eastern roads, tonight.

A statement was made after a conference of the eastern presidents and was taken as forecasting the attitude of the majority of railroad executives throughout the country to the stand taken by the presidents had at the time of the Harding proposal.

The impression gained by the return of Loree after getting word from Washington, was that Clyter, who is on vacation at Bar Harbor, Me., would call another conference of the 146 presidents of the railroads throughout the country.

LOREE'S STATEMENT

Loree's statement follows:

"The resolution adopted by many executives on August 1 left the position squarely up to striking former employees to be given preference to employment in the service as vacancies occur, according to every principle of right and justice involved in this matter and without any breach of faith on the part of the railroads to the men at present in their service.

"President Harding, in his proposal, said therefore, only matters of seniority covered by agreements three, which executives, remains in dispute upon both workmen and railroads under the law, to be a question in dispute to the Railroad Labor Board for a hearing and decision and the committee by both with the decision to be final.

"It would seem clearly that the proposal demands a complete surrender on the position of the railroad executives as stated last April.

"In addition to a statement from railroad executives, there are 400,000 shopmen working on their original 97,734 on July 23.

"Some of the eastern executives refused to be quoted, it is said that they are not as bitter as they were against the employment of the strikers originally, their rights unimpaired."

Others declined to leave the matter to the Labor Board, but are of the view that the board would not ignore the new men in deciding about the controversy.

PRESIDENT FAILS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—President Harding's latest proposal to settle the railroad shopmen's strike today failed within a few hours after it was presented, and the country now faces the prospect of a general railroad tie-up.

The President's proposal that the shopmen return to work, that the railroad operators assign them to work and that both sides submit the issue of seniority to the Railroad Labor Board met with instant and determined opposition on the part of the shopmen's leaders.

It was answered promptly by the issuance of a call for a general conference of all the railroad labor organizations to be held in Washington on Friday for the purpose of adopting measures to make the shopmen's strike more effective.

The Big Four brotherhoods, the organizations of operating workmen, will be asked by the strikers to decline to operate equipment believed to be defective.

By this plan the strikers hope to bring about complete stagnation of the entire railroad transportation system of the country.

That the President's plan would be rejected and that the other railroad unions would respond promptly to the shopmen's call for effective support was believed to be a foregone conclusion following a long conference between the shopmen's chiefs and the Washington representatives of three of the Big Four brotherhoods.

When the President saw the shopmen's representatives at the White House this morning, he told them that this was his last effort to bring about a settlement of the strike. If it is, the shopmen's leaders indicated clearly tonight that there can be no settlement, and the conflict between railroad workers and owners, which has been threatening since before the war, seems destined to be a fight to the finish.

"The employees now on strike are firm in their position and will continue on strike so long as the

POINCARE WON'T BE PLACATED

BY HENRY WALES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 7. — Premier Poincare threatened to act alone against Germany, "if the Allies fail to support just claims," in an impassioned opening address in the conference this morning, when he expounded France's needs and admitted that the republic is in a desperate financial situation.

Replying, Prime Minister Lloyd George warned any single power against taking independent action, and asserted that the Reichstag had done all possible to execute the Versailles Treaty obligations.

Despite a preliminary meeting this morning at Clardge's Hotel when Premier Poincare exhorted Sig. Schanzer and M. Theunys to support the French stand, both the Italians and Belgians, as well as the Japanese, backed Lloyd George when he proposed to submit the French demands for guarantees to the inevitable "committee of experts" before considering them. Premier Poincare had hoped to jam through an acceptance of France's viewpoint.

BELGIUM WITH BRITAIN

Continuing the policy first revealed at Genoa and then at The Hague, Belgium drew openly toward Great Britain today, Theunys indorsing Mr. Lloyd George's statement, asserting "my country like Great Britain depends largely on foreign trade."

Lloyd George made the bitter pill of blocking Premier Poincare's demands less unpalatable by promising France Great Britain's aid in forcing Germany's obligations "once the right method is found."

At the opening discussion this morning Premier Poincare said: "Two important events have occurred since I last conferred with Mr. Lloyd George. The first is the German demond for a moratorium and the second is Lord Balfour's note. Reviewing the situation from the French viewpoint we find the treaty has not been executed. Germany has taken inadequate measures in the trials of war criminals. Reports are very unsatisfactory regarding Germany's disarmament. There are difficulties of every kind over reparations, because Germany is actually paying nothing.

"German assessments have been consistently reduced. A partial moratorium will be granted Germany at Cannes, and Germany now asks a moratorium until 1925.

FRANCE GETS NOTHING

"Getting nothing France has already expended about 6,400,000,000 francs on the reparations account of Germany, resulting in an extremely critical situation in France's financial condition. France is not imperialistic, and it wants Europe reconstructed, nor does it want to deal unfairly with Germany. But France is justified in insisting on securing reparations as the first step to general reconstruction.

"People ask why France does not reduce its army, but France is not yet satisfied with the security guarantees originally promised (Anglo-American alliances.")

JOHNSON MISSES THIRD OF ALL SENATE ROLL CALLS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Hiram Johnson has missed more than one-third of all the roll calls in the Senate since President Harding was inducted into office. Many of the occasions when important matters came before the Senate for action Johnson was in New York conferring with Hearst and Hylan or with Hearst himself.

A mythical blizzard which neither the Weather Bureau nor the railroads ever located was the cause assigned by Hiram for his absence when the Newberry vote was taken. No attempt has been made to record the number of times Johnson was absent from the Senate on roll calls before the inauguration of a Republican President, but the record of the senior Senator from California since March 4, 1921, shows that he was not on the job when his vote might have counted.

Admitting that in some cases he was paired, the fact remains that he has one of the prize records of the Senate for absenteeism and dodging of important votes.

SO VOTERS MAY KNOW

In order that the voters of California may know just how many times there were roll calls in the Senate from March 4, 1921, to July 31 of this year, the official records have been checked carefully by experts and the astonishing result is shown in the following attendance record:

Sixty-seventh Congress—First session: Present and voting, 310; absent and not voting, 252; total roll calls, 562.

Second session (to July 31, 1922:) Present and voting, 482; absent and not voting, 244; total roll calls, 726.

It will be noted in the first session when the primaries and election were some distance off Johnson was even more careless about roll calls, than later in the session when he faced the voters of his State. In the early part of the period, he missed almost as many roll calls as he answered. His failure to do teamwork or constructive legislation is reflected in the paucity of his record in the committees and the voters of California are now already familiar with his failure to introduce one single bill of national importance or get any measure of transcendent weight even to the stage of introduction.

Significant, too, is the failure of any of his colleagues in the Senate to volunteer assistance to him either in the primaries or elsewhere. Borah has promised Jim Reed to stump his State for him and several other Senators are willing to aid him. So far not a single Senator has volunteered to speak for Johnson and even Hearst seems to be devoting himself mostly to getting the Democratic nomination for Governor in New York and congratulating Reed rather than to concentrate on the support of Johnson.

ARIZONA PROMOTER ARRESTED

H. C. Stagg, Arizona financier and oil promoter, was arrested early this morning in a downtown hotel on a telegraphics warrant charging him with embezzling $45,800 from the National Consolidated Petroleum Company.

No information was contained in the telegraphic instructions asking that he be arrested, but it was reported that the financier is charged with absconding with funds paid into the company by stockholders. The arrest was ordered by the Sheriff at Coalgate, Ariz., where Stagg was associated with the petroleum company prior to his coming to Los Angeles about a year ago.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONGKONG, Aug. 7.—The toll of the typhoon of August 2 at Swatow already has mounted to 28,000 dead. Coffins are lacking to provide decent burials for many and the bodies are being interred in gunnysacks. The new figures on lives lost, almost trebling previous estimates, were contained in a circular issued today by the local branch of the Swatow Chamber of Commerce.

A State Department dispatch today from Hongkong reported that the Consulate at Swatow had been unroofed in the recent disastrous storm there, but that, so far as known, no Americans lost their lives.

"Swatow and surrounding country swept by typhoon and tidal wave August 2 and 3," said the dispatch. "Worst in history. Estimated dead 1000 in Swatow alone. Tens of thousands homeless. Property loss millions."

The circular stated that 28,000 bodies of victims of the Swatow disaster already had been recovered. Benevolent societies attempting to care for the dead have been forced to use mattress covers and old bags as coffins for the myriad dead could not be provided. Charitable organizations of Hongkong are combining to organize in effectual relief measures.

Another British steamer, in addition to the two previously reported ashore, was bound from Hongkong to Shanghai when she met the fury of the typhoon and was wrecked, but here passengers were saved.

CITY OF HORROR

Desolation hovers over the ruined city and horror haunts its streets. As detailed reports reach Hongkong, the full extent of the disaster is being revealed.

In the native city hundreds of corpses and the carcasses of animals are mingled with the debris. Human remains protrude from the uncleared wreckage. It is estimated that more than 75 per cent of the city's buildings were destroyed, including the silk knitting factories and the old German Consulate.

The American Consulate and the Standard Oil Company's godown or warehouse, were slightly damaged.

BANDITS ABROAD

Ghoul-like, some Chinese attempted to loot the wreckage, but the native police stopped this promptly. A Swatow Chinese newspaper, however, reports that lawless elements raided the houses of typhoon victims and held up passersby for plunder.

The police frustrated an attempt to loot the offices of the Banque Industrielle de Chine, arresting two men.

HOTEL BURNED

At midnight Wednesday fire broke out in a Chinese hotel, gutting it and adding to the terrifying experience of the inhabitants.

The destruction was almost complete, with the exception of the Chinese postoffice, a new three-story building. No building escaped damage.

To all appearances Swatow presents the scene of a war-ravaged town—one heap of ruins. The tidal wave which swept the Bund, or road along the harbor, at the height of the typhoon, inflicted considerable damage to the waterfront buildings. Losses were heavy in this district.

The British in Hongkong have remitted $10,000 to the British Consul at Swatow and are shipping rice for distribution among the homeless and destitute. The MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7.—El Universal, in an extra edition tonight, says President Obregon this afternoon ratified the agreement entered into in New York by Senor De la Huerta, Secretary of the Treasury, and the international bankers.

The newspaper says that notice of the signing of the agreement was sent to Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., New York, and that the agreement now will be sent to Congress for action.

TWO KILLED IN RIOTING

Troops Rushed to Joliet

Special Agent and Striker Shot When Officials Meet Mob

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. — Chicago troops were rushed to Joliet today to quell a riot after two men had been killed and the Sheriff of Will county seriously wounded. The call for troops came as a climax to a morning of gun fighting, marked by several minor clashes and one pitched battle. It brought the admission of Joliet authorities, who have been attempting to preserve order by means of special patrols, that they were no longer able to cope with the situation.

A call for help was transmitted from Springfield to Bloomington, Ill., where a battalion of the One Hundred Thirty-second Infantry, Illinois National Guard, in command of Lieut.-Col. Nelson Morris, had just been relieved from strike duty. The infantry, including one machine-gun unit, entrained at once for Joliet.

Meantime, both sides in the rioting that centered about the shops of the Elgin, Joliet, and Eastern Railroad, were resting on their arms and counting their losses.

Dead as a result of the day's principal battle, were:

PHILIP REITZ, chief special agent of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railroad, shot through the heart.

FRANK LEVERO, Joliet, a striker, married, and the father of two children, shot through the lungs.

Wounded:

TROUBLE SMOLDERS

Trouble which has been smoldering in the vicinity of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railroad shops for two weeks, flamed up this morning when Sheriff Newkirk started on his daily patrol through the strike zone. He rode in an automobile accompanied by Chief Deputy Albert Lindgren, Special Agent Reitz and three deputies. The Sheriff's party dispersed several groups of men on their way to the yards, but encountered no

ENGINEER BLAMED

Jury Reverses Self in Rendering Verdict in Fatal Missouri Train Wreck

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GINGO (Mo.) Aug. 7.—Blame for the Missouri Pacific wreck at Gingo, Saturday night, which caused death to thirty-five and injured more than 100 persons, was fixed on Engineer Matthew (Ginger) Goff of fast passenger No. 4 by a Coroner's jury late today.

The jury at first returned and then later reversed its finding that Glenn, who had failed to observe signals warning him that the track was not clear.

WORDS RECEIVED

Following the rendering of the verdict the testimony of members of the crews of both trains, which showed that neither train had received orders pertaining to the case, was received.

The first verdict was returned after George W. Elders, fireman, county attorney, had objected and Coroner Thompson reversed himself and returned the following verdict:

"We find that the persons killed in the wreck came to their death through the negligence of Engineer Matthew (Ginger) Goff, who failed to obey signals."

Goff had received orders to pull over on a siding at Gingo Curve, fifteen miles west of Gingo, to allow the fast mail No. 1 to pass, and while he was reading these orders he passed the block signal, which was at an unusual distance from the track. Goff had been employed by the railroad for 21 years. The testimony showed that the signals were the same as those governing the track at Sulphur Springs.

The death toll was brought to thirty-five today with the death of Pearl Goff of Cadet, Mo., a sister of Beulah Goff, who was killed in the wreck and a niece of William Goff, who was injured.

"We had no idea No. 4 was so close behind."

Long stated he did not see the fast flyer approaching, but heard some one yell, "Here comes No. 4," and that he was running to tell the engineer when the crash came.

Engineer E. T. Gross of No. 32 stated the crash occurred before he had time to put out a flagman. W. E. Long, fireman on No. 32 and brother of Conductor Long, testified orders had been received for No. 32 to take a siding at Wickes, several miles north to allow the fast flyer to pass.

J. E. Gragg of St. Louis, conductor on No. 4, testified they had received no orders concerning No. 32. He stated they had received their last orders at Riverside, six miles south of where the accident occurred. He added that he was in the door of the baggage car when the crash came and he had only time to shout, "We're on No. 32."

R. R. Ragland of DeSoto, a signal supervisor for the Missouri Pacific, stated that all of the blocks between Riverside and Sulphur Springs had been inspected by him and found to be in perfect working order at 6:45 p.m. on Friday. These signals were the ones which Glenn was said to have gone by without noticing.

DENIES HE OBJECTED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

YORK BEACH (Me.) Aug. 7.—Back from Europe, loquacious instead of reticent and wearing his best "I-didn't-say" manners, Florenz Ziegfeld was seen here at his summer home, Wintersteen, by a correspondent. Mrs. Ziegfeld (Billie Burke) is with him.

As to the Miller-Pickford controversy Mr. Ziegfeld declared the whole thing most unfortunate and said if it had not taken a peculiar twist through certain published statements of Miss Miller he would have treated the whole matter with contempt.

"To begin with," said Mr. Ziegfeld, "I have been charged with saying things about Jack Pickford. I have abundant proof that at no time have I slandered or libeled that young man. Much has been put in my mouth that I have not said.

"Now, there is one matter which should be cleared up and that is my alleged opposition to the marriage of the star of 'Sally.' When Miss Miller gave out that she would violate the antimarriage clause in her contract she did not know that she was talking about. At no time have I drawn up a contract with such a clause. First, it would be un-American and second, antisocial; then, too, no woman with a grain of common sense would sign such a contract.

SUGGESTED DELAY

"I did suggest to Miss Miller," continued "Sally's" owner, "to defer marriage for a few years only because she was beginning to climb the ladder to success in the theatrical world. As to any feeling in the matter—that is, feeling of a personal nature, such as being in love with her, or jealous of her fiance—Why, that borders on the ridiculous.

"Miss Miller did promise me, however, that she would not marry for several years.

"In love with Marilynn Miller, when I have the best and sweetest wife in the world, and a little daughter, my Patricia, the darlingest child alive! Why, if the idea were not so ridiculous I would be inclined to get angry."

TEDDY GERARD DEPORTED?

Mystery Surrounds Sudden Sailing for Home

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Mystery surrounding the abrupt departure of the American actress, Teddy Gerard, for New York a fortnight ago on the Aquitania under the assumed name of Mrs. Holmes was slightly pierced today when friends indignantly denied that she was deported, but hinted that she was threatened with expulsion from England owing to false charges trumped up through professional jealousy.

Owing to a bank holiday the Foreign Office is closed and no one was able to verify whether complaint was made, but the theatrical world of the American colony where Teddy was well known is buzing with rumors of scandal.

PERSECUTION CHARGES

Friends of Teddy assert that English actresses who were jealous of her successes and high salary, wrote anonymous letters to

PASSENGERS SAVED, DANCE

Transferred From Steamer H. F. Alexander, Expected to Reach Seattle Early Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Aug. 7.—With her passengers transferred to the relief ship Admiral Schley, which is speeding toward Seattle on a schedule that should land them here at daylight tomorrow, the coastwise liner H. F. Alexander, her bow stove in from crashing on treacherous Cake Rock on the rugged Washington coast early today, is limping slowly down Puget Sound tonight in tow of the powerful tug Sea Monarch.

The Alexander, pulled at a four-knot speed, is due here before noon tomorrow. She proceeded under her own power as far as Clallam Bay. There her 206 passengers were taken aboard the Admiral Schley at 6 o'clock tonight. The transfer of passengers took place while the disabled liner and the relief ship rode at anchor, shoulder to shoulder, in a heavy fog blanketing the Strait of Juan de Fuca. The task was carried out without mishap. As the Admiral Schley steamed toward Seattle the Alexander's band played on her deck while the shipwrecked guests danced merrily.

The H. F. Alexander has a hole in her starboard bow. Its extent has not yet been determined, but it was sufficiently large to permit flooding of No. 1 hold.

MEXICO PROTESTS DEATH OF CITIZENS AT HERRIN

Border Country Representations on Mine Massacres Received by State Department

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The State Department has received a protest from the Mexican government against the alleged killing of two Mexican citizens and the beating up of others in connection with the massacre at Herrin, Ill., it was learned on the highest authority today.

The department has acknowledged receipt of the representations and has given assurance that the circumstances of the case will be thoroughly investigated. It is understood that proper representations have been made to the Governor of Illinois and that when Illinois authorities have completed their investigations a further reply will be made to the Mexican government by the department.

DIFFERENT PHASES

The representations from the Mexican government, which are believed to have come through the Mexican Embassy here, are based upon two different phases of evidence. The first is the formal acknowledgment of the Governor of Illinois that two Mexicans had been killed during the disorders at Herrin and others beaten up.

The second phase of evidence embraces depositions from the Resendis brothers, Mexican subjects, who have been for some time undergoing treatment at a hospital in Kansas City for injuries received at the hands of a mob.

One of the Resendis brothers received serious knife wounds about the head, and the other bruises and lacerations from stones and clubs. In their depositions the brothers state that they set out from Chicago, in company with two other Mexicans, whose names they do not know, in search of work. They were traveling in a way train, which proceeded very slowly, stopping at intervals for the passengers to get down and eat at various stations.

ATTACKED BY MOB

About a day and a half out of Chicago, the train made the customary stop for food and the four Mexicans got down and obtained food from the station restaurant. While eating they were set upon by a mob armed with clubs, knives and stones and were badly beaten. The Resendis brothers managed to make their escape, but the other two Mexicans were left behind and were not seen afterward.

The two wounded Mexicans were taken to Kansas City and placed in a hospital, where they remained for some weeks. Inquiry addressed to the railway upon which the Resendis brothers were traveling developed the fact that the train upon which they took passage was routed through Herrin, Ill., and the time of about a day and a half specified by the two wounded men was thought to be about the time necessary for them to have reached that station.

The two brothers indicated in their depositions that they did not know the name of the place at which they were attacked.

FAILED TO SEE MAYOR

The Mexican Consul at Chicago, according to information in possession of the State Department, went to Herrin to make personal inquiry.

Upon asking for the Mayor of Herrin, he was told that official was not in town, and when he asked to see the acting Mayor was informed there was no such person. The Consul then went to the Chief of Police, who said he knew nothing about the matter. The Consul did succeed later, however, in getting a statement from the Governor of Illinois that two Mexicans had been killed at Herrin and two others injured.

It is understood that the representations made by the Mexican government are couched in the most courteous language.

PLAN QUIZ ON BURIAL OF FUREY

San Francisco Officials Wait Orders from Los Angeles

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—The proposed exhuming of a body supposed to be that of Joe Furey, nationally known swindler, in an endeavor to clear up certain mysterious features regarding the disposition of his remains, will not be undertaken by the San Francisco authorities until authorized by the authorities of Los Angeles, which was supposed to be Furey's last home, Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson announced today.

The body was sent here from Huntsville, Tex., and was buried August 1 in Cypress Lawn Cemetery. Mrs. Helen Manberger, who said she was a resident of San Francisco and a niece of Furey, took charge of the funeral arrangements here. The funeral directors who handled the body said today that it was that of Furey.

The San Francisco authorities have no authority to disinter the body unless directed to do so from some official source. As the Los Angeles authorities were more directly interested in Furey's case than any other officials, Matheson holds that they should be the ones to order the exhuming of the body.

Matheson said that he was investigating the burial permit to determine who signed it. The permit came with the body from Huntsville, according to the funeral establishment.

Urges Japanese United States Trade Alliance

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—An economic alliance between the United States and Japan was proposed here today by Reizo Yamashina, vice-president of the Tokyo Chamber of Commerce, who is head of a delegation of Japanese business leaders en route to Brazil. The proposal was made at a luncheon tendered the Japanese by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

An economic alliance, Mr. Yamashina said, would go far to enrich both countries and increase commercial development.

Robert Newton Lynch of the San Francisco chamber declared Viscount Shibusawa, merchant prince of Japan and head of the Japanese peace movement, one of the three greatest commercial geniuses living.

The next stop of the Japanese will be Los Angeles.

Teddy starred in the revue "A to Z," suddenly disappearing and the manager, Andre Charlot, says the only explanation he can offer is that her engagement is ended. Jack Buchanan, a member of the cast, expressed ignorance of the reason.

Although Fanny Ward, Peggy O'Neill, Mrs. Edith Kelly Gould and other Americans prominent here assert that Teddy's sudden vanishing is inexplicable, rumor says that Teddy's close friendship with Gwendolyn Ferrar began the trouble. Gwendolyn's sister Muriel attempted to interfere when Teddy vamped Gwendolyn's fiance, a titled Englishman, it is reported.

When the sister threatened to complain to the authorities and have Teddy expelled the American actress replied:

"I'm going to marry Lord Blank, thus becoming a British citizen and then you can't have me deported."

The result was that Gwendolyn's sister is reported to have warned the young lord's parents what protested to the authorities and Teddy was asked to leave England.

Teddy came to London in 1913, when she was a close friend of Edward R. Thomas. She introduced "backless gowns" on the stage here and was celebrated and photographed as having the most beautiful back in the world.

Gwendolyn and Muriel Ferrar are daughters of the late Sir George Ferrar, South African magnate. Muriel married Tony Lewther, nephew and heir of Lord Lancelot. She objected to her sister's intimacy with Teddy when the couple were passing a month's holiday together, at the Shenstone Hotel, Devonshire.

Teddy was rumored engaged to marry the Hon. Freddie Crippa, son of the vicar general who as the partner of Jimmy White obtained a contract for reconstruction in Moscow and returned to London from Russia and Berlin just before Teddy departed.

It is reported that the Home Office denies that Teddy was ordered to leave England but friends say she received unofficial intimation to leave.

association of railway executives declines to accept reasonable terms of agreement," said Bert M. Jewell, head of the shop craft organizations, after the conference.

Those who participated in the conference, besides Jewell, were William J. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists; J. P. Noonan, president of the Electrical workers; Arthur J. Lovell, representing the firemen and enginemen; Paul Stephens of the trainmen, and H. E. Wills of the engineers.

TELEGRAPH TO STONE

Johnston, Jewell and Noonan dispatched the following telegram to Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, at Cleveland:

"Shopcrafts did everything conceivable to avoid necessity for a strike, and since the strike have at all times been willing to confer with any party authorized to submit a proposal as a basis of honorable settlement. We accepted the President's terms of agreement submitted to employees and managers July 31. The Association of Railway Executives, in rejecting the President's terms of agreement, obviously acting under the direction of those who exercise the financial control and dictate the labor policies of the railways, repudiated the promise given by their chairman to the President and defied the spokesman of the American people. To date, only the employees have made concessions. Obviously, the strike must be settled if the country is to avoid the impending calamity of a collapse of transportation.

"The government has the authority to promptly settle the strike on the just, fair and reasonable basis proposed by the President July 31. However, it is now apparent that no constructive program is being proposed, and that unless the railroad employees can offer additional counsel and advice, the lives and safety of employees and traveling public, already endangered by the continued use of defective railroad equipment, will be imperiled to a greater extent.

"Believing that the chief executive of each of the standard railroad labor organizations as a result of their years of experience, broad public viewpoint, and sincere desire for industrial peace, can, by conference with the officials of the shop crafts, formulate a program, having for its purpose protection of the public, preservation of the railroad industry and an honorable basis of settlement for the managers and the employees, we urgently recommend that you, as chairman of the railroad organizations, wire each chief executive, requesting him to attend conference in Washington, Friday, August 11. We have sent a similar telegram to Manion. Advise us at machinists' headquarters."

The statement to the public was like that to Stone.

SHOPMEN ARE ANGRY

The attitude of the shopmen was one of burning indignation toward the President's proposal that they return to work and leave the seniority question to the Railroad Labor Board. They made little effort to conceal their disappointment over what they declared to be a complete reversal of the President's position.

In his first settlement proposal, they pointed out, he called for the restoration of the strikers to their former positions with their seniority right unimpaired. Now he was asking them to go back to work with the seniority question entirely unsettled and in the hands of a tribunal which they have reason to believe would not grant them their old status. One high official of the striking shopmen said that if the President's original proposal was right it was still right and that the mere fact the executives had rejected it should not make it wrong.

FIGHT FIRE IN GLACIER PARK TREES

Forest Service Also Battles Great Blaze on Montana-Idaho State Line

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MISSOULA (Mont.) Aug. 7. — Not less than 700 acres of Glacier National Park timber is in flames tonight with the fire spreading north and east from the south corner of the park, according to word received here by officials of district No. 1 of the forest service.

Fifty men of the park service are fighting this blaze, but they got a late start and unfavorable weather conditions hinder the work. The blaze is part of a 1000-acre fire that burned on the Blackfeet forest.

The Twin Creek fire on the Clearwater Forest, about fifty miles from the Montana-Idaho line, in Idaho, is causing some trouble to the forest service.

This blaze now covers 1000 acres and is spreading. Men are being sent to fight this fire from Orofino, Idaho. They are taken to Bungalow, seventy miles by truck, then they walk thirty-five miles on a trail and supplies are taken by pack train. At the end of the trail they plunge into the woods and go ten miles with no trail, picking their way as best they can to get to the blaze.

A dense haze of smoke which hung over all the forests in district No. 1 made it difficult for lookouts to discover new fires. Consequently fires get bigger starts than they ordinarily would before discovery.

AMERICANS SAIL FOR NEW YORK

Slaking of Thirsts Cost Tourists in England Large Sum of Money

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The army of American tourists began to stream homeward when the Mauretania sailed with 1500 passengers and the President Adams left full up, too. Many Americans who have neglected to arrange for their western passage may now be unable to get accommodations for three or four weeks.

Although London has been visited by more people from the States this summer than at any time since 1914, there has been no record-breaking expenditure of money by them. According to some estimates, they have left between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 in England, but so far there is not the slightest indication that the $25,000,000 mark of the summers prior to 1914 will be even approached.

One of the largest expenditures by the Americans—the men, of course—has been to slake their thirst. At least fifty parties were given in London last night by persons determined to fortify themselves, and judging by the self-assured appearance of some who took the boat train at Waterloo station this morning, they were prepared for the worst.

A wealthy American woman who married a foreigner and who has taken a castle in Scotland for the shooting season, has paid $1000 duty on vintage champagne which she brought from France into England.

The Alexander struck at 12:25 a.m., on Cake Rock, Giant's Graveyard, in the Pacific Ocean, about thirty miles south of Cape Flattery. She stove a hole in No. 1 hold, but within half an hour backed off, with number 2, 3 and 4 holds uninjured, and took up her journey to Seattle.

The fact that the Alexander was in peril was almost instantly known through an S.O.S. sent out by Capt. Bartlett and picked up by the city harbor wireless station. A few minutes later the station caught a message from Capt. Bartlett to the Pacific Steamship Company "struck rock; no immediate danger." At 12:57 a wireless came from Capt. Bartlett "have backed off; proceeding on own steam."

LAXITY IN PROBATION IS BLAMED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—A Coroner's jury returned a verdict today that Detective Sergt. Timothy J. Bailey was murdered last Thursday by Walter Castor, who then killed Mrs. Annie Castor and committed suicide, blamed the affair on the "looseness of the present probation system."

The jury recommended that the probation authorities exercise "extreme judgment" in granting probation.

Bailey was killed when attempting to arrest Castor, who was being sought as a suspect for the murder of Mrs. Henry Wilkens.

Date for Wilkens's trial for murder of his wife in a supposed automobile hold-up by Castor will be set when Dist.-Atty. Brady returns from the Yosemite Valley, where his mother is ill.

Two Dry Agents Are Wounded in Pistol Battle

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) Aug. 7. — In a clash with bootleggers, James Harris and R. E. Lacey, Federal prohibition agents working out of Cheyenne, were wounded early today and have been taken to a hospital at Kemmerer. The prohibition officials exchanged revolver shots with bandits who, it is said, succeeded in taking whisky away from the officers which they had seized to hold as evidence in a legal action.

The clash took place near the town of Fossil, in Western Wyoming.

Harris is reported in a serious condition, having been struck three times, one of the bullets tearing away part of his face. Lacey's legs were pierced by bullets.

The liquor which led to the clash was said to have been purchased from moonshiners by the prohibition agents in several Wyoming towns.

ESCAPES DEATH

KINGMAN, Aug. 7.—Dick French, a lineman for the Desert Power and Water Company, had a narrow escape from death through failure to appreciate that a water-soaked limb may be a good conductor of electricity. After a rainstorm, he climbed into a tree in Box Canyon to saw off a limb that threatened contact with the wires of a circuit that carries 44,000 volts of energy. The limb, half sawed, fell across the wires, completing a circuit to the ground through the lineman's body. He was shocked into unconsciousness but was held in the tree by his life belt till taken down by fellow-workmen. He was revived after twenty minutes of hard work and is expected to be little the worse for his experience.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—The right of prohibition agents to search an automobile without warrant on suspicion that it might contain liquor was upheld in a decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today in the case of M. Lambert, who had liquor taken from his machine in Reno.

Lambert contended that the government agents had no right to search the machine without warrant, but the court held it was justified as long as it did not violate the government guarantees against unlawful search which are extended in certain specific instances.

CAMPAIGN FOR SEWER BONDS ON

The drive for the $12,000,000 sewer bond issue is on.

Today for the first time motion pictures showing the insanitary conditions which now exist will be shown in local theaters. Nearly a third of the 1,000,000 stickers which the local gas company, public utilities department, stores and laundries will use on bills and packages have been printed. Funds to finance the campaign are being raised.

Street banners are to be placed over local thoroughfares within the next few days. Speakers are to be sent out to theaters and other public gatherings to spread facts about the proposed sewer proposition. All of these publicity mediums are stressing the necessity of the new tunnel sewer and its accompanying improvements.

All of these facts were brought out last night by the subcommittee reports which were accepted by the General Welfare Committee on Sewage in its meeting at the City Hall. Arrangements were made for another meeting of the committee next Monday evening in the Council room in the City Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Those who have worked on the campaign said that they have not as yet encountered any opposition to the sewer proposal. They say that they are going to place the facts regarding Los Angeles sewer conditions before every resident of the city so that there will be no doubt concerning the fate of the bonds at the election on the 29th inst.

There they were met by an excited guard, who told Sheriff Newkirk a mob was threatening to burn the house of Fred Nelson, a paint-shop foreman, who had remained at work.

Walter Stockhard, Charles Sharp and Harvey Nelson, railroad agents, clambered into the automobile, which Sheriff Newkirk then drove to the Nelson home at 508 Garnsey street. According to reports of the deputies more than 500 strike sympathizers had mobilized in the street and were walking slowly around the block, shouting threats at Nelson as they passed his door.

Sheriff Newkirk alighted and walked up to the house. He called Nelson out of the house and walked with him to the corner.

SHOOTING STARTS

"Do any of you men want to say anything to Mr. Nelson?" he inquired of the crowd. No one answered.

"If you don't," continued the Sheriff, "you had better go on about your business."

At this point, Nelson's wife called to him to come in and he started for the house.

"I was just on the top step when the shooting started," he said later. "I didn't see much of what started it. I heard some one curse at Sheriff Newkirk and I saw him turn back toward a group of strikers on the corner. Then I saw the deputies getting out of the car.

"When the shot was fired I saw the Sheriff stagger toward a ditch. He fell into it. At the second shot Reitz went down. Then there was a general fusillade and I went into the house."

The official reports returned by the deputies place responsibility for the casualties at the door of the dead striker. They assert that neither Newkirk nor Reitz had the opportunity to fire a single shot. Levero was killed by Stockard after he had killed Reitz.

CHEN DEFEATS SUN'S TROOPS

Deposed Chinese President Loses Ground

Aboard Loyal Gunboat, He is Almost Surrounded

Correspondents Pessimistic Over Future

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CANTON (China) Aug. 7.—The northern army of Sun Yat-Sen, deposed President of South China, has met a stinging defeat by Chen Chiung-Ming's troops near Shiuchow, in Northern Kwangtung Province, and is in retreat back to Kiangsi Province, whence it came a few weeks ago, according to advices received here today.

The advices from Shiuchow, which were made public at the headquarters here of Gen. Chen Chiung Ming, who deposed Sun, declared that Sun Yat Sen's northern forces on which he had pinned his hope of regaining control of Canton were in full retreat toward Kiangsi and Hunan provinces.

NAMYUNG OCCUPIED

Chen's troops occupied Namyung, after driving out their opponents, and captured 1000 rifles, thirteen cannon, two airplanes and an entire regiment of the deposed President's soldiers. The remainder of the Sun forces at Namyung retreated toward Kiangsi, with Chen's men in hot pursuit.

Northwest of Shiuchow, Gen. Chen's attack resulted in his capturing the forts at Cheung Chiung King, whose defenders were forced to retire toward Hunan.

Neither of the two leaders contending for control of Canton is at the front with his troops. Chen Chiung Ming remains silent at his headquarters in Waichow, fifty miles from Canton, refusing to make any statement or to be interviewed. Sun Yat Sen is aboard one of the remaining loyal vessels of his depleted navy, the Wingfung, anchored in Canton harbor, and virtually bottled up, with Chen's forces guarding every exit. In the meantime Sun's supporter, Gen. Hsu Tsung Chi, is losing the battles in the north which were to have again cleared the path to the Presidency of South China for his chief.

LONDON HEARS NEWS

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, former head of the Southern Chinese government, is suffering from a mental trouble which has already required the attendance of two foreign brain specialists, says a Hongkong dispatch to the Daily Telegraph.

The correspondent describes Dr. Sun as exercising impotent authority from the cruiser Wingfung, anchored off Shamien, in Canton harbor, but depending not only for his restoration to power, but for his very existence upon the successful return of his northern expeditionary force, which Chen Chiung Ming slowly is breaking up.

Chen is determined to prevent this force, which is described as a rabble of bandits living by pillage, from joining Sun Yat Sen, and, according to the correspondent, he will be successful. The writer adds:

"News of the final dispersal of his force probably will have the effect upon Sun Yat-Sen which his colleagues openly anticipate and dread."

The correspondent, who has just completed a three months' journey of observation from Peking to Canton, draws a hopeless picture of conditions, and says Sun Yat-Sen's disappearance from the arena will avail little.

CROWN OF HEWES IS WOBBLY

Irate Long Beach Citizens Are After Scalp of Manager; Delay Action

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 7.—The crown of City Manager Hewes did some fancy wobbling tonight, but managed to keep place on the Hewes head despite tempt to depose him was made for twenty-four hours, when delegation, representing a number dissatisfied citizens, had marched into the Council chamber and demanded a new City Manager.

Mr. Hewes' reign has been far from pleasing to some, it appears, since his famous victory over Myrtelle Gunsel, the girl who seized an extra ballot box and sought unsuccessfully to have it counted, failed to nullify the election when it made 'em mother.

Wherefore they called on Mayor Buffum and the Council tonight and became leader, Attorney L. E. Whealton in his plea for the City Manager's scalp.

"We would have no trouble getting signatures to the petition or marshaling a majority of the votes in the recall election, but we would like to avoid any trouble, by having you dismiss Mr. Hewes and appoint Lee Whealton man in his place," said Attorney Whealton. He made no specific charges.

Mayor Buffum and the Council together pleased, although not all present. The former seemed to think that the delegation had some grounds for complaint, inasmuch as Hewes had been appointed by them. He, however, it was decided that the charges against the City Manager should be drawn up in writing and handed to the Mayor.

"They'll be in your hands within twenty-four hours," promised Whealton, and the hearing was stopped its wobbling for the evening.

How I Got Rid of Burning Feet

Prof. F. T. McIntyre, well known vaudeville tourist and lecturer, says: "For years I was compelled to wear shoes two sizes too large, to be able to walk with any comfort at all. I tried soaking my feet in medicated baths, powders, plasters and foot-treatments galore, but no relief. My burning callouses and soreness refused to go, while the pains from corns and bunions continued to torture both mind and body, which upset my entire nervous system. One day, very fortunately, I met a lady from Egypt who gave me a little box of Gypsy Foot Relief, which she said was a secret from the Egyptians. After using it a short time, the awful burning stopped, the callouses came off in chunks, leaving the skin of my feet clean and smooth, while the pains from corns and bunions seemed to disappear as if by magic. From that time, I said a joyful good-bye to over 20 years of indescribable foot misery. I would not take a hundred thousand dollars to again go through those years of agony. Now I feel like walking every foot sufferer to get a box of the wonderful Gypsy Foot Relief."

Note.—Gypsy Foot Relief, referred to by Mr. McIntyre, may be applied in a minute, without fuss or bother. Sure, quick relief comes three minutes later, or the makers give back the small amount you pay. It is sold in this city by

SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE NEARS

Coal Miners May Return to Work Next Week

Union Leaders Confident of Early Agreement

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7. — Settlement of the bituminous coal strike by the end of the week and the starting of the 650,000 miners back to the pits by next Monday seems to be confidently expected by officials of the United Mine Workers following today's initial parley with a group of producers, representing between 25 and 30 per cent of the tonnage mined in the four States of the central competitive field.

John L. Lewis, national head of the miners, said tonight, upon adjournment of the conference until Wednesday, "I am hopeful and thoroughly confident that the suspension will end this week. The conference recessed until Wednesday, in the belief that other substantial interests would announce their participation in the meeting."

PRESSURE IS BROUGHT

The inference is that pressure is being brought to bear upon Illinois and Indiana operators to come in. Their scales committees are due to meet today. The wires have been busy all day urging them in. At the conference producers of between 45,000,000 and 50,000,000 tons in the central field sat in. Indiana and Illinois operators were absent, so were Southern Ohio and the main Pittsburg field. Indications were reported that the Western Pennsylvania group, which led in refusing to go into a four-State conference last winter, is dividing. Both sides here look for accretions from Illinois and Indiana. Alfred M. Ogle of the Vandalia Coal Company, is expected tomorrow.

UNION PROPOSAL

The proposal of the union is:

(1.) Continuance of the old rates and working conditions that prevailed under the old contracts that ended April 1, the same to run to next March 31.

(2.) The setting up of machinery within the industry to serve as a fact finding agency and to map out a reorganization scheme that will put mining on a sound, modern basis. This body either to be appointed by President Harding or selected subject to his aproval.

What terms the operators will advance against this have not been determined. They may suggest a cut of 10 or 20 per cent in wages, but the general belief appears to be that the settlement will be on the basis of the old 1920 scale, with the "check off" and all the other old conditions prevailing up to last April 1, intact. The expectation of the union men is that it may take a few days to reach an agreement with the tonnage represented here.

DISCUSS SETTLEMENT

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 7. — A plan for settlement of the coal strike has been discussed by Ralph Crews, who has been prominently identified with the operators, and W. A. Glasgow, Jr., counsel for the miners' union in important cases, according to A. M. Ogle, president of the National Coal Association. Mr. Ogle, in a statement to the Associated Press, declared this plan was apparently the basis of reports from Cleveland to the effect that a strike settlement might be affected at the conference called there by President John L. Lewis of the miners.

Mr. Ogle declared, however, that so far as he knew no interests or districts other than those now represented at Cleveland would attend the conference. Mr. Ogle added that the plan proposed by Mr. Crews and Mr. Glasgow would "no doubt receive serious consideration from all the interested parties."

EXEMPTION BOARD CHAIRMAN LOSES

MUST PAY JUDGMENT FOR DAMAGES FOR FALSE IMPRISONMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—J. B. Casserly, chairman of a selective draft-exemption board in San Francisco in 1918, must pay a judgment of $750 damages obtained against him by Rey B. Wheeler for false imprisonment, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals held here today. Wheeler, according to the evidence, responded to the draft to Casserly's board, but later obtained a permit to go to sea. He was later imprisoned for a night on suspicion that he was attempting to avoid the draft, despite his isdplay of the permit and other papers excusing him from the immediate operation of the draft.

He sued for $10,000 and the lower court gave him $750.

The little island, Dr. Hays says, although far from the beaten track of travelers in Alaska, has an orchestra of Indians and a choir of forty, all directed by missionaries.

LIKE OPEN AIR JAILS IS REPORT

Indian Expert Urges Full Citizenship and Freedom for Red Men

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PASADENA, Aug. 7.—Indian reservations are open-air prisons and should be done away with, Dr. Frederick Monsen, Indian expert, declared tonight at the organization meeting of the Indian Welfare League here. Dr. Monsen favored citizenship and freedom for the Indians, who, he said, were fully worthy of it.

"There are no aboriginal people anywhere," he said, "so worthy of respect as the American Indians. Before the coming of the white man they had attained a marvelous degree of civilization, considering that they were without metals and were still in the stone age.

"This civilization was destroyed by Europeans, who in addition to murder and robbery, tried to supplant the natural religion of these people with a religion they could not understand. No Indian, I believe, is even entirely sincere in a foreign religious belief."

Dr. Monsen said that the Indian had suffered through politics and the failure of the American government to honor any of the treaties made with them.

He praised the Indian civilization in Arizona and New Mexico, declaring there were no better behaved men, women or children anywhere in the world, and that immorality and crime were virtually unknown among them.

"They need no jails or insane asylums," he said.

Miss Ida May Adams, a lawyer of Los Angeles, also spoke.

The purpose of the Indian Welfare League was explained. It is to abolish the reservation system and the Indian Bureau, and make the Indians full citizens with full citizenship responsibilities. They should develop their own industries, too, and not adopt those of the whites, in the opinion of the league.

SACKS FOR COTTON TO COST MORE

Higher Duty Rate May Cut Exports from America to Mexico This Year

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CALEXICO, Aug. 7.—Sacks used for cotton picking in Mexico, which formerly cost from 25 to 30 cents duty to take across the line, have this year increased to $1.25 each, according to word received by the American Brokerage Company. The cost of the sacks on the American side last year was $1.35 to $1.50 each, aside from the duty, making each sack cost approximately $2. At that rate the sacks this year will cost about $2.75 each.

It is hard to get an estimate as yet of how many picking sacks will be bought on this side and taken across, but last year brokers figured about ten sacks to the hundred acres. This year it has been stated that it may take slightly more than that number. While definite figures are unavailable as to the total number of sacks that may be needed across the line, some idea may be gleaned by a rough estimate from the reported number of acres in cotton which should bring the number of sacks used to approximately 15,000.

In previous years each picker has been required to buy his own sacks.

SEEK "PRINCE" AS BIGAMIST

Pretender to French Throne Said to Be Factory Hand, Dishwasher and Muchly Married

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—"Prince Louis Henry de Bourbon," who left a glittering Russian uniform behind in his New York apartment when the police went there to find out whether he was not in fact Harold Schwarm, a New Britain (Ct.) factory hand, was being sought today by Boston police on suspicion of bigamy.

Officers were checking up reports that four women had been married to the man in a career that at various times included a job as a dishwasher at Taunton Insane Asylum; that his first wife was said to be Miss Ethel Abetz of New Britain, Ct., whom the "Prince" is alleged to have married in Hartford in 1918, and the second wife, Miss Catherine Lynn of this city, a department store cashier. The third is reported to have been a nurse in the insane hospital and the fourth a Brooklyn (N. Y.) girl, who was employed in the Metropolitan Hospital on Welfare Island.

Ninety-sixth street knew him for a few scintillant days, now sought in Boston on suspicion of bigamy, achieved the pinnacle of his fame in New York last week when, attired in all the splendor of his Russian uniform, he got himself arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was released later. The pretender to the French throne disappeared Saturday, pausing only to take an Italian wolf hound, which he described as a present from the Pope, after a detective had visited him to inquire whether it were true as was reported, that he was Harold Schwarm of New Britain, Ct. A few hours later the Princess, described by her spouse as a prominent society girl, also dropped out of the picture, leaving behind in the apartment only Joe Terry, an ex-sailor, who had acted as secretary to his highness, and Cheeto, the Prince's royal monkey.

CONGRESSIONAL SHAKE-UP PENDS

Many Leadership Changes Are Expected

Several Senate Committee Chairmen Lost

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Radical changes in leadership of the two parties in the Senate and House are certain to be made in the next Congress.

This is true regardless of the result of the November elections. State primary defeat and the death of a number of prominent party leaders already having made it apparent that the organization of the upper legislative body must be materially shifted.

The House virtually will be stripped of its present Republican organization leaders, as Floor Leader Mondell of Wyoming, Representative Fess of Ohio, Representative Green of Vermont and Representative Kelly of Michigan all are retiring to make the race for the Senate.

In the Senate several of the committee leaders who have handled the administration fights for party measures, like Senator McCumber of North Dakota, chairman of the Finance Committee, and Senator New of Indiana, close personal friends of President Harding, have gone down to defeat in their State primaries, while others, such as Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, Republican Floor Leader in the upper body, and chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, and Senator Poindexter of Washington, have hard fights still ahead of them.

The certainty that many of the older leaders of the House will retire from public life March 4, next, has started a lively scramble among the younger men there for the places of prominence. This is true on the Democratic side as well as on the Republican. It has been reported authoritatively that Representative Kitchin of North Carolina, who because of ill health has been unable to perform his duties as Democratic floor leader at any time in the present Congress, will not be a candidate for re-election as his party's floor manager.

CONTEST IS EXPECTED

This probably will result in a contest between Representative Garner of Texas and Representative Garrett of Tennessee, in case the Democrats are in the minority in the next Congress, as they are in this. Should they capture the next House it is expected that these two Democrats will be aspirants for the Speakership.

Representative Hull of Tennessee, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is expected to make the race again this year, and it is confidently expected by his supporters that he will be sent back to the House. Because the Republicans now have a greater majority in the House than the Democrats have a total membership, few politicians believe that the present minority will become the majority next year.

Many close observers believe that Representative Longworth of Ohio will be elected Republican floor leader of the House if Speaker Gillett is re-elected to his present position. The fact that Representative Walsh of Massachusetts, who is usually Acting Speaker in the absence of Mr. Gillett, has decided to accept a judgeship in Massachusetts, makes Mr. Longworth's chances much better.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon will retire from the House March 4 next. Representative Kinkaid of Nebraska, one of the oldest men in this Congress, died recently, leaving vacant the chairmanship of the committee on arid lands.

SHIFT IN LEADERSHIP

The defeat in the Kansas primary of Representative Campbell, chairman of the Rules Committee, will make an important shift in the House leadership. Campbell was an avowed candidate for the speakership in the next House. He was a pronounced "dry" and was co-author with Senator Willis of Ohio of the Campbell-Willis anti-medical beer bill. Representative Snell of New York, who will succeed him as chairman under the seniority rule, is a pronounced "wet."

Over on the Senate side Reed Smoot is expected to become chairman of the Finance Committee with the retirement of Senator McCumber. Senator New, defeated for the Senatorial nomination by Beveridge, will give up the chairmanship of the committee on territories and insular possessions.

Senator Page of Vermont, the oldest man in the Senate, is not seeking re-election. He is chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee and it is expected that if Senator Poindexter is re-elected he will become chairman of that committee.

FLIGHT ENDED BY WRECK OF PLANE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) Aug. 7. The airplane of Lieut. James H. Doolittle, which crashed into the surf near Pablo Beach last night when he attempted to take off for a one-stop, one-day flight from Jacksonville to San Diego, was so badly damaged that it will have to be shipped to an aviation depot for repairs, the aviator said today after an examination.

Lieut. Doolittle would not say whether he would attempt the flight after repairs were made.

PIER FALLS; HUNDRED GET BATH

Babies Float on Water, but Reporter Couldn't See the Story

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. — The World was notified late this afternoon by telephone that a pier in a small Long Island village, somewhere in the vicinity of Babylon had collapsed, throwing more than 100 persons, mostly women and children, into deep water. Fearing a tragedy the World immediately telephoned to a Babylon newspaper man.

"Oh, yes," came back the answer. "It happened yesterday afternoon."

"But what happened- Was anybody drowned?"

"Oh, no," said the reassuring voice. "Nobody was drowned, a lot of folks were waiting for the ferry to Amityville. They were on a kind of pier at Gilgo Beach. It's deep water there. Well, the pier collapsed and threw them into the water—about 150 of 'em, I guess. There were some pretty small babies. They floated. There were a good many men and they dived and hauled everybody out. Nobody got hurt."

"When did this happen?"

"Well, now, I don't just know," drawled the Babylonian. "but I guess it was around 3 o'clock. No, maybe it was 4 o'clock. Anyway, there's nothing to it. Everybody was hauled out all right."

"It was a mighty narrow escape."

"Well," the complacent voice from Babylon added, "it was all over in no time and everybody was hauled out all right."

TWO ARE KILLED IN DRY RAID BATTLE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STEVENSON (Wash.) Aug. 7. — Paul Hickey, said by officers to have been a leader of a band of moonshiners, was shot and killed by a posse near here late today after a raid on a still in which W. E. Rorison, deputy sheriff of Vancouver, Wash, was killed, and J. A. Morgan, a Federal prohibition enforcement officer of Tacoma, Wash., was seriously wounded by the moonshiners. Two men of Hickey's band were captured after his death and brought to jail here.

CHANGE OF LIFE WOMAN'S TRIAL

Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is of Great Help at This Period

Metropolis, Illinois. — "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for eight months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only able to be up part of the time, when I was advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty, do all my housework, washing, ironing, scrubbing, and cooking, all there is to do about a house, and can walk two or three miles without getting too tired. I know of several of my neighbors who have been helped by your medicines." —Mrs. EMMA CULVER, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Illinois.

Sunday School Cornet Player in Padded Cell

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
POMONA, Aug. 7. — A young man was picked up by Officer Browning this afternoon, wandering around in Central Park, wearing a bathing suit and carrying a cornet. He was immediately taken to the police station and placed in a padded cell. After several hours of reflection he gave the name of Clarence Newton of Huntington Park, while the cornet case bore the name of Floyd Billings. He said that Billings was his roommate in a Seventh Day Adventist college in South Dakota. He stated that he played the cornet in a Sunday-school orchestra. He is being held pending the arrival of authorities from Huntington Park to take him back to his friends.

Bob Kinsey Reaches Third Round of Play

Bob Hinckley Eliminated by Yale Star

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Victories for all but one of the California entries marked the beginning of play in the Southampton challenge cup men's singles. The program was opened in the face of strong northwest winds and was ended by rain in the late afternoon. Three players of the original fifty-two remain in the third round, one of them being Robert Kinsey of California, who defeated John Maguire of Hampton, 6-1, 6-2.

The strong opposition of Charles S. Ford, Jr., of New York, junior national champion, against Willis Davis of California, winner of the Pacific coast season, featured by the match between Davis and Ford, 1-6, 7-5, 6-4, after overcoming a four-love lead. Ford opened set by breaking through Davis in a long deuce session, to which Davis evened the score at 5-5 with his own service.

R. Whitbeck of Yale, won over Bernard Hinckley of California in the closest match of the day on one of the grand courts, at 7-5, 6-2. Hinckley took a lead of 5-4, in the opening set to have his opponent brace and force straight games.

Robert Kinsey of California defeated J. J. Gore, the Washington star, in the first grand stand match of the day, and came through with flying colors by dropping only two games in the first set after trailing the second at love. A brilliant reverse twist service of Kinsey bothered Kinsey in the first few games, but fast court work by the latter, together with a varied striking from all parts of the court, settled the issue.

[illegible] EASY VICTOR

[illegible] Richards, runner-up last year and winner of the trophy the previous season, will play his first match [illegible] afternoon.

Three California players started out in the metropolitan singles championship for women on the courts of the Nassau Country club, but when rain called a halt [illegible] county-fiver remained.

Miss Hazel Wills Mallory won both of her matches and advanced to the third round along with seven other contenders, including Miss Edith Sigourney and Miss Leslie Bancroft, both of Boston.

Miss Helen Wills, the California girl star who won by default from Gladys C. Hutchins of New York in the first round, and Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup were in the midst of their second-round match when the downpour came. Mrs. May Sutton Bundy of California making a third effort to score over her rival, Mrs. Mallory, this season, will play her first match tomorrow, having drawn a bye in the opening round.

Miss Margarita Strahler of Los Angeles defeated Miss Alice Vail of New York, 6-1, 6-1, in the second, and the other Californians entered did not get matches.

Dolled Up for the Big Doings

The annual Southern California regatta has attracted sporting craft from far and near, over 100 having heaved the anchor overboard at Newport Harbor. Above are a part of the huge fleet which was dressed in holiday attire yesterday.

BROWN AND DUNDEE IN FEATURE GO

Young Farrell and Young Constantine Mix Tonight at Vernon Arena

Jimmy Dundee, the grand-daddy of all Coast lightweights, will meet the newest boxing sensation, Young Brown, in the four-round main event of the weekly boxing show at Doyle's Vernon arena tonight. A more evenly matched bout could not be made and records of previous scraps between the principals indicates that a hair-raising struggle will result.

Dundee claims two decisions over Brown and the little Mexican whirlwind has twice had his hand raised over Jimmy. But in both bouts that Brown won, according to Dundee, the referees lost their jobs the following day.

Owing to an injury to Frankie Jerome, Matchmaker Wadhams has substituted Young Farrell against Sailor Constantine in the semi-wind-up bout. Constantine has just returned from New Orleans, where he won a home with fight fans by his speedy boxing. Farrell is a clever workman and has the fastest right cross of any of the local featherweights.

Leo Matlock, who fought himself into the main-event class at Hollywood, will make his first appearance at Vernon. Matlock is matched with Sailor Larry, the colored middleweight. Bobby Allen, a clever boxer, is matched with Joe Grimm, a promising novice from San Bernardino. One of the best preliminaries of the night is expected to result when Young Sumner meets Soldier Graham. They are welters, and both are sluggers. Willie Jackson, new bantamweight, has been matched with Young Sol, a southpaw.

Billy Velardi, a 138-pounder who has kayoed several opponents in local arenas, will be given his first start at Vernon against "Dummy" Welch in the curtain-raiser. George Blake will referee.

ZONING MAP IS ON EXHIBITION

HIGHLAND PARK PROPERTY OWNERS TO SEE DISTRICTING RESULTS

Roy Max of the City Planning Commission will exhibit the new zoning map which has been prepared for the Highland Park district today at the gas office, 5622 Pasadena avenue, from 2 until 6 p.m. and at the Arroyo Seco branch library from 7 until 9 p.m.

During these hours persons owning property east of the Los Angeles River and north of Dayton street will have an opportunity to learn the zone in which their property has been placed.

After the map has been exhibited opportunity will be given for property owners to present complaints to the Planning Commission. When the map is finally completed it will be sent to the City Council.

WARREN BOVARD JAUNTS NORTH

To represent the University of Southern California at the sessions of the Pacific Coast conference, Warren Bovard, comptroller of the University of Southern California, will leave for San Francisco tomorrow. Plans for the annual New Year's football game at Pasadena will be discussed at this meeting. While in the north, Maj. Bovard will hold conferences with the comptrollers of Stanford and the University of California.

Seems almost an unpardonable sin to come back from your vacation with a grouch.

But here I am with my pro rata of sunburn and a peeve. Met some interesting folks, got acquainted with some fine new neighbors, and had a chance to get the other fellow's viewpoint by being a reader instead of a writer. Also was able to forget that there is any such thing as baseball, politics and petty squabbles, or any other pee-wee things in life.

So how come the grouch? Just a neighborhood affair. Some years ago I went out and bought myself a ranch, partly through stubbornness, because some who thought theirs was the last word in such matters told me that oranges couldn't be raised there. But I had dug down and found the soil deep and a peculiar loam which, wherever it is found, imparts a deeper green even to perennial green of citrus trees, while there is an almost ceaseless breeze drawn in from the distant ocean through a pass in the hills which I figured would temper the heat of summer and the chill of winter.

It all started mainly from an argument. But I wanted that parcel of land more because it was away from things generally, and a hill among the rolling hills. The nearest noise was the hum of autos along the macadam highway, with now and then the distant rumble of Salt Lake or Southern Pacific overlands, each a mile away. It was a good place to be alone and talk to yourself while the trees whispered to you and the same breezes fanned you which had a few hours before gently blown white-sailed ships at sea.

So it was that I launched my little eleven-acre oasis among rolling hills which are deep brown in summer and lush with green in winter. Since then others have come and planted orange, and lemon, and walnut, and avocado trees, and troublesome oil men and geologists seem interminably to be lurking about. But all the new settlers are good neighbors, so that isn't half bad. And there is at least the space of six acres between all of us, which means we will always be friends and have no arguments about whose chicken it was scratched up the lawn and that the morning paper won't have mysteriously disappeared from the lawn.

Mr. Maston, who says he is about ready to enjoy life, came out from Los Angeles and bought the piece adjoining. Said he wanted it for the view. Then Mr. Yarnall, who seems to have more money than he knows what to do with, came out and bought three hills. He is building three houses on them, one for himself and a couple for some relatives he apparently likes, each house to cost $100,000, according to the best neighborhood rumors. So the magnificent isolation of two years ago is being succeeded by good neighbors.

Could think of no better vacation than to give the trees a drink. Why, you could almost hear those trees say "thank you" as half a thousand crystal streams went purling down the hillside among the serried rows. When you are with trees long enough and often enough you actually get acquainted with them. Each tree has its own individuality and peculiarity, and you get to associating them with these until you have them all named. Mine range all the way from Baby Doll to Joe Gum. Some are contrary and intractable, some responsive and confiding. With what avid joy they drink and from their deep potations send forth the lively green of new growth. You plunge your sunburned face into the limpid depths of an overflowing stand and also drink deeply of the best drink ever conceived, drawn from underground rivers fed by the eternal snows.

Then, with the cold water dropping from your mane and down over your sunburned neck, your face is fanned to delightful coolness by breezes which a few hours before have gently blown white-sailed ships at sea. How do I know these breezes have blown white-sailed ships at sea? Because they come up from the seas, down about Hermosa, pass over Southern Los Angeles and on out through a draw between the Montebello and La Puente hills and then into the Sierra Madre Mountains, on the ragged crest of which they meet the warm currents from the desert and condense into wonderful cloud pictures, ever-changing but of never-failing majesty. Thanks to this clef made in the two hill ranges by the Rio San Gabriel, these breezes seem never to cease.

So I was getting along right well, completely forgetting there are such things as sweaty and noisome crowds, baseball troubles and those in the world who would prey on the misfortunes of others, until Gowdy Sutherland motors by. Says he is going East and wants me to give him a list of all the big football games, so he can take them in. Gowdy is all right, but his idea of bringing a guy back to those things he is trying to forget right in the middle of his vacation is all wrong.

But that isn't responsible for the grouch mentioned in the beginning. It's due to trouble with one of the neighbors. Our district has no real name at present. I have been calling my own hacienda "Purpling Shadows." Just calling it that to myself, not openly or in public. And there is a reason. Far as the eye can reach it is a vista of lights and shadows, constantly changing. Purple predominates, particularly at sunrise and at sunset. Those mountains to the north seem eternally purple, sometimes the great valley becomes an ocean of liveoaks purpling in the slant rays of the sun. Possibly it is a of purple or it may be the brown hills to the south with their splashes

FIELD DAY IS ENJOYED BY NAT RAY

Sportsman Wins Two Out of Three Grand Circuit Events

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NORTH RANDALL, CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—Nat Ray of Cleveland, formerly of Toronto, Ont., had a field day at the opening of the second grand circuit racing meet here today, winning two of the three events. One of his mounts, Peter the Brewer, owned by Ed Stout, Pontiac, Mich., captured the press trot with a value of $5000, the feature of the card.

Peter the Brewer was a favorite in the betting and took the event in straight heats. Baron Worthy and Eleanor Guy furnished what contest there was in the first heat in a fight down the stretch for the place, Baron Worthy winning second place. In the second heat Eleanor Guy reversed the decision, taking the place. Ray also drove Robert Direct, the favorite, to victory in the first division of the 2:14 pace.

The other event, the second division of the 2:14 pace, went to Buddy Mac in straight heats.

Just as the horses were scoring for the first heat of the 2:04 pace a terrific storm drove the thousands of spectators to cover and a heavy rain made further racing impossible. The events left undecided will be raced off tomorrow if the track is in condition.

The black silk of Edwin F. (Pop) Geers, dean of Grand Circuit drivers, was missing here today for the first time since 1888. Geers shipped his horses from Toledo to Davenport, Iowa.

Newport Harbor Presents a Brilliant Sight

Mayor Schnitker to Welcome Seafaring Convention

BY H. F. WEIAER
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEWPORT HARBOR, Aug. 7.—The Southern California Yachting Association regatta opened here this morning formally and in full form. There were no races of any kind on the schedule and the Corinthian yachtsmen spent the day in tuning up for the events that are to come and in swapping stories on the races and cruises of other days.

Tonight the entire harbor was a blaze of light. Along shore brilliant light and colored fire illuminated the bay, while the hundred or more yachts anchored along shore were strung with lanterns, many of them displayed flares of colored fire. Beautiful night fireworks and aerial bombs made the spectacle one of the most elaborate ever seen in Southern California waters.

Tomorrow will open the racing program with eight racing events on the list, to be followed in the evening by a dance in honor of the visiting yachtsmen at the Balboa pavilion, together with an address of welcome by Mayor J. WHITE KNOCKS OUT BARRETT

Philadelphian Hits Canvas in Third Round

Makes Good Showing Against Leonard's Challenger

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VELODROME, NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Charlie White, Chicago's leading contender for the lightweight championship, made short shift of Bobby Barrett, Philadelphia boxer, tonight in their scheduled fifteen-round bout, before a crowd of about 10,000 at the New York Velodrome.

In the first round Barrett bristled White's jaw with a right which came dangerously close to the "point."

In the second session Barrett battered White before him in a furious assault which had the Chicagoan retreating to the ropes steadily and backing out of range of the flailing arms of the flame-haired lad from Philadelphia.

QUAKER TEARS

Before the end came Barrett gave White an interesting session. The Philadelphian, a wild-swinging, heavy-hitting boxer who had no respect for the punching prowess of his rival, tore into White from the opening gong and forced the fight eagerly.

A powerful right hand uppercut to the chin knocked all the fight out of the Quaker City boxer in the third round. White's terrific uppercut, landed as Barrett came tearing in madly near the end of the third round, sent the Philadelphian flat on his face in the ring center where Barrett was counted out just three seconds before the end of the round.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—In the semifinal to the White-Barrett bout, Pal Moore of Memphis and Jack Wolfe of Cleveland, fought twelve lively rounds to a draw. The crowd did not like Moore's jumping tactics and booed the decision.

GIVEN HARD DACING

Charlie McKenna of New York, former amateur heavyweight champion, made his professional debut by giving a boxing lesson to Tim Kelly, of Brooklyn. McKenna covered Kelly's body with blows, closed one eye and cut a gash over the other one. He was given the decision at the end of their six-round bout.

GATES TIRES

Perfectly Natural Isn't It—

The cord or fabric carcass is the expensive part of your tire—and that's the part you ought to get every mile out of.

But if the rubber tread wears thin, the inside fabric soon breaks down. It doesn't get a chance to deliver it's full mileage.

Gates Super-Tread Tires have a wider and thicker tread that protects the inside fabric to the very end. Naturally, you get more miles.

Pick's Downtrodden Senators Arrive in City

Solons Due to Start Going Again This Week

Vernon Tigers Stack Up Against Portland

BY JOE BUSH

Charley Pick's downtrodden Senators pulled into town today, after having lost six out of seven games to the league leading San Francisco Seals last week. The Solons are here for a seven-game series with our Angels, who are just getting over the setback they received last Sunday at the hands of the Salt Lake Bees.

Before their series last week, the Senators were playing a good brand of ball and are about due to start going again this week. If ever a club was a victim of hard luck, it was Sacramento. Almost every man on their team has been injured some time or another this year and this has something to do with their position at the bottom of the league standing.

KOPP BACK IN LINE-UP.

Merlin Kopp, the speedy outfielder of the Solons will be with the team this week. Kopp was injured in Stockton during the early part of May and has been out of the game since. Rod Murphy, who was obtained from the Seattle Indians in an exchange for Billy Orr and is holding down third base for the visitors, will make his debut here as a Solon.

The squad from the heart of California has a fair twirling staff, a classy bunch of base stealers but lack power with the willow. In last week's series, the Saca were held to eight runs in seven games by the Seal hurlers.

It's up to the Angels to take at least three more games than the Seals and Tigers this week or they will have a very small chance of taking the pennant again this year.

In the north the Tigers meet the Ducks, the Oaks take on the Indians and the Bees tackle the fast-going Seals.

BOXING NOTES

Marty Burke, New Orleans heavyweight who gave Charley Weinert a sound fifteen-round lacing in the Mardi Gras city last month, may box Jim Tracey, the Australian heavyweight, for Promoter Edwards of the Coliseum. Promoter Tortorich also wants Burke to box Fred Fulton, naming September 1 as a suitable date for this attraction.

Word has reached here from New Orleans that promoters of that city would stage a Willard-Burke fifteen-round bout to a decision September 4.

Friends of Johnny Schiff are making his life miserable with questions regarding a black eye and other marks he is carrying. To all queries as to whether he is contemplating a "come-back," the former featherweight explains that he was injured while riding a horse on one of the movie lots. The subject seems to be a delicate one with this screen actor, and the details are lacking.

"Kid" Texas, hero of a hundred-odd ring battles and the possessor of the only rivals of Bull Montana's famous ears, answered a hurry call from one of the many studios for a wrestler. He was told he would have to prove efficient in at least twenty grappling holds, and he passed muster with the aid of a Spaulding book on "How to Wrestle—By Farmer Burns."

And now local boxers threaten to boycott Texas for what they term a "double cross," alleging he misrepresented the true facts concerning the manner in which he acquired his vegetable ears.

GRIFFIN TO BATTLE MARKS ON FRIDAY

Dick Griffin has been such a sensation these past few weeks at the American Legion Hollywood arena that Matchmaker Frank Crowley has lined up the champion bantamweight of the Coast, Georgie Marks, for the main event next Friday night.

Georgie Lavigne and Billy Algar, 142-pounders of note, are down for the semi-wind-up on the Legion card. The other bouts follow:

Frankie Kemp vs. Georgie Rivers, 118 pounds.
Pete Herman vs. Billy Deedy, 120 pounds.
Jack Burns vs. Danny Martin, 118 pounds.
Johnny Lee vs. Earl Little, 115 pounds.
Pete Herman vs. Ad Kemp, 118 pounds.

CHET NEFF TO MEET THE TEXAS WILDCAT

Another high powered bill of boxing bouts has been lined up for the Madison Square Garden for tomorrow night by Matchmaker Rufus Towles. Both the main event and the semi-wind-up should give the fans a run for their money.

Young Dudley, the Texas wild cat, will again be a main eventer. He is matched with Chet Neff, the latter who has been a favorite of local fans for some time. Bobby Gans and Young Ketchell will sling the gloves around in the semi-wind-up.

Three Gas Bags in Geneva Race Forced to Land

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GENEVA, Aug. 7.—The first of the balloons competing in the James Gordon Bennett race to come to earth early was the Spanish entry, Jesus Fernando Duro, piloted by E. Magdalena, which was damaged and forced to land in Grand Saconex, near here, after one hour's flight.

The leading balloons caught a strong upper current upon ascending yesterday afternoon and rushed with express train speed toward Berne. Reports from that city say the first three, flying from 900 to 1800 meters above the earth, were seen at 8 o'clock last night, and three others at 10 o'clock traveling rapidly in a northeast direction, which would take them to the vicinity of Lake Constance. Other solitary bags were seen south of Berne later.

Capt. George, who piloted the Belgian balloon Zellick, telegraphed to the committee that he had landed in a snowstorm in the forest northeast of Friedrichshafen at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Indications now are that the race will be much shorter than had been anticipated owing to bad weather.

TO BUILD NEW BALL PARK

If present plans materialize, Los Angeles will soon boast of the finest minor-league baseball park in the nation, according to an announcement made yesterday by representatives of William Wrigley, owner of the Los Angeles baseball club. An option on a proposed site for the new park has been secured, the property bounded by Thirty-ninth street, South Park avenue and Forty-first street having been selected for the location of the new concrete establishment, where local fans will be able to enjoy their baseball in all the luxury to which major-league rooters are accustomed.

It is planned to make the grand stand a double-deck affair, with a seating capacity for 21,000 fans, according to Charles Lockard, business manager of the Los Angeles club. Ample parking space for those who motor to the game will be provided and the walls of the park will be artistically screened with trees and flowers.

The entire space of this new location will not be used for a baseball park, but Mr. Wrigley also is making arrangements to construct a new factory for the chewing gum that he has made famous.

The Car With Guest Room

Half the joy of owning either a fine home or a fine car is in being able to entertain our friends.

Here is a new car, a wonderful car, for the big-hearted, companionable man, who takes a keen delight in sharing his pleasures—the sort of man who has a guest room in his home, as a matter of course, and uses it.

What a car this is for a country dinner, a touring party, picnic, or fishing trip!

Places for seven. Nothing skimpy about them either—big seats, comfortable for a day's trip. Driving position as easy, leg room as ample as any five-passenger car.

It is a new idea in car designing, providing the extra passenger capacity so often desirable, but without sacrificing leg room and comfort, or increasing weight and up-keep cost.

Mounted on the famous Westcott chassis, noted for its average of ten years life as against the national average for all cars of six and one-half years. It is the only car having a California type permanent top as standard equipment. Keeps its handsome appearance for years. Rigid frame plate glass winter enclosure $100 extra.

TWO HOMERS PER INNING A RECORD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 7.—Veteran baseball writers said tonight that Kenneth Williams, left fielder for the St. Louis Browns, who knocked out his twenty-ninth and thirtieth home runs in the sixth inning of today's game between the Washington and St. Louis Americans, set a new modern major league record, as they could not recall any other instance in modern baseball where one player cracked out two circuit drives in the same inning.

By hammering out the two four-base hits, Williams forged ahead of Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals, who has twenty-eight home runs for the major league home-run championship of the season. Jacobson was on base each time Williams clouted the ball in the right-field bleachers for the circuit.

KOSHER RESTAURANT SAFE BLOWN OPEN

Yeggs early yesterday morning opened the front door of the Klein & Weiss kosher restaurant at 331 South Spring street, with a passkey, carried the office safe to a rear room in the establishment, blew the door open with a charge of "soup" and then escaped with $545 in cash.

Detective Sergeant Hickey investigated, finding several fingerprints on the strong box. In blowing the door off the safe the yeggs smothered the sound by using several sacks of flour and old cloths found in the kitchen of the cafe.

MEXICALI TO BUILD STADIUM

New Athletic Club Will Foster Boxing, Swimming and Other Sports

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CALEXICO, Aug. 7.—Alfonso Davila, who holds the exclusive boxing permit in Mexicali, stated this morning that work will start at once in the building formerly known as the Eden Theater, next to the Bancaria Peninsular on Francisco Madero avenue, for the erection of a stadium.

It is the intention of Mr. Davila to form an athletic club with a large membership. Gymnasium paraphernalia, including Turkish baths, will be installed for the use of the members and the boxers who will do their training there.

"We are going to organize a club that will participate in all sorts of athletics such as boxing, swimming, football and baseball," stated Davila today. "We are going to bring to Mexicali the best boxing material obtainable in the United States and it will not be surprising if we match several champions this coming winter."

The club will be known as the Mexicali Athletic Association, Inc. Applications for membership will soon be off the press and an invitation is extended to the men of Imperial Valley to join the club. The building will be finished, according to Davila, by September 15.

Australians Suffering from Bad Colds

Jean Borotra May Not Play for France

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—The Australasian and French Davis cup lawn tennis teams practiced on the Chestnut Hills court of the Longwood Cricket Club today in preparation for the semifinal contest there on the last three days of this week. Of the Australasians, Pat O'Hara Wood was still suffering from neuritis, but his condition was improved, and he said he would be able to play in the doubles Friday if he should be selected for the team. James O. Anderson was slowed up by a heavy cold, and Gerald L. Patterson said he was not yet at top form.

HARD STROKING

Patterson displayed some hard stroking, while Anderson was exchanging shots with Wood. The French players arrived late, but in time for some good warming-up play with each other, and with Longwood Club players, and Sam Hardy, captain of last year's United States Davis cup team. There was still some doubt whether Jean Borotra would play, with indications that Andre H. Gobert and Henri Cochet would carry the burden for the French in both singles and doubles.

IS YOUR ENGINE COMPRESSION POOR?

THE WORLD'S BEST LUBRICANT

Old man Oildag HIMSELF SAYS.

Such being the case, you are losing power through leaky piston rings.

The oil burns and forms carbon in the piston grooves, which finally prevents the rings from taking up slack between piston and cylinder walls—as a result compression is lost, and power diminished.

OILDAG

Pure Graphite is the finest anti-friction material known, and also possesses anti-carbon properties.

Oildag, by preventing carbon deposits within your engine, insures cool running, saves fuel, holds up compression and insures the life of your motor indefinitely. See your service station man today and fill up with Oildag.

peculiarity of the atmosphere, but there never is an hour when some bold feature of nature is not taking on the royal robe of purple.

So I had a sneaking idea that "Purpling Shadows" would be the only true and correct name for our district.

Then one of the neighbors happens along and suggests that we name it "Avocado 'Hill." Ye gods! The avocado is all right. But what has it done to merit such a distinction? Sounds poetical until you learn that it means something to eat. It suggests breakfast. Good name for a nursery or a fruit stand. But as a name for a district how does "Avocado Hill" fit into a hundred rolling hills? Better than Jonesville, Jimtown or Hillsburg, but it won't do. Plainly there's one neighbor I can't get along with. He's too practical. Next he will be inviting somebody to start a store or begin circulating a petition for a postoffice.

P. S.—In every other way he is a fine neighbor.

THE BEST DRIVE

I usually consider the easiest man to beat in a match is the long driver. A long driver naturally takes pride in his ability and consequently forces himself to the utmost to get yardage. The result all too frequently is that such a player sacrifices rhythm and usually displays a tendency to hook or slice. This last fault is a necessary corollary of using strength at the expense of rhythm.

I remember very well an old gentleman who never drove more than from 100 to 125 yards, who used to take an especial delight in inveigling some stalwart young college boy into a match. The youngsters would usually look with a sort of disdain on the contest, but that was only at the start. They would step up to the ball and with a mighty swat get twice the distance of the veteran, but he almost invariably took their measure and enjoyed a good laugh on them in the finish because his 100-yard drive always went the right direction while they, with alarming frequency, landed in the rough.

The classic instance of the short driver defeating the "cannon-ball" artists is the match of Travis, who, playing against Edward Blackwell of England, was frequently outdriven as much as 150 yards on some holes by the muscular Englishman in a British championship. Travis didn't have the drive, but he had everything else, and took the honors by a comfortable margin. When one looks over the list of golf champions, he sees the list of very few players noted for particularly long strong driving. Jesse Guilford is an outstanding exception.

And so we may say that while a long drive is, of course, a golfing asset, it must never be employed at the expense of consistency and direction.

My friend, Jock Hutchison, drives a very long ball and his method is quite interesting. When he is going with the wind he puts his ball pointing upward on the sand tee. When he is going against the wind he places the ball pointing downward. This is an idea which many drivers striving for distance may well follow. The drive with the wooden club is, of course, the fullest stroke of the game, but a player should never forget that it is better to get distance consistently than to get an extraordinary long ball off the tee on a few holes and then perhaps top, slice or hook several shots. Aside from the thrill which comes from driving a particularly long ball the shot is not of exceptional value. At least, in my own experience it makes no difference to me if my opponent outdrives me from the tee.

In trying for distance one must always calculate the wind, direction and velocity as pointed out above. The condition of the course is also a factor, for on a hard-baked course the roll may be counted on to carry a ball further than a shot which is played with all carry. Walter Hagen, for example, drives a high, all-carry ball, always good for about 250 yards, and he is seldom outdriven excepting by a player, who is favored by a hard-baked course.

JUMPS OUT OF WINDOW; IS INJURED

Woman Suffers Broken Arm in Leap from Second Story to Pavement

Told by her husband in a fit of pique to carry out her threat to jump out of a second-story window in their apartment at 417 Temple street yesterday, Mrs. A. A. Duran did so, according to the police, and as a result suffered a broken left arm and possible internal injuries.

According to Detective Knapp, who investigated, Mrs. Duran and her husband had engaged in an argument concerning Mrs. Duran's intention to visit an aunt. The wife is said to have threatened to jump out of the window to the sidewalk two stories below.

"Go ahead," replied her husband, according to Detective Knapp. At the Receiving Hospital the husband told Detective Knapp that he thought at the time that his wife was "only fooling."

ON July 29, 1922, the lowest prices ever quoted on U. S. Passenger Car Tires went into effect—Royal Cords included.

These new prices should give confidence to dealers and car-owners that no lower basis of quality tire prices will prevail.

Bear in mind that these prices apply to the most complete line of quality tires in the world.

Remember, too—as you read the following table—that U. S. quality has been positively maintained.

What is Your Labor Turnover?

How much does it cost you to fire one man and hire another? Those who know say that it costs from $25 to $200 per individual, depending upon the nature of the industry.

Many employers are decreasing labor turnover and increasing good will on the part of workers by giving them the protection afforded by Excess Compensation Insurance, to supplement the Workmen's Compensation Insurance provided by State law, which permits a maximum indemnity of only $30.83 per week. In this way it is possible for employees to receive as high as 75 per cent of their salaries—up to $40 per week.

The cost of this investment in good will is moderate. Let us give you the complete particulars.

WOULD MARRY ANYONE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Offering to marry any man who would step forward for the purpose, so that she would not be held up by immigration officials, Miss Rose Pocha, a comely young woman who had lived in New York for ten years, arrived today on the steamship Mt. Clay of the United American Lines and is being detained at Ellis Island.

Miss Pocha, who was employed by the Hotel Pennsylvania and lived in this city, had gone to Germany three months ago to visit relatives and friends, but before her departure had taken out only her first naturalization papers.

With her were two other young women who also were sent to Ellis Island, as also was a woman born in this country, who had married a German. The first two were Mrs. Martha Busch, who had been employed in the Claridge, and Mrs. W. Deppe of Milwaukee.

Miss Pocha made her offer of marriage after the ship arrived at quarantine and she had been apprised of her certain detention. Several young men, among them one or two newspaper men, appeared deeply interested, but maintained a discreet silence.

Another young German woman, who had never been to this country was admitted because she is engaged to marry Arthur S. Resbein, assistant radio supervisor of the United American lines. She is Miss Ada Peick of Hamburg.

Among the passengers on the Mount Clay was Mrs. Louise Meise, who, three years ago, after living in this country for fifty-three years, suddenly packed up nineteen trunks and announced to her husband she was going back to the fatherland to spend the remainder of her days. Upon her arrival here today, she said she "was glad to be back home."

GASOLINE PRICE INQUIRY

Senate Committee Told Refiners Have Lost Money on Products Since 1920

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Opening its inquiry into gasoline prices, the Senate Manufacturers' Committee was told today by R. I. Welch, secretary and counsel of the American Petroleum Institute, that refiners in the United States as a whole had produced gasoline and other petroleum products at a loss since late in 1920. The recent declines in gasoline prices were attributed by the witness to reduction in crude-oil values.

The maintenance of the market in crudes, said Mr. Welch, was due to an apprehension that production in some of the Mexican fields was due for a rapid decline.

"There was also the apprehension," Mr. Welch added, "whether the domestic production of oil would be at a high enough rate to meet the requirements of domestic consumption and exports of the Mexican crude production fell off as was expected. However, the development of a series of important pools in the mid-continent field and in California has increased the current supply of crude to a point where in connection with the crude oil stocks on hand, there is no longer any need for apprehension regarding a sufficient supply to meet present demands."

Mr. Welch told the committee that "it seems reasonably apparent that the continuity of supply will be largely dependent upon the discovery of new and important pools."

Questioned as to further reasons for the decline in crude prices and the consequent drop in gasoline, Mr. Welch said that it appeared that the business judgment of the oil men, together with a lack of storage facilities and employment of the financial resources, combined to cause most purchasers of the crude product to decline to buy.

THREE INDICTED IN WAR FRAUD CHARGES

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL USED INFLUENCE IN PURCHASE PLANT, CHARGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The Federal grand jury investigating war fraud cases today indicted three men for alleged conspiracy in connection with the sale of the Old Hickory powder plant at Jacksonville, Tenn.

Those indicted are Ernest G. Morse, former Director of Sales of the War Department and now president of the Foreign Sales Supply Company; Everly M. Davis, president of the E. M. Davis Chemical Company, New York, and Alexander W. Phillips, New York said to be associated with Davis.

The indictment charges that these men conspired to have Morse get approval of Newton D. Baker, then Secretary of War, to the sale of the plant to the Nashville Industrial Corporation for $3,500,000, when other persons were prepared to pay $1,000,000 more for the property.

Morse, being a government employee, knew the character of the Nashville bid, which came in with others, and advised the Secretary of War to accept it. The Nashville bid is said to have been sufficiently in excess of other bids for the property, but conditions were attached which in the end made the offer less than others submitted.

Upon Morse's advice, the offer was accepted. Former Secretary Baker testified before the grand jury in the matter.

LANDRU

The French Bluebeard

By William Le Queux

On the morning of April 4, as Landru's own record shows, he determined to put Mme. Pascal out of the way for the sake of her small possessions. He used poison in this case, administering it in wine. Mme. Pascal died at 8:15 that afternoon, his entry shows, probably after hours of agony. At 8:30 p.m. the same day Landru was back in Paris with Mlle. Segret and after telling her a story of his journey of Nantes, he took her out to supper!

Meanwhile, the dismembered body of the poor dressmaker, in three weighted sacks lay hidden in the depths of the Eure River, some twenty kilometers from Gambais, at a lonely spot where the road runs close to the bank, between the village of Charpont and the Forest of Chandon. All Mme. Pascal's clothes and her hat he apparently destroyed in the kitchen stove before leaving.

The sum old Caillard gave the great assassin for the furniture in the Rue Stendhal was, in English money, under £17.

From that fatal day in April, 1918, "Bluebeard" lived happily at 74 Rue Rochechouart, with Mademoiselle as his companion. He was always polite and charming towards her, and she frequently went to Gambais, where, of course, all the evidence of his latest crime had been carefully obliterated. But he was often absent "on business," as he declared, for many days at a time. Sometimes he went to attend to his motor business—often the selling of stolen cars, from which he was now deriving a small and unstable income. He joined a gang of motor-car thieves—an offshoot of the blackmailers of whom the elegant Blaisot was the head—and for some months he prospered, and spent upon his latest fiance all the money he secured by his criminal "deals." At his garage, cars were disguised, engine numbers altered, and various means taken to obliterate their identity.

This continued until the middle of December, when Landru, in the course of his pretended occupation as a dealer, met a Mlle. Marchadier, a rather good-looking woman, aged 37, who was a gay little landlady, who let rooms in the Rue St. Jacques. She was about to give up her house, she told him, and she desired to sell her furniture. Now the lady in question had been of the demi-monde, and had recently taken rooms and established a pension. This, however, did not pay, and she had resolved to sell up and return to her old life.

Under the name of Moret, she had approached a man for the sale of her furniture, and Landru had presented himself as a possible purchaser. Unfortunately, she seemed to have been greatly taken with him, the result being that they had talked more of herself than of her furniture.

Next night the great love-criminal invited her to dinner at a restaurant in the Boulevard des Italiens, where they had a long and confidential chat, he representing himself to be a bachelor of considerable means and displaying a well-filled wallet.

Landru's account book has a complete record of the expenses of this meeting and further sets forth that he paid her 2000 francs for her furniture. One vanload of this he sent to Neuilly and the other he sold to old Caillard. Then, the accounts show, he bought two one-way tickets to Gambais, being apparently very short of money. They went to Gambais on January 14, Mlle. Marchadier taking with her two pet dogs.

From the same record, I learned that on the way Landru bought a small quantity of coal at Houdan, on his way to Gambais. The use to which the fuel was put may be conjectured from the fact that, after Mlle. Marchadier entered the door of the Hermitage, she was never again seen. What disposition was made of her no one knows. I personally dug up the skeletons of the two little dogs from beneath the cement floor of an outhouse. The police say the woman was poisoned and her body cremated. That Landru thus recovered his 2000 francs his own accounts show.

He had left the capital with mademoiselle on the morning of January 13, but in the early morning of the following day he was back again with Mlle. Segret at the Rue Rochechouart! She noticed, with surprise, that he had suddenly become affluent. He had transacted some highly satisfactory "business" he told her, and, indeed, in his notebook there is set down the fact that on the following day he paid debts amounting to 1045 francs out of the money for which he murdered Mlle. Marchadier! Why he purchased her furniture and paid her for it seems a mystery. Perhaps it was to establish a kind of bona fides with old Cailliard.

That the poor, fascinated woman of the Rue St. Jacques was not the last of Landru's victims is well established. There were others that of highly ingenious theft, heartless blackmail and deals in certain stolen property and jewelry—all committed with an audacity that was truly amazing when it is recollected what a hue-and-cry had been raised for M. Diard. It was, indeed, his cool audacity and his disregard of the repeated warnings of both his friends, Caillard and Blaisot, that was undoubtedly the cause of his undoing.

The crime of murder is disclosed sooner or later, and often in strange and most unexpected ways. It was so with Henri Desire Landru, who was, after his long series of adventures and terrible crimes, now apparently leading a very happy life, devoted to a woman who, after a visit to the house of death, lived to return and relate her experience.

The story of how Landru was discovered and his awful crimes brought home to him is certainly an amazing romance in itself.

It came about in this way.

JUDGES UPHOLD ELECTIVE PLAN

Jurists, in Convention, Vote Against Change

Favor Three-fourths Vote for Jury Conviction

Bar Association Opposed to Supreme Court Codes

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—Judges of the California courts assembled today in the judicial section of the California Bar Association convention, decided not to go on record in favor of a change in the present elective system of filling judicial offices.

After considerable discussion they laid on the table a proposal that the Constitution be amended so that only the names of the incumbent judges appear on the ballot, the people merely recording their approval or disapproval of the incumbents and the Governor filling by appointment offices where a vote of disapproval was cast.

Justice Curtis D. Wilbur of the Supreme Court advocated the measure, saying it was a well-known fact that the administration of justice suffered when a judge had to go into politics to retain his office, while Justice W. H. Langdon of the District Court of Appeals opposed it, asserting that it was a good idea for a judge to go before the people and retain his contact with them.

The section voted in favor of three-fourths verdicts in criminal cases and allowing judges in State courts to sum up and comment on evidence after the manner of Federal courts.

Justice Wilbur's proposal that in felony convictions the defendant be under State supervision for a long period was voted down, on the ground that it was not the province of the judges to advocate greater penalties or to ask for changes in the law.

Both the judicial section and the section of the Bar Association which discussed procedure went on record as opposed to having the rules for civil and criminal procedure formulated by the State Supreme Court instead of by codes adopted by the Legislature.

Tonight the association was addressed by George W. Wickersham, former United States Attorney-General, and Julius H. Cohen of New York, who opposed unlawful practice of the law and advocated restriction of the fields of legal operation of trust companies and similar institutions.

Combates en Italia

GENOVA, agosto 6.—Después de un combate corto, pero sangriento, que tuvo lugar anoche, y en el que perecieron cinco, los Fascisti ocuparon el famoso palacio de San Giorgio, símbolo de la vieja gloria de Génova, y lugar de unión de la conferencia de dicha ciudad.

Mientras la policía y las tropas se ocupaban en mantener el orden en la población, una columna de Fascisti rodeó el palacio y penetró a la fuerza por la puerta de enfrente. Les tiraron del interior, pero una vez adentro, los Fascisti pusieron barricadas en puertas y ventanas. Violentamente se envieron tropas, las que, ayudadas por autos blindados, abrieron fuego sobre el palacio. No pudieron, sin embargo, penetrar en él, y hoy en la noche sigue el edificios en poder de los Fascisti.

OLD BUNKO GAME HAS SAME LURE

Victim of Fake "Charity" Scheme Tells Police of Disappearing Roll

The "charity game" listed M. Kristite of 1601 Donaldson street as one of its innumerable bunko victims last night.

Mr. Kristite contributed $4400 to the "charity box," the oldest bunko scheme on the police records. Two weeks age he was visited by a man who desired to build a house for him. They became friends. Several days ago Mr. Kristite and his new friend met downtown. Another stranger, inquiring directions to a hotel, joined them.

Stranger No. 2 said he had a fortune to give to charity. He wanted Mr. Kristite to distribute it for him, but necessarily Mr. Kristite was urged to display a sum of money as a bond. They met again yesterday at Echo Park.

Mr. Kristite produced $4400. Stranger No. 2 also showed a huge roll of money. Both placed their fortunes in a tin box. It was given to Mr. Kristite for safe keeping, but when he opened the box at his home his $4400 was gone—also the stranger's fortune. The box was empty. The story was told in Mr. Kristite's report to Detective Garrott at Central Police Station.

Wouldn't Match Coins, So Lost All His Money

L. D. Smith of Hydesville, Humbolt county, was waiting last night for a train to his home town. A stranger greeted him, invited him into the shadows of an alley to match coins.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Summary of Oil Situation Indicates That Present Depression is Only Temporary

Like every other question of moment, there are two sides to the oil situation now existing as the result of the recent cut in the price of California crude. From one source or side comes a pessimistic view of the situation, in which the pessimists harken back to the chaotic condition of the industry fifteen to seventeen years ago. They say that the old-timers do not relish a possible repetition of the experiences at that time, when oil went as low as 16 cents a barrel. The two situations then and today are in no way analagous. The demand for oil at present as compared with the times they speak of is about as 100 to 1, and every new invention and every expansion of mechanical force is either directly or indirectly based upon petroleum at the present time, for either the driving power or lubrication of parts. This is a mechanical age, and might also be termed the "oil age."

Another argument dwells upon the rapidity of drilling methods today as compared with the old way. If at the present time we were dependent upon the methods of fifteen years ago in producing oil, we would be at least twenty-five years behind our present transportation and communication progress. It is utter folly to try to compare the oil situation of today with even five years ago, especially as relates to fuel oil.

MENACE OF SALT WATER

Salt water having appeared in the last of the major proved oil pools of Mexico is bound to have a world-wide effect upon fuel oils in the very near future. From Mexico has come the bulk of the fuel oil used in oil-burning ships of the Atlantic. American and British interests which have in the past few years turned their vessels into oil burners based on the low price of Mexican crude, are already beginning to wonder what the result of this new innovation will be.

The invasion of salt water has been so rapid during the past few weeks in Mexico that even the geologists, including Ralph Arnold, who predicted the end of the flush production by the close of 1922, are astonished at the swiftness of the encroachment. Not only our shipping, but many of our manufacturing industries of the Atlantic Coast, have been depending on Mexican crude for fuel and after the exhaustion of stocks stored in Mexico and the United States they are wondering where they will be able to purchase fuel oil at the low price which they have paid for years for Mexican oils. Already certain industries in and around New York, according to reports from there, are seeking supplies from the Gulf Coast.

The Mexican situation is bound to affect the fuel oil market of California as well as gulf ports, and already along the Atlantic seaboard, according to the Oil and Gas Journal of July 27, orders and rumors of orders have caused fuel oil to advance in price, and large quantities are being shipped. Mexican crude has not been forthcoming, even with an offer of $1.30 per barrel.

CRUDE IS MOVING

Reports from the Chicago territory state that fuel oil has moved out of mid-continent points in surprisingly large quantities during the last few days, in view of the rail situation, and was going to widely scattered buyers. The market was aided late in July, when Mexican fuel oil was advanced 25 cents, and Mexican bunker oil has advanced 50 cents per barrel recently.

Joseph E. Pogue, author of Economics of Petroleum, recently made the following statement: "The petroleum industry is given to dramatic manifestations. Following close upon the appearance of salt water in the last of the major proven oil fields of Mexico, the price of domestic crude petroleum is slashed and a period of price stabilization that has been a feature of the crude oil market during the last six months is abruptly terminated. Why should the event that has been looked forward to for months as an effective medium of relief to a somewhat too ample supply of petroleum be greeted with a drastic reduction in domestic price?"

GASOLINE MARKET

One of the best known mid-continent independent producers at present in Los Angeles, Dan Danciger, president of the Danciger Development Syndicate, as well as the Danciger Oil and Refining Company, stated yesterday that in 1920 when Pennsylvania crude was selling for $6.50 per barrel and mid-continent crude for $3.50 to $4.50 per barrel three times the present price of crude, gasoline was actually selling for less than it is today. This condition, according to H. T. Snell, an official of the Texas Company, is due to the fact that while oil stocks on hand are from 25 to 35 per cent larger than a year ago, it is also true that the demand for gasoline is from 70 to 80 per cent greater. Mr. Snell further states gasoline must pay what the by-products lose. However, it is doubtful if a single instance can be shown where the refining industry is suffering any great loss from their by-products.

In May of this year, the thirty-four California oil refineries operated at 94.5 per cent of their capacity of 313,510 barrels, produced larger quantities of every petroleum product than in April and stocks on May 31 were greater than on April 30, excepting gasoline and lubricants. Storage of gasoline was 56,394,512 gallons on June 1, which was 9,446,936 gallons less than May 1, a withdrawal from storage of nearly 10,000,000 gallons, or nearly 16 per cent of storage stocks in a month's time.

Viewing the gasoline situation of the country as a whole, according to R. L. Welch, secretary of the American Petroleum Institute, despite the record-breaking production of 12,229,975 barrels of gasoline in May, consumption was so large as to cause a draft of 849,064 barrels on stocks. The same authority states that in comparison with the number of automobiles in use in the United States gasoline stocks are lower than in any year since 1918, except 1920 and lower than the average for 1918 to and including 1921. At the present time there is a continued heavy draft on gasoline stocks which will continue for at least three more months, by the end of which time there will be very little gasoline in storage.

RELIEF IN PROSPECT

Our California overproduction is unquestionably one of low grade or fuel oil. We have not produced for several years quite enough gasoline to supply the demand of the Pacific Coast. Relief of the fuel oil situation in view of the demand for heavy oils in the mid-continent and East is bound to come very shortly. The storage stocks in Mexico are very largely being held to fulfill contracts made in Europe and along the Atlantic seaboard for Mexican oil, which are still in force. It is impossible to contract for a single barrel of Mexican crude at present in New York at a price anywhere near the figures of a year ago and, of course, an excessive figure will turn the buyers from Mexico to the lower price crude elsewhere.

Considering the above facts it would seem that the present depression of the oil industry in California and the rest of the United States is merely temporary and certain of short duration.

THE COUNTRY OVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Aug. 7.—Four large tracts of virgin Douglas fir timber in Western Washington aggregating 400,000 acres of primeval forest, will be opened to logging and lumber manufacturing operations this autumn and contracts have been awarded for the construction of the necessary plants and camps for logging operations. This tract comprises more than 70,000 acres on the Washington side of the Columbia River and plan include the building of a town to house 4000 persons.

Three other large enterprises will be under way shortly and as a result there has been a heavy booking of orders among manufacturers of logging engines.

The car shortage is beginning to be felt. Imports of coal from Canada have eased the domestic and industrial fuel situations, but seasonal demand for cars to move the wheat and fruit crops is expected to make the railroad equipment shortage acute.

Preliminary harvesting of oats in Western Washington indicates a light crop due to prolonged dry weather.

CLEVELAND (O.) Aug. 7.—Tire production in the Akron district reached a total in excess of 2,750,000 casings in July. Fuel shortage in this State, however, is growing more acute. Shopping has not been seriously affected, although day passenger boat service between Cleveland and Detroit has been curtailed.

Building construction in this region is extremely active and as a result few workers are idle.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 7.—The change of many plants from coal to oil as fuel has enabled Kansas City to go ahead with less interferences from the coal and rail strikes than any other large city in the country, according to local manufacturers and business men. Situated near the midcontinent field and with an unlimited supply of oil available at a low price delivered by pipelines, many plants have been adapted to the use of oil fuel.

Kansas City's wholesale millinery business last year amounted to $5,000,000 and hat manufacturers who supply retailers in many large cities in the Midwest are confident this year's sales will far exceed that record. Millinery wholesalers are now holding their annual style show and hundreds of buyers have flocked here to buy their fall stocks.

Shortage of peach baskets is becoming a serious problem with the Arkansas growers. Unless the supply, which has been delayed by the rail strike is received shortly many growers will suffer heavy losses.

STOCK MARKET IS CONFIDENT

Outlook Gives Traders More Hopeful Atmosphere

Strike Conference Viewed With Expectation

Foreign Exchange Gives No Clew to Development

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Such news as came to light over Sunday, concerning either our own labor controversies or the London conference, was sufficiently reassuring to prove that the stock exchange had been well advised last week in its attitude of composure. Today's market reopened in what appeared to be an atmosphere of still greater confidence that the solution of the coal and railway strike problems at any time was not far distant. Railway shares led the further recovery which occurred; many of them advancing a point or more and practically all of them closing at the day's best prices.

The President's proposal, made to both parties in the shopmen's controversy during the afternoon, that the seniority question be left for decision to the Railway Labor Board, may have embodied the turn of events which financial markets had been expecting. Probably it will not be regarded in conservative financial circles as an ideal solution, when the refusal of the executives to concede restoration of such prior rights to returning strikers was based on the ground of good faith to the loyal men, and when uniform precedent of previous railway strikes has been against such restoration of rights when a strike was settled. If the new proposal is accepted by managements and unions, the shopmen's strike would doubtless end, but the judicial quality of the Labor Board would be tested exactingly afterward.

STRIKE OUTLOOK

Without regard to this proposal in the railway strike, financial judgment continued hopeful regarding results of the coal strike conference; this notwithstanding the known divergence of opinion among different operators as to a reasonable basis for agreement. This hopefulness rests largely on belief in the recognition, by both sides in the controversy, but especially by labor, that the fuel embargo cannot be allowed to continue; there was no distinct news from Cleveland during the day either confirmatory of that view or otherwise.

Nor was there any means of learning what was the actual drift of things at the London conference which today resumed discussion of the German reparations. This time the course of foreign exchange gave little or no clew even to financial judgment; the Paris rate declined, while the mark rose slightly, and sterling was distinctly strong. Today's top rate of $4.46 1-4 for sterling was the highest that the market has reached in more than seven weeks.

California Municipal Bonds

Revenue derived for the payment of principal and interest of Municipal Bonds comes from general taxes levied on all taxable property in a community. Taxes are a legal charge on all property owners and come before any obligations which they may incur as individuals. This explains the high degree of safety which is inherent in good Municipal Bonds.

Investors who desire such safety and who need Municipal Bonds for diversification will investigate the issues listed below.

Investors whose incomes are of sufficient size to make tax exemption profitable will take the present opportunity to buy Municipal Bonds such as those listed below at today's low price.

Comparison of present Municipal Bond yields with the average yield of so-called "normal times" will show that Municipal Bond prices are much below future levels.

A Sound Bond at a Substantial Discount

THE history of public utility issues, bearing 5% and 5½% interest, both in California and throughout the United States, shows that many of these issues have commanded uncommon premiums — ranging up to 12% or more above par. This indicates the unusual desirability of the General and Refunding Mortgage 5½% Gold Bonds of the Los Angeles Gas & Electric Corporation on the present price basis of 96½ and interest. The attractiveness of this price is evidenced by the strong security and the splendid record of earnings back of these bonds, and the assured future growth and prosperity of this company. L. A. County Leads in Farm Products

According to the latest government figures available, Los Angeles county has the greatest agricultural production of any county in the U. S. In 1919, the aggregate value of crops was $71,000,000. This vast sum added to the coffers of Los Angeles business is just another reason why the white spot is becoming brighter.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. — With comparatively few exceptions, the upward movement in prices was continued in today's stock market.

While the market lacked indications of any extensive public buying, a good investment demand was noted for some of the high-grade rails and industrials, several of which reached new top prices for the year.

President Harding's new strike settlement plan reached the street too late for more than cursory reading, but its immediate reflex was favorable, traders apparently being of the opinion that it would be found acceptable to both sides.

Among the rails which broke through for new top prices were Chesapeake and Ohio, Chicago and Northwestern, Pere Marquette, Great Northern preferred, St. Paul preferred and Southern Railway preferred, which registered gains of 1 to 2 points. The strength of the Northwestern group was attributed to the unusually good crop prospects for that region.

Strength of such equipment issues as American and Baldwin Locomotive and Pullman company, which were up 1½ to nearly 3 points, was founded on the belief that the railroads soon would be required to bring up their depleted car and locomotive stocks to take care of the expected heavy demand this fall.

Montgomery Ward's extremely favorable semiannual earnings statement furnished the incentive for the buying of mail-order shares. Exceptional strength of Kresge and Woolworth, which soared 5 and 8 points, respectively, was ascribed to the possibility of extra disbursements this fall.

Other strong spots in the industrial group were Adams Express, Associated Oil, Corn Products, Otis Steel, National and Loose-Wiles biscuits. Public utilities also were in good demand, substantial gains being scored by North American, Detroit Edison, Philadelphia Company and Brooklyn Edison.

Rumors of further price cuts in automobile tires caused a reaction in the shares of that group, Goodrich dropping 4¼ points. Chandler Motors was also reactionary. Total sales were approximately 550,000 shares.

Call money opened at 3½ per cent and rose to 4 in the afternoon, holding at that figure until the close. Time money rates were virtually unchanged.

Sterling exchange was up ¼ of a cent, but the continental rates were irregular. Owing to the bank holiday in London, there was little activity in foreign exchange here. Rumanian exchange, which recently has been active, touched a new high price today, lei rising 20 points to 1.05 cents.

BUSINESS NEWS OF BUSY MARTS

Summer Money Tightness is Not in Evidence

Shipping Revival Slow; Too Much Tonnage

Spirit of Optimism is Felt at Week's Start

The week opened with an undercurrent of optimism manifesting. Eyes were turned hopefully toward the coal conference in Cleveland, and the news that the President is again interesting himself in the rail situation found an encouraging reaction.

Everywhere the belief is uppermost that when the strikes are ended the upswing of production and consumption will almost immediately send the pendulum swinging outward toward new records. In brief, the feeling is that such depressing influences as are now current are merely choking the stream temporarily and not establishing any permanent barrier.

Seasonal repressions are in order, but locally, at least, these do not appear to be at all serious, and business is holding up remarkably well for August. Bank clearings are maintained in consistent increase over a year ago, and retail trade is excellent. There are fewer visitors in the city, but on the contrary the resorts are well patronized.

Oil men are interested in the gasoline investigation which was started in Washington yesterday by a Senatorial committee which will endeavor to ascertain if prices are warranted in the face of record-breaking reserves. E. L. Welch, Sr., of the American Petroleum Institute, told the committee that in spite of high retail gasoline prices, from the fall of 1920 to the date of the Senate resolution authorizing the inquiry, refiners, taken as a whole, produced gasoline and other petroleum products at a loss. There were two reasons for this, he said, first, four products of crude oil and by-products are needed to produce one barrel of gasoline and the principle by-product of fuel oil is sold at all seasons of the year below cost of crude at the well, and, second, the burden of cost must therefore be borne by the principal product, gasoline.

Yesterday Standard of Louisiana followed the lead of Standard of New York and New Jersey and reduced the price 1 cents per gallon, making it 23 cents at filling stations.

THE MONEY MARKET

The usual tightening in money rates which is normally expected during August and September will not materialize this year, according to local bankers who are in touch with nation-wide borrowing conditions. The movement of fall crops under normal conditions would cause a sufficient demand for funds to bring about a slight increase in interest rates. However, because of the unusual factors bearing on the situation this year, money rates are liable to decline still further instead of advancing.

A number of elements are influencing this unusual tendency in the money market. Money, like commodities, follows the law of demand and supply. Just now the factors that are causing the supply of loanable funds to exceed the demand and weaken interest rates are: first, the coal and rail strikes have clouded the business horizon and caused borrowers to become hesitant about making new commitments; second, the building boom, which has absorbed a great deal of funds this spring and summer, is beginning to slacken somewhat, and third, Great Britain continues to send us gold and will soon begin paying large sums on her war debt.

While a declining money market has no great effect on the interest charged by California banks to local borrowers, it has a direct effect on increasing the value of outstanding securities in the hands of local investors. Far-sighted market observers who see the coming trend in money rates advise prospective purchasers to buy their bonds and dividend stocks before money becomes any cheaper.

SHIPPING REVIVAL SLOW

Conditions in the shipping industry are commencing to interest Californians more than ever before now that it is discovered that the depression in ocean traffic has cut down the demand for fuel oil and has been one of the factors in the recent 50 per cent cut in California crude prices. However, current reports can give them little encouragement as to the coming of immediate revival in shipping.

Ocean freight rates, now at levels below the lowest of 1921, show no tendency to increase, indeed, there is some evidence to indicate a further softening. The scarcity of cargoes promises to continue for months, with consequent sharp competition among shipowners for a volume of business. A particularly keen rate war is being waged on the Pacific Coast and in spite of the owners' attempt to make carrying charges attractive, it is said that there are now more vessels tied up in San Francisco Bay than at any time in recent years.

The right perspective on the situation requires emphasis on the great excess of tonnage in existence as compared with tonnage in demand. Figures compiled by the Standard Daily Trade Service show that the world has more ships than before the war, while its traffic amounts to much less. Perhaps a third of the world's ships are idle.

The number of Shipping Board vessels at work, 327, is the lowest on record. One-third of France's tonnage remains idle, two-fifths of Spain's tonnage and half of Belgium's.

Shipyards are not altogether prostrate, because they always have repair work to do. They also have a few new vessels to build. During the past year, for instance, the world's tonnage has a new increase of 2,500,000 tons, according to Lloyd's Register. During the second quarter of 1922 only American yards showed an increase in production as compared with the preceding quarter. On July 1 1,150,000 tons were under construction in this country as compared with 136,000 on April 1.

The revival of shipping must wait on the revival of international trade, and the shadow of European politics still lies over that.

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

PROTEST NEW PORT RATES

Shipping Board Schedule is Condemned

Local Shippers Say Wages Not Equitable

San Francisco Given More Pay for Work

A definite break between private shipping interests at Los Angeles Harbor and the United States Shipping Board was strongly intimated at the port last night as a result of the new stevedoring schedule just adopted by the board. While several steamship and stevedoring companies have adopted the new scale under protest, they declare action will be taken unless the new wages and working conditions are either changed or modified.

Discrimination against the local port in favor of San Francisco is also charged by Los Angeles operators. The new stevedoring schedule was adopted one week ago after Commissioners T. V. O'Connor and Arthur Saint of the Shipping Board and made a thorough survey of conditions on the Pacific Coast.

COST PLUS BASIS

Under the old conditions, Shipping Board vessels were loaded or unloaded on a cost plus basis; the stevedore company receiving 15 per cent above the actual cost of handling cargo. Under the new schedule, rates are specified for all commodities on a short ton basis of 2000 pounds. Shipping interests at the port declare that specified rates for San Francisco are from 5 to 20 cents higher on the ton than at this port. The new scale follows:

Commodity	Los Angeles	San Francisco
Ballast, fertilizer, glass	$ .60	$ .85
Canned goods	.75	.85
Cotton, in gang	1.10	1.10
Lumber, lath, shingles	1.75	1.85
Paper, in rolls	.60	.75
Pig, sow or mine	.70	.80
Cotton, compressed	.55	....
Cotton, square bales	....	.55
Grain	.55	.60
Sugar	.60	.60
Iron, rail and accessories, per ton	.85	.85
Iron, rail, over 40 ft.	1.00	1.00
Lumber	.90	.90

Shipping men declared there is no possibility of a cut in the wages of longshoremen employed at the port but asserted that other measures of protest will be taken. It was pointed out that the present wages of 80 cents per hour for ship work and 70 cents per hour for cargo handling on docks have been adopted by the Shipowners' Association of the Pacific.

RATES PROTESTED

The cargo-handling companies also protested against the new rates for mail and baggage handling as put into effect on the 1st inst. by the Shipping Board. Mail is handled at Los Angeles Harbor at cost of labor plus 12 per cent, they assert, while at San Francisco 15 per cent is allowed. Transfer distance is almost four times as great at Los Angeles as at San Francisco, it is claimed.

E. E. Reimsburg, agent at Los Angeles Harbor for the Shipping Board, declared yesterday that no attempt at discrimination against the local port had been made by the Shipping Board Commission in drawing up the new schedule.

"Commissioners Saint and O'Connor were here more than a week," he said, "and I accompanied them on a very complete survey of the port and its working conditions, and cargo-handling facilities.

"There may be certain deficiencies in a few items, but I am certain that there is a difference of not more than 1 cent per ton in the schedule as a whole. The varying working conditions of the two ports will more than make up this difference.

"I have received a number of protests and hear reports of drastic action to be taken by the operators, but I am also prepared to say that the board will meet all of these actions.

"The Shipping Board's attitude in this matter is not mercenary," he continued, "but it is our intention to see that the Shipping Board gets a square deal. The operating cost of a Shipping Board freighter while at sea is about $3000 per month. During the two or three days that she spends in port the stevedoring bill often runs as high as $4000.

"There is obviously something amiss there," he concluded, "and it is to stop such practices that the new schedule has been worked out and adopted."

PORT NOTES

Hugh Fitzpatrick, one of the best known shipping men on the Pacific Coast, arrived from San Francisco yesterday to become Southern California manager for Swayne & Hoyt, Inc., operating lines of freight vessels to Australia, South African and Gulf ports.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, who for the past fifteen years has been traffic manager for Swayne & Hoyt, has also been connected in official capacities with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, the Oil, Transport and Portland Steamship Company and Struthers & Dixon, Inc. He announced yesterday that main offices of Swayne & Hoyt, Inc., will be established here within the next week, and southern business being handled here.

The steamer Corona will arrive at this port on the 15th inst., with approximately 3000 tons of cargo for local consignees. The Corona has been discharged by the Hammond Lumber Company and after discharging cargo will proceed to the South to enter the lumber trade for Los Angeles Harbor from Atlanta.

H. S. Pickering, who has been in charge of Swayne & Hoyt's temporary office at 639 Bonnie Brae Street, Los Angeles, will remain here as port superintendent of the company, it was announced.

Shipping at Manila is temporarily paralyzed by a marine strike, according to wireless dispatches received at the port last night. Inter-island vessels as well as governmental Coast Guard vessels and ships operated by the government railway are tied up as a result of the walkout of the marine engineers. The engineers are said to have given out no less than a week's notice when the ship operators refused the increased wages. Inbound water and rail traffic is tied up by the strike.

The passenger liner Santa Ana, in the intercoastal service of the Pacific Mail, will arrive here on the 17th inst. on her first call at Los Angeles Harbor, it was announced yesterday from the W. R. Grace line by Frank Silva. After the usual brief stay here she will proceed from this coastal port to New York and will return to Los Angeles Harbor on her first trip to Panama and the west coast of South America.

HARBOR TRADE INCREASES

New Freight Services Will Be Inaugurated; Marine Postoffice to Be Established

Increasing importance of Los Angeles Harbor as a world port is responsible for the decision of the Postoffice Department to establish a marine postoffice at the port through which will be handled mails to and from every corner of the world. As the latest development of the new service the Shipping Board liner Elkridge, when she sails from this port Friday, will take out a large shipment of mail direct to the Dutch East Indies.

Thereafter, regular twenty-day service will be maintained to the East Indies and Orient on Shipping Board vessels, according to Harry G. Weaver, superintendent of mails at the Los Angeles Harbor postoffice. On the same day that the shipment leaves here for the Dutch East Indies, the Pacific Mail liner Cuba will also take out a large consignment of mail to Central American ports.

Arrival here during the next ten days of British and Scandinavian freight vessels from the continent and Orient will also mark the establishment of several new services to Los Angeles.

Today the British steamer Centurion of the Harrison Direct Line is here with large consignments of pig iron, chalk and general merchandise from Europe. The vessel became famous during the World War for her running of the submarine blockade in the North Sea and Mediterranean, then being known as the Crown of Galicia.

Two sister ships of the Centurion are also due here on their maiden voyages. They are the Huntsman, due from Liverpool on the 10th inst. with 2800 tons of steel billets and 500 tons of silver sand for this port, and the Benefactor, now loading at Glasgow for Los Angeles.

On the 15th inst. the new Danish motorship Tonking, on her maiden voyage in the European-Pacific service of the Danish East Asiatic Company, is due from Gothenburg with 2500 bags of sulphate of potash. The steamer Bolivia of the same line is also due within the next week, coming from the Orient to load here for Europe. Next Thursday the Swedish motorship Balboa, operated by the Johnson Line, will arrive from Christiana with 3000 tons of print paper and a large consignment of pig iron for local consignees.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 7.—The seven-ton Japanese fishing schooner K. I. K., which piled up on the beach at Point of Rocks, twenty miles south of Point Loma, in a thick fog Friday night, will be a total loss, according to word received here today. Six Japanese fishing smacks tried in vain late last night to pull the K. I. K. back into deep water. The craft was owned by F. Iwata and was valued with equipment, at $2000.

The 2000-foot radio mast of the naval radio station on Point Loma will be torn down tomorrow morning. The huge mast, built of wood, is the first radio tower erected here. Its usefulness ended when the mast is considered obsolete. It will be replaced with one of fabricated steel.

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 7.—Charter of the Japanese steamer Iwatsuno Maru to load wheat here for Europe was announced today by Balfour, Guthrie & Co. The vessel is now at a Japanese port and is expected for September loading.

Portland stevedoring concerns today held a conference to discuss the proposed rate cuts announced by the Shipping Board. No conclusion was announced but some of the representatives present announced their opinion that the proposed cuts should be protested as unreasonable.

With a capacity cargo for Manila and ports in Japan and South China, the steamer Hanseata departed today in the line of the Columbia Pacific Shipping Company. Capt. J. D. Method sailed as master.

The Hanseata will be the only Columbia Pacific sailing in August, the regular twice-a-month sailings beginning with the steamship Wm. O'Rowa, which has been scheduled to sail September 1 next. The West Keats will be back in time for the mid-September sailing. The West Keats was disabled by grounding at Pasay and had to go on dry dock at Manila.

SEATTLE, Aug. 7.—The steamship Nyanza of the Pacific, Caribbean and Gulf line arrived in port tonight and is discharging more than 1000 tons of cargo loaded at Gulf points for Seattle. She has 400 additional tons for Tacoma. Outward the vessel will load large quantities of lumber, shingles and canned products of the Northwest.

The steamship Eldorado of the same service, after loading in this vicinity for the last week, sailed this afternoon with all her local space taken.

Among the passengers coming to Seattle on the steamship President Jackson, due here the 15th inst. from the Orient, are the Duke and Duchess De Vallerrand and W. W. Fowler of Chicago, president of the General Far Commerce. Fowler is said to have secured for his company a large contract for equipment on the Chinese railway, now building.

The Lake Washington Canal will be closed for a week beginning today, according to orders yesterday by Col. H. A. Schuts of the army engineer corps. The closing is for the purpose of repairing the locks.

TACOMA, Aug. 7.—Arrivals from Peru and Chile, via ports, in the next twenty-four months include the ships of the General Steamship Company Line and the Colum of the Grace Line. Both vessels have ore for discharge at the smelter. The Colusa leaves of the big ore rivers in the Grace Line and has approximately 4500 tons of ore to discharge here. It is said the vessel will load general freight out from here for southern ports.

Among the inbound ships on the United American Line steamer Arizonian at the Tacoma dock is 900 tons of coke. This coke is a synthetic product and imported on account of the lack of coke here at present. It is said to be a very difficult part of the vessels freight to discharge on account of the coke having caused many fires. The steamer has a large amount of freight, among which are dozen. Quick Wit of Youth Averts Train Disaster

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FOND DU LAC (Wis.) Aug. 7.—The quick wit and presence of mind of a farmer lad saved a speeding Northwestern "gold special" passenger train, en route to Green Lake, from being wrecked and saved the lives of seventy-five passengers, including a score of millionaires from Chicago and other points.

The heavy train, leaving this city at 7:15 p.m., was speeding westward, when a farmer boy, who was on his way to see his lady friend, noted a washout of a bridge on the right of way and flagged the train, which was finally sent back to this city.

The boy, after flagging the train, started on his way declaring that he had a date with a girl and had to hurry. Before anyone could secure his name, he had disappeared in the storm that was raging at the time. The heavy rains had washed out the bridge and several sections of rail.

INGLEWOOD TRIAL OPENS; WOOLWINE PLANS TO AID

District Attorney's Entrance to Fight Expected as Klan Case Begins

The State of California may add another representative to its side in the Ku Klux Klan trial here, it became known yesterday when it was learned that Dist.-Atty. Woolwine is now considering entering the case to assist Deputies Keyes and Turney in the presentation of the people's action against the thirty-seven Klansmen charged with the responsibility for the asserted unlawful raid at Inglewood last April.

The possibility of a third prosecutor loomed on the horizon of the "Invisible Empire" at the close of the first day's sessions in Department Twelve, when Mr. Woolwine conferred with Mr. Keyes and Mr. Turney shortly before the adjournment for the day.

Final decision in the matter will not be made by Mr. Woolwine until tomorrow. While no statement was forthcoming from the District Attorney, it was learned that the importance attached to the case by the Attorney-General of the United States and by the Department of Justice in Washington, as outlined in Atty.-Gen. Daugherty's letter to Mr. Woolwine and Chief Deputy Doran several days ago, is one of the factors entering into the consideration of Mr. Woolwine's contemplated action.

MAY STOP CAMPAIGN

In the event that the District Attorney enters the case, he is expected to give up active campaigning for the Democratic nomination for the Governorship between now and the primaries, although this does not mean that Mr. Woolwine has withdrawn from the race, his friends said last night.

News of the new shift in the State's forces came while the attorneys representing the State and the defense were in the first stages of what promises to develop into a battle of peremptory challenges—the preliminary step in selection of the jury to try the defendants.

With both sides fighting every inch of the way, and with the atmosphere in Judge Houser's court tense with expectation of dramatic developments, seventeen men and women had been called into the jury box by the time the court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning. Seven of these were women.

When the adjournment was taken eleven prospective jurors had been passed for cause and one had just taken his place, to be questioned this morning. Only four of the 200 odd peremptory challenges available to both sides, under the law, had been used, each side ex-

PROPOSES WORK FOR MOTORISTS

Justice Would Have Auto Speeders Make Little Ones Out of Big Ones

Speeders and reckless drivers will have to help repair the county roads if a plan proposed by Justice Hanby is adopted. The justice advocated placing traffic violators to work on county highways. It was pointed out that because the county detention camp is too far away at present, the plan may not be put in effect at once.

"During this month, while I am handling county speeding cases," said Justice Hanby, "I do not intend to allow any leeway to speeders. I shall hold them down to just what the law allows. We have to cut down speeding and accidents if it is necessary to send every reckless and speeding driver to jail."

Sam Logresso, arrested for going fifty miles an hour, on San Fernando Boulevard, was sentenced to the County Jail for five days. He explained to the court that he was racing with another driver.

Granddaughter of Last Mexican Governor of California Called

Mrs. Marie Olvera de Treosti, 46-year-old wife of N. Treosti and daughter of Don Augustine Olvera, Judge of First instance during the last years of Mexican rule in California, and granddaughter of Pio Pico, last Governor of California during the Mexican regime, died at 7 p.m. last night at the family home, 607 Fairview avenue.

Mrs. De Treosti was born in Los Angeles on June 24, 1856, and lived her complete life here. During her childhood she attended the Sisters of Charity Convent, then located at Macey and Alameda streets. Shortly after her twenty-third birthday anniversary she married N. Treosti on Nov. 24, 1879.

Besides her husband she leaves three sons, M. A. Treosti, P. T. Treosti, and P. A. Treosti, one sister, Mrs. Josefe Olvera de Castillo; grandsons, Andrew Davidson, Nicholas Treosti Jr., and M. A. Treosti Jr.; granddaughters, Misses Julia Treosti, Precila Treosti, Agnes Davidson, Clarita Davidson, and Viola Davidson. She was also related to many prominent Spanish families who have lived in California, among them the Arguellos, Lugos, Carrillos, Ortegas, and De la Guerras, branches at Santa Barbara.

Funeral services will conducted 9 a.m. tomorrow from the Plaza Church with solemn high mass. Burial will be made in Calvary Cemetery.

RELIGION CAUSE OF DOWNFALL

Boy Descends Much Too Rapidly After Climbing to Top of Revival Tent

The downfall was the real thing, so realistic that it resulted in a compound fracture of Muriel's left arm. Muriel sought religion in a big revival tent at Sixtieth and San Pedro streets.

The boy reversed the general method of gaining admittance to the big tent. Most boys crawl under. Muriel didn't. He climbed up and on top of the tent with the intent of surprising the evangelist and his worshippers by sliding from the apex down to the sawdust floor.

The tent ripped. Muriel descended much too rapidly. Many there were who thought for the moment that the heavens had parted and an angel had come to earth.

Anyhow, Muriel had his wing fixed up at the Receiving Hospital by Police Surgeon Dodge, who told him he was only a fledgling—too young to fly.

OLD RECORD FOR VOTERS IS OUTDONE

Total of Two Years Ago in Shade by 75,000, for City and County Primary

Surpassing the registration for the Presidential primary election of 1920 by 75,289, the total registration of voters in Los Angeles city and county for the primary election on the 29th inst., as shown by tabulations completed in the office of Registrar of Voters Lyons last night, is 429,801.

With the exception of a small number of corrections and eliminations, this huge registration, the greatest for any election in the history of Los Angeles county, will stand.

The registration is almost 10,000 in excess of estimates given several weeks ago by Registrar Lyons.

Registered Republicans, with a total registration in city and county of 253,457, are considerably more than 50 per cent in the majority over the combined registrations of Democrats, Progressives, Prohibitionists, Socialists and those who declined to state party affiliation.

The registrations for city and county by parties follow:

	City	County	Total
Republican	143,585	109,872	253,457
Progressive	959	626	1,585
Democratic	43,928	32,433	76,361
Socialist	1,954	2,441	4,395
Prohibition	1,291	1,349	2,640
Declined to State	47,096	25,121	72,217
	243,757	186,044	429,801

In 1920 the total registration in the city and county for the primary election of August 31 was 354,512.

Sixty-two Men Face Judge on Drunk Charges

Tramp, tramp, tramp, slowly, steadily, into the quiet serenity of Police Judge Chesebro's court sixty-two men trudged solemnly yesterday.

If Judge Chesebro had worn spectacles, he would have been seen looking critically over them as the men filed into the prisoner's dock. At any rate he said "Humm!"

Just as the monosyllable left the Judge's lips he placed to one side thirty-four complaints against persons who failed to appear on charges of intoxication and who consequently forfeited their bail.

And then it was disclosed that the sixty-two men were in court to plead guilty or not guilty to having been unlawfully influenced by intoxicating beverages. This, according to the court's book, is a record breaker, even in these days of hair tonic and Florida water.

MONSTER'S REMAINS FOUND

Santa Monica Well-diggers Uncover Bones of Giant Prehistoric Mammal at Fifty-foot Depth

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 7.—Buried beneath fifty-seven feet of rock and clay, the partial remains of a prehistoric monster, which is believed to have roamed Southern California centuries before the dawn of the Christian era, were uncovered today in old Santa Monica Canyon.

The remains, consisting of portions of a huge jawbone, massive teeth and parts of the vertebrae were brought to the surface by workmen digging a well for Frank E. Bundy, a real estate man.

The discoveries are believed to be of utmost importance to paleontologists, because of the extreme depth at which the remains were found. Many fossilized specimens of prehistoric animals have been found in Southern California, notably in the La Brea oil fields, but these are the first to be uncovered at such a depth.

HUGE TOOTH FOUND

The first piece brought to the surface was a tooth, slightly over five inches long, with most of the enamel gone. Workmen immediately notified Mr. Bundy, who ordered that each bucketful of earth be thoroughly searched. Thereafter many pieces were found, until the total reached forty-three.

The largest piece was a portion of the right jawbone, a foot long, four inches wide and in which were imbedded four huge teeth. There were several pieces of the vertebrae in an xcellent state of preservation.

In an effort to uncover more of the remains, Mr. Bundy said he would extend the shaft at least fifty feet farther into the earth.

No one could be found here today who could hazard a guess as to the nature of the animal. The fact of the huge teeth precludes the possibility of it being one of the long-extinct mammoths. The size of the remains indicates that it was an animal of massive size. The length of the teeth, the largest measuring six and one-quarter inches, gives an indication of its ferocity.

Mr. Bundy's theory is that the animal succumbed at or very near an ancient water hole. At a depth of fifty feet a small spring was encountered, which apparently had no outlet. Directly a very hard, firm foundation of clay was encountered. He believes that this point was the surface of the earth in ages gone by.

ANTEDATES HISTORY

There is every reason to believe, according to Mr. Bundy, that the remains uncovered today have lain where found for centuries. The theory that the animal roamed this section ofter the Christian era is precluded by a study of the various strata that were penetrated before they were found. Had they been covered by a landslide, the formation would have been almost uniform throughout. Instead, the shaft has penetrated successively six feet of sandy loam, three feet of yellow clay, sixteen feet of huge boulders, such as are found in stream beds, five feet of reddish clay, eighteen feet of sandy gravel, and after twelve feet of almost solid rock, the present clay formation in which they are now digging was encountered.

Mr. Bundy will notify the departments of paleontology at both the University of California and the University of Southern California, and invite their heads to examine the remains.

POSTOFFICE GAINS HERE ENORMOUS

Los Angeles Fourth City in Postal Increases for Month of July

Gaining more than twice as much as San Francisco, Los Angeles showed a greater postal increase than any city in the United States outside of New York, Chicago and Boston, according to figures made public yesterday in Washington. St. Louis, Baltimore and Pittsburg were left far behind.

Receipts in the local postoffice for the month of July were $441,-979.56, a gain of almost $100,000 over July of last year. San Francisco showed an increase of only $45,436, while Seattle and Portland gained $13,707 and $20,397, respectively. Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis and Kansas City still lead Los Angeles in total postal receipts, however.

MINUTES BRING PRIZES CLOSER

Last Hours in Extra Vote Period Crowded

"Times" Campaign Race is Close One

Double Offer Entries Must be in Tomorrow

The struggle for extra gold prizes to be distributed among candidates in The Times $70,000 prize campaign who make the best showing during the 70,000 extra vote period ending tomorrow night at 9-o'clock, is becoming more heated with each swing of the pendulum. As the minutes tick away and lengthen into hours, fast bringing the dual offer to a close, candidates step forth with renewed energy to garner the new subscriptions that will bring them sums of gold now and a share in the $70,000 prize distribution on September 2.

Every hour that remains of this vital period in the prize campaign means much to every candidate. Many are basing their entire hopes of success on the showing they make by tomorrow night. With the race so close, it is apparent that candidates throughout the territory are unanimous in wanting either the $16,500 house in Wilshire Crest, or the $8000 bungalow in West Hollywood Tract as their share of the greatest prize event ever conducted in the West.

STRAINING FOR LEAD

To bring their new subscriptions in before the closing hour of the offer tomorrow night means a jump in the vote standings 'way up there where they may rightly have visions of owning one of the beautiful homes now being rushed to completion by the contractors.

The twenty automobiles, next in the list of prizes, are also coming in for their share of attention, and ambition is reaching heights far beyond expectations.

As the close of this offer draws near, excitement becomes keener. Practically every one of the candidates is making a vigorous effort to be the highest, or at least among the highest. In the city men and women are straining every effort to top the list; in the outside district candidates are calling upon their friends in order not to be outdone. Rarely is such

PLAN APARTMENT HOUSES

Ambassador Official Says Million-Dollar Project Is Contemplated if Need Warrants

S. J. T. Straus of Chicago, co-owner with his brother, S. W. Straus of New York City, of the Ambassador chain of hotels, who arrived in Los Angeles Sunday night, last night declared that, if the need was great enough, construction on a new system of apartment-houses involving a cost of approximately $1,000,000 would be begun here early in the fall.

The apartments will be erected along the Eighth-street side of the Ambassador grounds, Mr. Straus stated. The Ambassador Hotel at Santa Barbara, which belonged to the Ambassador Company and burned last year, will not be rebuilt, according to Mr. Straus.

"This is my first trip here since April of last year," Mr. Straus said. "I am inspecting our hotels in the city and while here I will determine whether there is need enough for more apartment-houses. If so, we will probably start construction in the early fall."

Mr. Straus, who is also one of the heads of the S. W. Straus Realty and Investment Company of New York City, will visit Long Beach while in this section of the State.

"Long Beach is a great resort city, but I'm sure we will not build any hotels there," Mr. Straus stated.

On the trip which will keep him in Los Angeles for a week, Mr. Straus is accompanied by his wife and son, Frederick, and Mrs. I. D. Straus, and her son, James, all of Chicago.

"There are more good things said of Los Angeles in the East than the people here ever hear about," Mr. Straus said. "It is beautiful here and I find that it becomes more beautiful with each year."

From Los Angeles Mr. Straus and his party will go to Colorado Springs, Colo., and then to Chicago.

ASK ANNEXATION VOTE

Residents of Hancock addition yesterday asked the City Council to call an annexation election for this district, which is bounded by Wilshire Boulevard, La Brea avenue, Fourth street and the westerly city limits. The petition was referred to City Clerk Dominguez for checking.

"La Golondrina" Picture of Old California

Love Story of Spanish Maid Touches Heartstrings

First Performance Greeted by Large Audience

"La Golondrina" was presented for the first time last night in the Mission Playhouse at San Gabriel, and by it John Steven McGroarty has taken another stride toward establishment of a purely Californian drama.

The play is similar to his Mission Play in its historical significance, but very different in its dramatic effect. It was greeted by a packed house, whose enthusiasm presaged an even greater success than that of the author's first piece. The audience was representative of Southern California society and of the literary and dramatic colony.

In "La Golondrina" Mr. McGroarty has taken an episode in California history of the viceregal period, and adapting it to his own use, blended a story of rare colorings. He has employed members of the same company that has been playing his other production, and the house built for the Mission Play proves a fitting setting for the new play.

Into the second act, where a garden party gives the chance, the author has allowed for an hour of quaint Spanish singing and dancing, which caused no end of applause.

TAKEN FROM HISTORY

The story of "La Golondrina" is taken entire from history, but with a fictitious ending that adapts it to the drama. It evolves around the visit to San Francisco of Count Nicolai de Resanof, grand chamberlain of Russia, who with a party of Russians, piloted by the American navigator Capt. Wolfe, was bound for the then Russian Territory of Alaska. Because of the strained relations of Russia and Spain the Count and his companions are in danger of being done to death, but they are saved by the solicitations of Concepcion, daughter of the commandante of the presidio. It was in the period when Joaquin Arrillaga was the California governor, the eighth under Spanish rule.

The Russian count falls in love with his benefactress, the Spanish maid, noted for her beauty. Historically, he returns to Russia, promising to marry her, but dies a premature death, and she takes the veil. But in the play the present-day Californian author deftly has introduced a Spanish lover antedating the Russian. They wish to fight, but are forbidden, and so when the Russian goes home the young blood of California follows, so they may fight on Russian soil.

Concepcion waits for years, and, hearing her lovers are dead, becomes a "beata," a woman that adopts the life of a nun without taking the vows. In the last act, the Spanish lover returns, it developing that the Count had died and the Spaniard had been thrown in jail, the duel never having come to pass. Then Concepcion takes off her veil, and the lovers are united.

HAS NO VILLAIN

In this fashion Mr. McGroarty has written a play with two lovers, neither a villain, and by putting his beautiful heroine into a nun's garb and then, of a sudden, taking her out of it, he accomplishes a finale that is not to be forgotten.

The Mission players have gone at the task enthusiastically. Mr. McGroarty wrote "La Golondrina" a year or so after the "Mission Play," intending it for a companion piece, and the members of his company, who had read it, urged him to put it on this year.

Win Plaudits in New Play at Mission

Patia Power, who played Señora Josefa Yorba in "Mission Play" has the leading part in the new piece, and her excellent acting and remarkable sonorous speaking voice show at their best.

The rival lovers are done by Clarence Arper, as the Russian count, and Ignacio Ayala, a young gentleman of the Spanish colony, who rival one another in manly acting. The principal character parts are Don Joaquin, the governor, played by William Ellingford, who doubles as Father Uria of the Mission Dolores, and Señor Buntemante, a rip-roaring patriot, a part taken by William Magginetti.

The company has some fifty members, including many dancers and singers. Of these the Spanish dancers, Julita Ruiz, Juanita Vigare and Juan Zarraquinos, are notable. The stately minuet, as they danced it at the close of the eighteenth century, is resurrected, and with it El Zafarracha," "Los Crotolas" and the spider-like Tarantella, which Julita Ruiz does with all the vivacity of her native Catalonia.

The songs are equally true to the setting. Katherine Snyder sings "Los Corsarios," George P. Wiley, "Los Trovadores" and a sextette the ever-popular "La Fortuna." The musicians are all of the Hispanic race, and thus do not fail to lend that touch in harmony that no alien fiddler can imitate.

The stage settings and costumings have been made with great care, and an eye for historic accuracy as well as beauty. The second act, showing the gardens of the heroine's home, produces a view of the bygone California that brought applause for the setting. By introducing the noble Russian and his suite into the early Spanish surroundings, the author gave an opportunity for a striking contrast in costuming, for the Russian garb vies with the Spanish in its color and, to modern eyes, quaintness.

COUNCIL AUTHORIZES MUCH STREET WORK

Improvement of streets and alleys in Los Angeles calling for work totaling in value more than $350,000 was authorized yesterday by the City Council. The city has grown so rapidly and traffic has increased on existing streets to such an extent that property owners are constantly petitioning the Council for street improvements. The work ordered yesterday included the improvement of El Nido street from Sherman Way to Saugus avenue; of Walton avenue from Washington street north; of Farman street from Baltimore street to Mendota street; for the paving of Van Ness avenue from Beverly Boulevard to Sunset Boulevard; the improvement of Lake street from Court to Third street; and Fifty-ninth Place from Manto avenue to Vermont avenue. In addition to these, the Council ordered the grading and oiling of a large number of streets and alleys.

HEARING POSTPONED

Due to the illness of U. S. District Court Judge Trippet, the hearing for a permanent injunction to restrain strikers from interfering with the movement of Salt Lake Railway trains was postponed for ten days. A temporary injunction is now in effect against the strikers. It was issued by Judge Trippet and applies to defendants who had previously been served.

TO COMPLETE FARM SURVEY

Former Agricultural Head Will Tell of Work

Chamber Plans Luncheon in His Honor

Cattle Raisers' Stockyards Objective

Fifty business men of Los Angeles will attend a luncheon to be given Friday by the Chamber of Commerce as a compliment to former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Christie. At this meeting Prof. Christie will discuss the survey which he has conducted in Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and Southern California. The trip was made for the purpose of determining sentiment concerning the proposed new union stock yards by cattle raisers of adjoining States.

Prof. Christie's survey will not be complete until he returns from San Diego and Imperial Valley. He started on this trip yesterday. He will speak at a number of places on the trip.

At College Station, Tex., Prof. Christie spoke before 650 students who were taking a short course in agriculture at the Texas School of Agriculture. He also visited the New Mexico Agricultural College at Las Cruces. At Jornado Rancho he reviewed some interesting and profitable experiments which are being conducted. He learned that soap weed was being stored for winter roughage, and that this ranch had a number of metal water tanks placed on the range for the purpose of storing water to be used during the dry seasons. This ranch, the former Secretary learned, reported a calf crop of 74 per cent for the year. New Mexico as a whole averaged 39 per cent, it is said.

Prof. Christie visited a number of ranches near Phoenix and El Paso on his trip. After concluding his work in the Southwest, Prof. Christie will return to Lafayette, Ind., where the agricultural experiment station of Perdue University is located. He is the director of the station.

Husband Was Indian Giver, Court is Told

Mrs. Blanche McGuffie, who is suing George Gordon McGuffie for divorce, told Judge Warmer yesterday that her husband gave her an automobile as a wedding gift. He emphasized the fact by adding: "It is yours forever."

But later, when love flew out of the window, so to speak, and they were parting, she says he declared: "I'll burn the car up before you can have it."

Mrs. McGuffie wanted the car to use pending the trial of the divorce action. The court told the husband he could have the car pending the trial of the suit. He was ordered to pay $10 a month alimony.

TUNNEL TO GO IN NEW CITY PLAN

Supervisors Get Ideas of Planning Commission Regarding Broadway

The proposition to cut down the Broadway tunnel and straighten Broadway was put up to the Board of Supervisors by the City Planning Commission at the conference between those bodies yesterday. It was the consensus of opinion that the tunnel is useless and that nothing is jeopardized by doing away with it. The Supervisors agreed that this was a good suggestion.

The Supervisors further agreed to co-operate with the commission in establishing the Civic Center grouped around the Postoffice, the Courthouse and the new County Jail. With this end in view the board will see that the new jail building to be located on Broadway, Temple and Buena Vista streets will conform to the proposed new Civic Center.

The proposed district is bounded by Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles street and Hill street. Within this district will be placed all the various municipal buildings, with streets straightened and beautified and small parks located.

Pasadena Golf Club Benefit Will Be Social Event

For Small Tots

THAT every dog has his day is axiomatic.

If further proof be needed, then the outing, sporting event and social concourse arranged for the benefit of the Pasadena Preventorium on Sunday, the 20th inst., at the Pasadena Golf Club, will supply it.

Upon this festive occasion all prominent members of the various branches of the K-Nine family, probably 500 or more, will stand proudly at attention and suffer the indignities of judicial inspection that one may be crowned King of Dogdom, the while society en masse applauds.

Members of the Crown City Kennel Club, under the presidency of Jerome H. Bishop, Jr., have offered their services in the arrangement, and announce that Mrs. W. G. Sidney Harris, Mrs. William Cockins, Mrs. Anna Bell, Dr. R. E. Whitted, Messrs. F. A. B. Widener, A. W. Frye, Breckenridge Carroll, Ben Davis, H. S. Fisher, Eli Sperry and J. F. Lakin have been delegated to act as judges. Max Sanborn of Whittier, superintending the show, proclaims with enthusiasm this this event will be the greatest of its kind ever held in California.

The rapidly growing fund for the construction of a home to take care of Southern California's tubercular children will gain a substantial sum from the admission fees to be charged, and in order that no persons may feel they haven't received their money's worth, Mrs. H. Page Warden and Mrs. Irving Sturgis, who are promoting the project, have arranged for visitors to enjoy the hospitality of the Pasadena Golf Club and the Pasadena Boy Scouts, both of which organizations are aiding in the work by providing refreshments.

It has been estimated that $35,000 is required to erect the building on a site of eight acres in Altadena.

CITY FATHERS IN DIFFICULTY

Rearranging Offices Proves Thankless Task

Normal Hill Building Will Soon be Razed

Several Shifting Provokes Roars of Protest

The City Hall may be old and shackly and inadequate, but of the departments now located there desires to move to the Bullard Block adjoining the Temple Block on North Main and Spring streets, and the Board of Public Works and the City Council are having a terrible time rearranging the offices so that the departments to the new north end City Hall annex can begin on September 1.

The Finance Committee of the City Council will discuss the question again at its meeting tomorrow morning and endeavor to bring about peace and harmony in the official family so that moving can occur according to schedule.

MUST FIND ROOM

Confronted with the necessity to find room for the departments now located in the city building on Normal Hill, which must be razed to make way for the new $1,500,000 municipal public library, the city has leased the Bullard Block for $600 a year, to be used as a City Hall annex. In addition to the health and other departments on Normal Hill, the Board of Public Works proposed to move the harbor, public utilities and several other departments now at the City Hall on Broadway to the Bullard Block. The harbor department flatly said "Nothing doing" and promptly rented the third floor of the Byrne Building at the southwest corner of Third and Broadway, opposite the City Hall, and will move there on September 1.

SET UP ROAR

The Board of Public Utilities then set up a roar of protest that could be heard for miles and rehearsed out fifty-seven varieties of reasons why it should remain at the City Hall. Then it was proposed that the City Prosecuter be moved from the north annex of the City Hall to the Bullard Block, where the Board of Public Utilities, whereupon the prosecutor uttered divers and various cries of distress.

The public works commissioners and the Councilmen hope to shuffle the deck again this week so that everyone will be satisfied and moves to the Bullard Block will be so that the Normal Hill building may be torn down and construction work on the library start.

Exploitation of Island Business Aim of Chamber

In connection with the forthcoming business men's excursion to Hawaii, the Chamber of Commerce is anxious to have local firms do all the exploitation possible in the Islands prior to and during the excursion, which leaves Los Angeles September 9.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday went on record favoring such procedure, with the following resolution:

Resolved, by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, that the establishing of direct steamship connection between Los Angeles and Hawaii is of great importance and value, both from a local and national viewpoint; that it will materially help to expand and develop trade and business, and declares the earnest, cordial and hearty support of the people of Southern California.

That we appreciate the co-operative spirit displayed by Hawaii in this connection, and approve any plan which will bring the two communities closer together and better acquaint them with each other.

We suggest to our merchants and manufacturers the advisability of seizing every opportunity to make themselves well known in Hawaii."

Knocked from Auto by Truck; Mechanic Dies

Struck from the running board of an automobile while he was testing a carburetor, Sterling Sheck, 23 years, a mechanic of 427 South Boylson avenue received fatal injuries yesterday.

The accident occurred at Forty-second street and South Park avenue. Sheck, according to the report of Police Officer Killeby of the traffic division, was standing on the running board of a car driven by M. Schimons of 960 Gladys avenue testing the carburetor when a truck driven by W. Yoshi, a Japanese of 1400 East Chester avenue, drove swiftly past. Witnesses told the police that the truck swerved in close to the curb, striking Sheck violently to the pavement.

The car immediately stopped and, it was reported, and with the help of pedestrians rushed to the assistance of the mechanic. The emergency police ambulance took the injured man to the Receiving Hospital where, it is said, he died a few minutes after being placed on the operating table.

An inquest was held by the Universal police on suspicion of manslaughter.

LANSHIRE BOULEVARD ZONED FOR BUSINESS

Over the protest of the City Planning Commission the City Council yesterday changed the zoning laws so that Wilshire Boulevard from La Brea avenue to the present city limits will from this time on be open to business establishments. City Planning Director Whitnall appeared before the Council and said that the City Planning Commission was unanimously of the opinion that Wilshire Boulevard should remain zoned for residence, as at present, but finally consented to the zoning ordinance on petition of property own-

SMOKE UP

Another thing to worry about: The tobacco crop in Wisconsin has been badly damaged by wildfire. We thought tobacco was to be burnt, anyhow.

RAIDING RUSSIA

Hugo Stinnes is to own big hotels in Moscow and Petrograd. If there is any good money in a country the hotels get it first. Hugo is the wise boy.

LOOKS LIKE SANTA

With his long, white beard and flowing mane the former Kaiser is said to bear a striking resemblance to Santa Claus. How much sweeter it would have been for the world had he essayed the role of Santa Claus instead of Lucifer.

BOYS OR DOGS?

An Arkansas woman left $16,000 for the keep of her three dogs. On the death of the dogs the money is to go to an orphan asylum. It should be a simple matter for the court to arrange the death of the dogs in the interest of the children.

BLACK-EYED SUSAN

A man was fined $400 by a judge the other day for giving his wife a pair of black eyes as a birthday present. The wife said she preferred blue ones. Anyhow, she objected to their being forced on her and the court sustained the objection $400 worth.

HIGHER EDUCATION

Among other things purchased by the Board of Education in the second greatest American city are some 6000 phonographs and forty electric hair dryers. Education has become a wonderful thing since the days of the little red schoolhouse. It is understood that the hair dryers are used after the higher education has soaked in.

MATTER OF MONUMENT

A man who died the other day left all of his estate—consisting of about $25,000—for the erection of a suitable monument to himself. Now the family is trying to break the will. It ought to be easy for the court to decide that a row of flats housing the descendants would make a suitable monument for the old man.

MONEY TALKS

Telephone subscribers in New York were given an opportunity to subscribe to an issue of $35,000,000 of the company's stock. They responded heartily. In fact, a total of 107,000 of them clamored for stock to the amount of $85,000,000 and the company had to shade down the subscriptions 60 per cent. The people seem willing to take a substantial interest in their own conversation. This is where money talks.

SKINNING DE WOLF

The court jumps on De Wolf Hopper because he is said to be a matter of something like $6500 behind on alimony payments to his fifth wife. It is hard for a much-married man to remember all these petty details and it is hoped the judge will not be rough with the comedian. In the old days it used to be hard for a woman to keep De Wolf from the door, but that is no reason why he should be skinned now.

LOW VISIBILITY

Oregon has also indicted a bunch of twenty or more members of the Ku Klux Klan. A former Chief of Police, a preacher and an ex-jailer are among the number. They are all representative citizens, but they essayed to administer justice after their own pattern. Now they may be required to take a potion of their own brewing. There isn't much fun in being an Imperious Kadaver or a Supreme Wampus when one can be invisible in theory only.

THE LONGEST DAY

The Senate condensed 104 legislative days into one calendar day. It was April 20 until August 2. This caused the Senate to dispense with the morning prayers of the chaplain for that period. But what's the odds? Some folks think the Senate is past praying for, anyhow. But this gave Congress the longest legislative day it had ever known. But for the death of Senator Crow it would have been running yet. The death of a Senator calls for a motion to adjourn to his memory and this premises a new day. The further odd feature is the fact that Senator Crow never sat in the Senate. He appeared to be sworn in, but never again came to the chamber.

TAPPING HADES

Scientists are more than ever convinced that in a few years—or is it centuries?—we will be drawing power from the center of the earth. There is a molten mass oozing the greatest heat it is possible to record and capable of furnishing unlimited power. Even at a depth of five or ten miles it would be possible to tap some of this store. To go that far should not be much of a job. They have been boring tunnels and subways eight or ten miles long already and it is just as easy to sink the shaft straight downward. Some day some Edison will come along with a massive corkscrew and open up this old world clear to the core. Then we will be able to pipe Hades right into the home and use the heat to fry our onions. No coal strike will bother the country under such circumstances.

BELATED DISCOVERY

The Times is gratified to note that Hiram Johnson has decided to indorse two measures which this newspaper has consistently advocated for many years—the Colorado River project and adequate laws to prevent the exploitation of child labor. Both are worthy of support and even eleventh-hour champions should be accepted. Mr. Johnson's advocacy would undoubtedly have been more welcome to the people interested if it had come earlier instead of on the eve of election, when his espousal of popular measures must inevitably be open to suspicion of selfish motives. However, The Times so earnestly desires the success of the Colorado project and adequate child-labor laws that it would welcome unanimous approval of them.

For years The Times has sought to protect children and to stop the exploitation of child labor. It has printed hundreds of news articles and editorials vigorously proclaiming its policies.

For more than ten years The Times has fostered and encouraged the project to control the Colorado River. In fact, it might almost be said that The Times was first in advocacy of this project, which is undoubtedly the greatest undertaking of its kind now before the American people and one which will bring tremendous advancement to the Southwest.

The Times, far beyond any other newspaper, has helped the movement to harness the giant stream. It has published innumerable articles with photographs and maps and has gone to great expense in having engineering studies made so that the matter could be intelligently and forcefully presented.

Secretary Hoover has given a great deal of time to the Colorado River project and has traveled all over the country holding conferences and arranging details so that the way could be paved for a definite start on this enterprise of so momentous importance to Los Angeles and other southwestern communities. Mr. Hoover has worked untiringly and effectively. His championship of the project has meant much to the West.

During all the years when others were working Mr. Johnson remained inactive. Recently a bill providing for the construction of a dam at the Boulder Canyon site was written by somebody else and handed to him. He introduced it in the Senate. That appears to be the sum total of Mr. Johnson's efforts. He is obviously seeking glory on the eve of election on the strength of work done by Secretary Hoover and others. His assertions that The Times has opposed the project must have been a shock to Times readers who have had arguments favoring it dinned into their ears in season and out of season.

WHAT IS PROTECTION FOR?

Investigating the motives of Senators in voting for or against various schedules in the tariff bill—with the implied innuendo that these motives are not entirely disinterested—threatened to monopolize so much time in the chamber as to postpone indefinitely the completion of the bill itself.

The Senate has done well to postpone action on this investigation until after disposal of the tariff bill.

These suggested quizzings cover a whole lot of ground from direct interest in wool, sheep and hides to indirect interest in almost any billable commodity.

One roundabout resolution is aimed at Senators who may be financially interested in newspapers that obtain revenue through the sporting departments from advertisements placed there by stores which will be affected by the pending tariff bill.

Such an endless chain of connections, carried far enough, might join up the President with the present price of butter or William Jennings Bryan with the recent slump in hogs.

Now, of course, it is perfectly fit and proper for the people to keep a strict eye on the probity of their lawmakers. But there is such a thing as being overcritical. This investigating of Senatorial motives in voting for or against certain tariff schedules is being pushed to a ridiculous extreme. Furthermore, this weapon is being employed largely for obstructive and filibustering purposes.

What is a tariff for if not to protect home industries? And why would not a Senator wish to especially protect the products of the State he represents?

He would be remiss in duty if he did otherwise.

For a Senator to be financially interested in a newspaper is not unusual. How could he vote for any schedule that would not affect the price of some article advertised in that paper?

Indeed, since a tariff is designed eventually to protect all the citizens, that protection must include the Senators who have to vote on the different schedules.

The public wants a protective tariff and doesn't want to wait till the present generation is dead for the bill to get through the Senate. If there must be an investigation of the motives of Senators, let it come after the President has signed the bill and the people are reaping the benefit of it.

KAISER OF THE DELICATESSEN

Men who eat every now and then are becoming rather peppery in their criticism of the nation's restaurants. They may be beautiful and their prices are reasonably certain to be high, but somehow or other the good old ham and eggs don't pan out. It has become quite the thing to knock. If it isn't the food it may be the service. The waiter doesn't part his hair in the middle or the soup gets cool before it reaches the table. The cafe and restaurant proprietors of America will meet in convention in Washington in October and at that time an effort will be made to provide a shock absorber for the fodder industry. The restaurant managers want to find some high-priced and competent man who can be to them what Judge Landis is to baseball or Will Hays to the movies. He will have authority to step in any place at any time, fire the handsome waiter and order a new cloth on the table. Also he will have charge of the campaign against the restrictive and regulatory legislation that comes up from time to time directed against hotels and restaurants. He will be even more than the chief cook and bottle washer. He will be the Poobah of the banquetters; the impressario of the gourmands; the Napoleon of the napery. First thing we know all the industries and invests will be naming a high commissioner.

The Governor's White Elephant

VANITY FAIR

The business of making our women beautiful has become the forty-sixth industry of the country. It ranks between sporting goods and selling Bibles. The quantity of rouge sold every year would tint the Atlantic Ocean a deep pink clear out to the three-mile limit. The powder used in a single season would give a creamy effect to the face of nature for an area of 1227 square knots. For the first time in the nation's history there are more beauty shops than saloons. It has become so that a dame does not feel dolled up until she has been marcelled, rouged and manicured. If her hair, her complexion and her hands have had full attention a certain serenity and satisfaction comes over her. When she goes shopping for aids to beauty she may need a thousand-dollar bill.

There are plastic surgatoriums where a woman can spend a month in having her face remodeled. She can have all the kinks and wrinkles taken out and she can take on the lines and complexion of a chicken. After grandma has been through a course of sprouts she looks like a flapper. Some of the work they turn out is wonderful.

The beautifiers have a general association and they have conventions and meetings for the purpose of exchanging ideas and gathering information. The section known as the National School of Cosmeticians is now assembled in convention in Chicago and there are representatives from various countries besides our own. There are delegates from South America, Panama and Hawaii. There are experts from the capitals of Europe. One of them is Prof. Francois Marcel, inventor of the wavy coiffure which bears his name. He is now administering his wave with an oil process which leaves the hair with a silken luster and is pronounced by the professor himself as ravishingly effective.

The dome specialists threaten to marcel the nation. They are marcelling the thatches of our merchant princes and kings of finance as well as of our debutantes. Likewise little children are being marcelled. The wave can be made to endure a long time and may be the simplest way of disposing of the kid's hair. There is so much of this going on that they may yet get around to marcelling the dog. A bald-headed guy is missing a whole lot. At that, he can get a ready-made marcel hood.

The convention of specialists is also deciding on next season's complexion. The per-oxide blonde is entirely out of the running just now. She may not think so, but the professor insists. What is preferred now is a warm brown for the hair and a skin that hints of the open. It should be kissed by the sun and wind—and not so much by the tango lizard. If there is hint of tan it is splendid. All this may be easily acquired in our own beach environment, but for those not so fortunately situated it is still obtainable by artificial means. There are rouges and cosmetics that will give a healthy out-of-doors complexion to a girl who never wanders from her boudoir. It may not last over night, but it can be acquired at the dressing table next morning.

The apostles of pulchritude have cut out the hair dye, but they are still making preparations that are supposed to furnish certain desired tints. They don't always do it, but they are to be had for the asking—and at a price.

But the beauty doctors are everywhere. The representatives from Manila and Honolulu say that the women of Polynesian ancestry are now going in strong for face bleaches. They want to look like their white sisters. The women are never satisfied unless they are doing something to their faces. We have never got around to nose rings in this country, but you never can tell. It may be the fashion in another year. Just now we are advised that the ears are coming back. They have been hidden for several seasons. Vanity of vanities, where is the vanity case?

SEEDS FROM THE SKY

They are using airplanes for seeding in certain rather inaccessible sections of the world. A flying machine has been used for reseeding sugar plantations amid the hills of Hawaii. The rains do the rest. The caterpillar tractor and the flying planter could make glad the waste places of earth and cause the desert to blossom as the rose.

TOO MUCH JOHNSON

That a representative should represent, not his own peculiar views, but the views of the constituency to whom he owes his position, is "a custom more honored in the breach than the observance" these days.

This would seem to apply particularly to one Hiram Johnson, senior Senator from California. Senator Johnson has, since his elevation to the position of United States Senator, consistently ignored the wishes of his constituents and every vote cast in the Senate has been a vote that represented his own peculiar views—which views seem strangely to coincide with those of one William Randolph Hearst—and not the views of the people of this State.

The most flagrant instance of this character is that of his attitude on the Four-Power Treaty, a measure that fully met with the approval of the great majority of Californians, not because it was the handiwork of a group of brilliant Republican statesmen, but because it was a step in the direction of that greatest of all world ideals, universal peace.

In spite of the fact that Senator Johnson has repeatedly misrepresented the people of the State of California and that he has spent the greater part of his time in private practice of law—while at the same time drawing his salary as Senator with promptness and regularity—this same man Johnson is again a candidate for re-election.

Will the people of California grant their support to a man who because of his overweening ambition to occupy the White House is willing to flaunt the very people who have honored him?

Senator Johnson does not now and never has really represented the people of California. His attitude during the war and after the armistice has been one of destruction, not construction. He insists on the United States taking a position of, to paraphrase a hackneyed phrase, "slinking isolation" when such a position is inconsistent with the needs of the nation in particular and the world in general.

California is actually suffering from "too much Johnson." The people now have splendid opportunity of sloughing off this incubus. The Republican party, that is, the real Republican party, is offering a candidate in the person of C. C. Moore, who, by reason of his long and arduous public service, is entitled to their confidence and who has won their respect. He will represent, not Hearst and his "wrecking crew," but the great rank and file of the people of the State. His election will redeem California from the stigma of "too much Johnson" that is rapidly becoming a by-word and a reproach throughout the nation.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE HAPPY LAD

My car is made of zinc, my car is painted pink; but I'm as gay when on my way as any wealthy gink. My home is but a shack, a woodshed at the back; but when I'm there 'twould make you stare to see how high I stack. My watch is built of tin and has punk works within; it is a crime, but keeps the time, the while I toil and spin. My duds are ready made; I see the colors fade; but still I spring a smile and sing—the clothier has been paid. On liverwurst I dine and I am feeling fine; the goods you see belong to me and they are truly mine. No creditor appears with caustic taunts and sneers to get his plunk or have my junk sold by the auctioneers. No sheriff comes with writs to scare me into fits; no bailiffs wait around my gate to bone me for six bits. I'll have a limousine some day and mansion green; some day I'll shine in raiment fine, a silk hat on my bean. Some day I'll have a clock that none will dare to mock; some day I'll eat such costly meat 'twill make the neighbors talk. But I won't cut this ice until I have the price; and so in brine these coins of mine I pickle once or twice. WALT MASON.

YOUR HIDDEN POWERS

BY JAMES OPPENHEIM

Freedom—a big word. It really means: "I want to do as I please."

The American people have been brought up on this word. It makes them restless. Anything that suggests bondage is hateful to them. The immigrant is willing to be a sweatshop worker or a servant. But his children, brought up in the public school, want freedom. What do they mean?

They mean exactly what the old pioneer meant. He said: "I will go to a new place, where I can do as I want. I will have my own land, my own house; I will get rich. I will live as I please."

Out of this spirit has come the famous phrase: "So act that you can look any damn man in the eyes and tell him to go to hell."

What kind of freedom is this? It has to do with money. It is quite clear that the man who has car fare is freer than the man who has to go on foot; that an automobile means more freedom than a street car. The boss appears more free than his employees. He can come and go as he wants. He can take trips. He isn't under orders. He does as he pleases.

Is it any wonder that when you ask the usual boy: "What do you want?" he answers, "I want to make a fortune, and make it quick."

Yet, is this freedom? Several hundred years ago a poet wrote: "Stone walls do not a prison make, Nor iron bars a cage."

He had an old idea, the idea that freedom is spiritual, that a man can think as he wants, and believe as he wants, and "call his soul his own," even in jail. It was for this reason that the Puritans came to America "to worship their God in freedom." Man lives by beliefs and dreams. The Christian religion was founded because there were men and women who felt they had found the truth and they preferred being eaten by lions or lynched in bonfire to giving up their freedom of thought. Joan of Arc felt freest when she burned. She sang in ecstasy. To her money, power, the ability to come and go as she pleased meant nothing. Her faith, her dream gave her freedom.

Are there not, then, two kinds of freedom—the one ideal, the other practical? I said that man lived by beliefs, by dreams. Certainly life is cold and harsh unless we are led by some dream, whether of immortality or a better time coming, "a new earth and a new sky." That is true. But man also lives by bread and butter. He lives by motor cars and sanitary plumbing. He lives for the earth, because he is on earth, and he lives for his soul, because he has a soul.

There is a man in New York, an artist. He refuses to "sell his soul." He wants to set down his dreams in his own way. The result is that his poetry isn't understood by others and he can't make a living. At the same time, he won't do anything but write poetry. That would be "giving up his freedom." His freedom means that he can dream and sing as he wants.

Well, he has his freedom. But he is an abject slave. He has become a sort of beggar and lives from hand to mouth on what others give him. He can't travel, he can't take care of himself as he should; and he cannot marry a woman who loves him and whom he loves.

But in New York there is another man. He is the head of a large business. He has become enormously wealthy. He travels, has a country house, motor cars, servants. And he, too, is an abject slave. He is afraid of ideas and ideals. Ideas are dangerous—they might cut down his profits. Ideals aren't practical—they get you nowhere. The result is that this man is a small soul. You feel he is narrow, mean and hard. You feel he is unhappy. With all his power he has nothing to live for. He is never fired to do a beautiful thing that would bring him joy. Money is the sole consideration.

Do you see the point? Both these men are one-sided. Neither has a really human life. We think, as a rule, that men who refuse to compromise are strong men. They are at times. In great issues a terrible one-sidedness is necessary. Lincoln had it over the slavery question. Descartes had it when he insisted on dissecting dead human bodies in order to lay the foundation for modern medicine. But such cases are exceptional. For the run of men, and for the run of life, compromise is the gate to growth and to greater living. This is what is meant by the phrase, "The Golden Mean."

Jung once said, "The greatest thing in life is balance." That is it, balance. The poet and the business man I mentioned are both extremists. They are unbalanced. Neither has that sanity which means being an all-round human being.

A man like Lincoln was wiser. One felt in him that beautiful balance, that balance between the two worlds, the "world of the spirit and the world of the flesh." That is, he was intensely practical. He was a very capable politician. He made shrewd moves. He saw his chance and took it. He tried to give his family all he could in the way of comfort and opportunity. But, on the other hand, he burned with a living faith in the future and in human beings. Often he closed the door in his own face to be true to his faith. But he balanced his faith against the facts, and so, on the other hand, he never became a fanatic like John Brown, who sacrificed everything to a belief, nor, on the other hand, did he ever become rich. He became something better than either, a rich, mellow nature which has given America a true image of itself.

How shall we find this balance? By seeking both the freedoms, the practical and the ideal. If we are naturally practical we must cultivate our idealism, give ourselves to art, to love, to the dream side. And if we are naturally idealistic we must discipline ourselves to be practical also, and make our way in the world.

A REMARKABLE REVOLUTION

The man-of-all-work who used to tidy the yard and take care of the ashes now is a skilled mechanic helping to make vacuum cleaners and the housemaid—well, she has married him. That is the dramatic change that has come over society in the United States during a decade.

The era of personal service passes; the skilled mechanic and educator multiply. History offers no parallel to this, for every empire of man's achievements in all recorded time has been served by hordes of ready workers, willing to do the lowly tasks in the homes of the lordly rulers. The United States has grown richer in the past decade, its population is increased, in a more useful way and omitting the gauds with which peoples once liked to exemplify their magnificence, no empire of history compares in wealth and resources and population with this modern empire of democracy.—[Detroit News.

THE TRAITOR

Georgette: Mabel is an attractive girl, isn't she?

Cora: Yes, but you can't trust her.

Georgette: No?

Cora: No. We girls out at the tennis club all bought knickerbockers at the same time, but no one had the nerve to wear 'em out on the courts. So we got together and agreed to come out in the knickers all at the same time on a certain Sunday—safety in numbers, you know. And they all stuck to the agreement except Mabel.

Georgette: Backed out, did she?

TEETH GNASHING AS AN ART

I suppose that primitive man had the teeth-gnashing faculty, as I have known one man who had it as powerfully as it exists in the dog, peccaries and pigs of all kinds, and other fierce mammals.

This man was a Spanish Basque, a workman, and as he was musically inclined he had utilised his wonderfully strong teeth and teeth-gnashing faculty by turning his mouth into a musical instrument. Planting an elbow on the table and resting his chin on his hand he would start the performance and go through a number of marches and martial airs far in advance, as music, of any performance on the bones. I have ever listened to; and while the teeth were grinding, rattling and crashing together the lips were rapidly moving to soften, deaden and louden the sounds.

It was an astonishing kind of music, but not agreeable to me on account of an apprehension I felt that at any loud crash or finale the teeth would fly into pieces all over the room, like two large china vases brought violently into collision.—[W. H. Hudson in Century Magazine.

RATHER HANG THAN HEAR

Senator Caraway of Arkansas told this story during a speech in the Senate chamber recently: It has gotten in the Senate so that Senators feel like a negro did down in my country one day when he was to be hanged. After the Sheriff got him on the scaffold he said, "Rastus, you have twenty minutes to make a statement if you want to make one." The negro said, "I don't know that I have anything to say." A lawyer standing by, who was as fond of talking as the junior Senator from Idaho is of speaking, and about as interesting, got up and said, "Well, if Rastus don't want to speak, I would like to have the time." The Sheriff said to the negro, "Do you want to give your time to this lawyer?" The negro replied, "I don't know as I care, but if he is going to make a speech, I wish you would hang me first."—[Congressional Record.

THIS IS THE DAY

The first locomotive was run in the United States in the year 1829. It was called "The Stourbridge Lion" and was built in England for the Delaware and Hudson Canal Railway Company. It ran on wooden rails for three miles through the Pennsylvania woods.

The "Wilmot Proviso" was adopted by Congress in 1846. It referred to the purchase of territory from Mexico and affirmed that neither slavery nor involuntary servitude should exist in any part of said territory. This amendment formed the basic plank of the new Free Soil party and was also adopted by the Republicans.

PRIZE NOVEL BEGINS SUNDAY

"Times" to Print "Alice Adams," Great Story by Booth Tarkington

Beginning in The Times Magazine next Sunday, readers of this newspaper are to be afforded an unusual literary treat. The greatest American novel of 1921—awarded the $1000 Pulitzer prize for literature—will be published in the daily and Sunday issues. The book is "Alice Adams," from the pen of that master story-teller, Booth Tarkington. It is a typically American tale, and very likely you will recognize yourself or some of your acquaintances in the superb portraits the author has drawn. The story deals with the social adventures of a "right pretty" girl who, at 16, was the belle of her circle, but at 22 was without a suitor. Why? She was prettier than ever, her charm was as great as the other girls. Tarkington, with an uncanny insight into human foibles, has written down the reason, with sympathy but with a compelling strain of ironic philosophy. There is a thrill in the story; there is romance of the highest order. It is a book you should not miss; the greatest novel of the year. It begins in The Times Magazine next Sunday.

BEACH REFINERY PLANNED

Signal Hill Operators Seek to Organize; Committee Will Investigate Oil Problem

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 7.—Possibility that independent operators in the Signal Hill field may organize themselves for the purpose of erecting their refinery here as a means of solving the overproduction problem was seen today when a committee headed by Raymond Bowles, representing a large Los Angeles syndicate, held a conference with Chamber of Commerce officials and oil men. It was reported that at least twelve independent operators have indorsed such a plan.

SITE SOUGHT

In this connection, it was said that the operators were considering the construction of a plant to manufacture their own machinery. The site of the old Long Beach Shipbuilding Company in the local harbor district appeared as the most likely location for the proposed refinery. It was reported that several companies are negotiating for the property.

Announcement that every member but one of the committee named Friday to investigate the oil situation had accepted and would serve, was made this morning by Mayor C. A. Buffum. All the appointees with the possible exception of one or two have been interviewed by Carle L. Williams, who has been dealing the appointees for the Mayor. Joseph B. Dabney, one of the leaseholders appointed by the Mayor, is the only person who has refused to serve as yet. The Mayor said this morning that Dabney probably did not understand the situation or he would not have refused. He plans to write a letter to Mr. Dabney, giving full details, and an explanation of the reason the committee was appointed. Mr. Dabney's reasons for the refusal were stated in a letter to Mayor Buffum.

DECLINES TO SERVE

The body of the letter follows: "My attention has been called to an article in the newspapers in which it is said that I have been appointed by you on a committee to probe the oil puzzle. I thank you for the appointment, but must decline to serve on the committee. I cannot see that there is any puzzle to be solved or probed. To anyone who is familiar with the situation, it is evident that there is an overproduction, and as supply and demand govern this the same as everything else, it was only logical to expect that the price of oil would decline."

EXPLODING STILL SETS HOME AFIRE

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 7.—Fire, believed by the police to have originated from an explosion of a 100-gallon whisky still, destroyed the one-story residence at 1010 Lincoln avenue at 3:20 p.m. this afternoon.

R. W. McCardia, reported to be the occupant of the house, disappeared in a large car, following the explosion, which was heard for several blocks, and is still being sought by the police.

Capt. C. F. Robberson and Detective Malcolm Kirkpatrick, who went to the scene in response to a fire call, expressed the belief that the still probably exploded when the culs became choked with particles of mash.

Eight fifty-gallon barrels of mash and a quantity of whisky were found in the house, and are being held as evidence in the case. The house, destroyed by the explosion and resultant fire, was owned by a man named Dickson, reported to be an invalid and to have left the city recently for his health. He leased the place to McCardia for three months.

EIGHT ARE ARRESTED IN RAIDS

Santa Monica Police Are Active Over Week-end; Heavy Sentence Imposed

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 7.—J. C. DeMandel, 2923 Washington Boulevard is out $500 and will spend fifteen days in the County Jail. When he appeared before Police Judge King today and entered a plea of guilty to having liquor in his possession in violation of the city ordinance, the judge imposed the sentence.

While prohibition agents and Santa Monica police officers were raiding the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Perez, 3001 Washington Boulevard, DeMandel drove up in a truck. Detective Belger peered between his knees and saw a two-gallon jug full of wine. Accompanying DeMandel to his home, the detective found a still in full operation.

Eight other men and women, arrested in spectacular raids over the week-end, appeared before Judge King today but asked for continuances. Twenty-six others were today removed to Los Angeles to stand trial on Federal warrants before the Federal court.

City Attorney A. A. Weber, who prosecuted the cases, announced that he would ask a jail sentence for each offender in case of conviction.

West Colorado Street Will be Widened, Plan

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PASADENA, Aug. 7.—Plans for widening Colorado street to 100 feet, west of Broadway, are under consideration by the city, Hiram W. Wadsworth, chairman of the City Directors, announced today. The plans are being prepared by City Engineer Earle and City Manager Koiner.

"Most of the buildings on West Colorado street are old, and I do not believe a more favorable time to make this much-needed improvement can be found," Mr. Wadsworth said. "We are making this preliminary announcement so that the taxpayers may be fully informed."

Chapter XXIII
JACK THE CLIMBER

Mr. William Spencer, after arriving in the fallow-field where stood the clump of bushes that hid the broken Indian motorcycle, made a rapid survey of the situation. He resumed his task of quartering the ground for tracks.

He wound his way through the bushes to the screen of brambles that masked the cave where Aimee had taken refuge on the night of the burglary, and after scanning the ground near its approaches, pushed the briars aside and entered cautiously. The cave was empty—save for that super motorcycle, the Flying Sphinx, which stood waiting in patient dumbness at the far end, weeping slow tears of oil into a little pool beneath the silencer.

He passed farther along the pits, inspecting a second and much more obvious cave on his way. He was just about to emerge from it when something caught Billy's eye on the far side of the pits. He shrank back quickly into the cave's mouth and flattened himself against the wall, watching.

The object which gave him pause was very small, and fully 400 yards distant. But it showed against the skyline and to the eye of a frontiersman anything that cuts the skyline and that moves ever so little is at once apparent. What Billy saw was the upper part of a head peering over the edge of the little cliff on the opposite side.

A pair of shoulders followed the head, and their owner was obviously watching the pit with a desire to discover whether the coast was clear. There was a curious furtiveness about the figure that presently appeared, and dropping down the cliff by a steep path reached the lower ground and crossed it at a run.

Billy crept from the gloom of the cave's mouth and, crouching behind the briar bushes, peered through them eagerly. The running figure was a woman—a small woman clad in a khaki-colored dust-cloak, carrying a little red bundle. She ran with a stooping gait, bending low as she threaded between the bushes. She reached a point against the cliff on Billy's side, 300 yards farther along, close by a tangle of undergrowth. There she halted, and, looking round her quickly, disappeared with extreme suddenness.

Billy rose, as if to follow, but on second thoughts subsided again and waited. He remained there fully ten minutes, when the figure reappeared, and hurried along the pit bottom in his direction.

Billy wormed himself hurriedly under the tangled briars at some cost to his skin. The woman passed him within seventy yards, walking rapidly. She was no longer carrying the bundle.

When she had passed Billy peeped after her. Though he could not see her face, he had not the slightest doubt who she was. She disappeared round the bend of the pits.

Billy extricated himself cautiously from the bush and sprinted to the spot where she had first vanished with the bundle.

The bushes partially cloaked the mouth of one of the many crag caves; the entrance was not difficult to find when one was close to it. Billy walked in without hesitation. He found precisely what he expected.

On the floor of the cave, stretched upon a couch of dry bracken, lay a man. He was not a spectacle which in any way gladdened the eye.

He was big and lusty of limb; what little could be seen of his face through a week's growth of brown stubble was haggard. His beak of a nose jutted between two fierce deep-sunk eyes. One of his legs was extended, and swathed from foot to knee in dripping-wet calico bandages that looked as if they had been ripped from a woman's garment.

"Stop right there where you are," said the occupant of the cave, reclining on one elbow. "Don't move a step forward, nor yet a step back. Get me?"

"Jack the Climber," said Billy blandly, "I'm pleased to meet you. I've been looking for you quite a while."

"Are you the police?"

"No," said Billy.

"I b'lieve you're the guy that slugged me, last Saturday night!" he said.

"Quite correct."

"See here!" he said sullenly. "You've got me set. I can't move. I'm up against it. I know they'll pull me. Well, I'll take my dose. I'll throw my hand in!"

"Wise of you."

"But," said Jake with devilish ferocity, "I've got you, too." He raised one knee and rested his pistol hand on it. "If I give up to you, there's somethin' I'm goin' to have you do first. You'll take my terms an' do what I ask—or I'll drop you, right there and now."

There was not the faintest doubt but that he meant what he said. A glance into his eyes told the listener that.

"Nothing doing," said Billy quietly. "I don't take orders from a malefactor. Least of all at the point of a gun."

"Then," said Jake thickly, "you're cold meat. I guess it's the best way. It gives me a chance yet."

"They don't electrocute in this country," said Billy, "they hang. But they do it very efficiently. You can shoot me in the back though, if you want to. I'm going to see about your exit."

He turned deliberately and walked to the mouth of the cave. Jake's finger trembled on the trigger.

"Come back!" he said hoarsely.

There was something so broken and piteous in the tone that Billy turned his head. Jake flung the pistol toward him; it fell on the sand at Billy's feet, and he picked it up.

"I can't get you with a gun," gasped Jake, "but listen to what I got to say, if you're a man! For God's sake, listen!"

And Billy listened.

Some minutes later Billy stepped out of the cave into the sunlight. He started as a voice called him excitedly by name, and he was aware of Monsieur de Jussac running toward him.

"Spencer!" he cried. "I have been looking for you everywhere. Where the devil have you been? The police have inquired for you at the Abbey, and I think they are not far behind. I thought it well to come and warn you."

"The police?"

"And here they are!" he said, with a gesture of despair.

The helmet of Constable Poison appeared on the brink of the opposite cliff, about the same time as Panke's peaked cap obtruded itself over the one behind them, and the felt hat of Inspector Arkwright hove in sight among the bramble bushes below. In a very short time all three men were in the pit, closing strategically upon Billy and Bertrand.

"That's him—the young one!" exclaimed Panke, as the three approached. Inspector Arkwright walked up to Billy, and addressed him by name.

"William Spencer?"

"Who are you, and what are you doing here?"

"The Vicomte de Jussac, at your service. A guest at the Abbey. Knowing Spencer was here, I came to inform him he was wanted."

"Oh. All right, sir. He's certainly wanted." The inspector turned to Billy. "Come along, my lad. We are overdue at Stanhoe Police Station."

"Does that mean I'm arrested?"

"That will depend on circumstances. Have you any objection to accompanying me?"

"I've no objection to anything. This is my afternoon off. But may I take it you are looking for the enterprising fellow who burgled the Abbey?"

"I include that among my activities," said Arkwright sardonically.

"Then this is your lucky day. He's in the cave there."

"In the—cave?" said Arkwright, staring.

"If you'll step this way," said Billy, "I'll show you."

He turned toward the bushes. Arkwright, after a moment's hesitation, accompanied him, and motioned to Inspector Panke to follow. Bertrand brought up the rear. Billy led them into the cave.

Jake, prostrate on his couch of bracken, greeted them with a sullen stare. Inspector Arkwright looked at him—at the bandaged leg, the stubble-covered face, and deep-set eyes. The handkerchief with the broken food was no longer visible.

"See if he's shamming," said Arkwright briefly to Panke.

"Do I look as if I was shamming, you gazaboo!" growled Jake.

"Panke," said Arkwright, "there is a gate in the field fence just up there, I think. Will you and Poison lift it off its hinges and bring it here? We must get the man out; he can't walk." He turned abruptly to Billy. "And now—will you explain, Mr. Spencer?"

"Sure," said Billy. "I believe you know it was I who came across the thieves on the night of the hold-up, and got knocked out. It seems to have been taken for granted the pair of them made a get-away on their machine, and likely were half across England by morning. I wasn't so sure. The case was important for me, too, for it looked as if I was going to be suspected.

"I happened to come across some tracks of a cycle tire on the field here; they were old and faint, but they set me thinking. I wish I'd struck them before. I'm used to following trails—had a lot of experience in it. Went to the place where the argument happened, up the lane, and made out that the motorcycle, after the scrap, came back along the road yonder. The tracks are there yet if you've eyes to see them. I guess the machine was half-crippled, and they were driving it too hard. I made out that it crashed again—a bad crash that time. Do you follow me?"

"Yes," said the amazed Arkwright, "but how—"

"Here's a piece of the machine—found it on the road," said Billy, handing him the scrap of metal. "The tracks didn't go on. So what became of the machine? I found the tire tracks passing through the gateway into the field.

"What did that say? That they could wheel the machine, though they couldn't drive it. Engine done up. What would they do with it? Hide it, so nobody would know they didn't get clear away. You'll find the machine, a twin Indian, over in the old clay-pit, under some brushwood.

"What did the two of them do then? You can see by the tracks in the field that one of them was dead lame. So lame that he had to be carried or dragged half of the way. It must have taken quite a while. They couldn't be far off, and, to cut it short, I searched the pits through and found Jake where he is."

"I call that a very remarkable piece of work, for an amateur," he said ungrudgingly.

"I suppose I've set your mind at rest that I'd nothing to do with the burglary myself? You're not aching to haul me off to the station-house anymore? Or are you?"

Inspector Arkwright regarded Billy thoughtfully.

"No," he replied quietly, "but there are one or two points that have to be cleared up yet."

"If you want information as to my identity," he said, "you might look through those."

The inspector did so. His usually immobile face gave a twitch of surprise.

"Thank you. I'll keep these for the present," he said, with a change of manner.

Panke and the constable arrived, carrying a gate between them, which was taken into the cave. The prostrate Jake was lifted on to it, and borne out into the open.

"Wait! Set him down," said Arkwright suddenly. "He's safe, anyhow. We've got to get the other one." He turned to Billy. "You've seen nothing of her—the woman?"

"Yes—Calamity Kate!" said Arkwright impatiently. "Good Lord, man, can't you see she must be somewhere here, too? She's been bringing him food and water, and tending his leg—how else could he have lived there six days when he can't move?"

"Great Christopher!" said Billy. "I suppose you're right."

"The prisoner refuses any information. But I'll have the pair of them," said Arkwright grimly.

"We'll search these pits thoroughly. There are half a dozen of these caves, and we'll go through them all. Mr. Spencer, I'll trouble you to remain by the prisoner. Panke, you and the constable try that cave opposite, and I'll take this side."

Inspector Arkwright strode forward with stern determination.

"The bag is not complete," he said grimly, "till I've got that woman!"

MUST PAY ALIMONY, IS ORDER

Court Holds Ganahl is Liable for Support of Three Children

Mrs. Josephine F. Ganahl, whose suit for separate maintenance against Lucien A. Ganahl was filed in Alameda county and transferred to Los Angeles county for trial, was awarded $75 a month alimony for the support of her three children by Judge Warmer, sitting in Department Three yesterday.

Mr. Ganahl is sales manager for the Consolidated Lumber Company, and his wife says he has an income of $500 a month. She charges him with failure to provide. He denies this, and in a cross-complaint asks for a divorce on the ground of desertion. He declares that his wife has separate property valued at $25,000.

The Ganahls were married in San Francisco October 16, 1901, and separated July 15, 1920.

RADIOS MUSIC BOX TUNE

KHJ Artist Gives Clever Imitations; Comedi... Praise From Listeners

Duplication of the melody of the old-time Regina music box, once common to many homes, greeted the ears of radioland last night while KHJ was on its "dinner-hour" program. This came during Harold Smyth's part of the evening concert, when he played Leidich's "The Music Box," giving it a true interpretation. Mr. Smyth is a concert pianist and is an artist pupil of Leopold Godowsky. He also was soloist in the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra. In addition to the solo already mentioned, he gave listeners two others, "La Campanella," by Paganini-Liszt, and "The Brook," his own composition. He showed fineness of technique and ability to color his interpretation as to make them most appealing.

The compelling melody of the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Mascagni, coupled with the finesse of George H. Martin, Jr., as a cornet soloist, combined last night to give radio folk keen enjoyment during the period this number was on the air. Mr. Martin has been heard several times from KHJ and he has earned a worthy niche in the list of favorites among interested listeners.

In addition to the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana" Martin played a medley of airs, all of his solo was without accompaniment.

Deluged with telephone calls and besieged with anxious looking callers for the past week, Sam Scott, Forty-first and Vermont, is getting a taste of what it really feels like to be famous. An explanation of the unlimited amount of calls and visitors lies in the fact that Mr. Scott apparently is the first in this region to get the secret of the Armstrong super-regenerative circuit. Mr. Scott spent two weeks in experimenting with various units until he discovered what he believes to be the best combination available, using three tubes. The set is being put in a case, and will be demonstrated Wednesday or perhaps a day or so later, says Mr. Scott.

Telephone communication by radio will be opened across the Chosen Strait before the middle of the month, says a report to the Department of Commerce from Vice-Consul Corell, Nagasaki. WOOLWINE MAY TRY KLAN CASE

ercising two for the purpose of removing, without cause, jurors who have stood the questioning from both sides. Another man was challenged by the prosecution and excused by the court. At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the following were in the jury box:

Mrs. Charles Steere, Mrs. Clara M. Tunison, Ralph Weiss, William F. West, Hattie S. Gregory, Anna J. Jasper, Mary Putnam, Mrs. Cornelia Leatart, Mrs. J. D. Hamilton, John G. Seymour, Thomas A. Wright and George Spence. Mr. Spence was the last man to enter the jury box.

EXCUSED FOR CAUSE

Those excused by the defense were J. R. Shepard and Sidney H. Walters. The State used peremptories on John Berg and John Wilson. D. M. Fahs, who said he had a leaning toward the Klansmen, was excused for cause.

With nearly 300 peremptories at the disposal of both sides, there is no way of predicting when the task of selecting the jury will end. That Judge Houser may take a hand in the situation and take steps to shorten the proceedings is not unlikely, according to some of the attorneys in the case. The law, as construed by the attorneys for both sides, gives the defense ten peremptory challenges for the case and five for each defendant. The prosecution is entitled to one-half that number. According to Paul Barksdale D'Orr, chief counsel for the thirty-six of the thirty-seven Klansmen, the defense is entitled to 195 peremptories, but may not use more than a fraction of that total.

COUNSEL FOR COBURN

Considerable significance was attached by persons in close touch with the legal phases of the case to the announcement at the beginning of the trial yesterday morning that Attorneys John T. Mulligan and George C. Watson will represent Capt. W. S. Coburn, deposed Grand Goblin, and formerly leader of the Ku Klux Klan on the Pacific Coast.

"At present there is no friction between Capt. Coburn and the other defendants," Attorney Watson said during the day. "Coburn and his attorneys have all the confidence in the world in Mr. D'Orr and Mr. Abrahams, the attorneys for the other defendants. The legal phases of this case, however, will necessitate close watching and if anything develops during the trial that will be antagonistic to our client, we expect to see that he gets the full limit of protection allowed him by law."

In spite of the reassurances, surprises and thrills originating within the ranks of the defendants are expected to be generated before the end of the trial.

The lines on which the case against the thirty-seven defendants will be fought were clearly indicated yesterday by the questions asked by Attorney D'Orr for the defense and by the questioning of Deputies Keyes and Doran for the State. Although not mentioned in the indictment, the Ku Klux Klan, and the defendants, as members of it, were mentioned in the questions directed at every prospective juror.

ASK ABOUT LIQUOR LAW

The jurors' views on the Constitution of the United States, on law enforcement by the legally constituted authorities, and the enforcement of all the laws, including the State and Federal liquor laws, were sought by both sides.

There were other searching questions. Both sides wanted to know whether the prospective jurors knew any of the attorneys in the case, whether any of their friends or relatives were members of the organization known as the Ku Klux Klan, whether they believed that any person had a right to be a member in any secret society and that such membership was not in itself a crime. But the questions touching the "Invisible Empire"—the Klansmen's contentions to the contrary notwithstanding — were the major questions of the day.

"What papers do you read?" was another stock question. Paul Barksdale D'Orr wanted to know how many of the prospective jurors read the Times' story in last Sunday's issue, and how many of them knew that the real issue to be determined by the jury was not whether the regularly constituted authorities of the State or the Ku Klux Klan are to be supreme in this community, but rather whether or not the defendants were guilty of the charges contained in the indictment.

Nathan A. Baker, Kleagle, or salesman of memberships in the Klan at $10 each, and acknowledged leader of the Inglewood raid, took particular exception to the Times' story, and in a threatening manner attempted to tell the Times reporter that "for his own good" he ought not to write any more stories of that type. He was advised in no uncertain terms that The Times would continue to print the news and that no Kleagle can dictate to it what is to be written. He was told at the same time that The Times will print every side of the question.

"Do you believe in the enforcement of the liquor laws?" a question asked by Mr. D'Orr of every prospective juror, indicated to the observers that an attempt will be made by the defense to show that the defendants and some officers of the law were enforcing the law when they arrived at the Elduayen home on the night of the Inglewood raid.

"Do you believe in the Constitution of the United States and especially in that part of it that guarantees a man the protection of his own home?" the companion question to the above, was asked by Deputy Doran.

The battle of the peremptories is to be the most important phase of the fight, it was indicated by the care taken by the prosecution in its questioning of the witnesses. Detective Walter Hunter, who assisted Chief Deputy Doran and Deputy Turney, and the Sheriff's office in the investigation, and several other attaches of the District Attorney's office were in court throughout the day.

H. C. McCall, from Houston, Tex., whose name has been linked with the national headquarters of the Invisible Empire, was in court all day. King Kleagle Price, in answer to questions from newspaper men, said Mr. McCall was here "from Atlanta" and did not deny that he was keeping a careful eye on the situation as it effects the Klan in general.

Paul Barksdale D'Orr's questioning of the first twelve prospective jurors gave the first indications of the defense to be presented by the indicted men.

"Do you believe in the enforcement of all the laws?"

"Do you believe in the enforcement of liquor laws, State and Federal?"

"If it developed that this so-called raid was a lawful raid by officers and that arrests were made with lawful authority, the fact that some of the men in it belonged to the organization known as the Ku Klux Klan would not have any bearing on your deliberation, would it?"

These were some of the questions asked by Mr. D'Orr.

Mr. D'Orr attempted to learn, during the morning session, how Mrs. Anna L. Jasper voted on the liquor laws now in force, but failed to obtain an answer, when Asa Keys, Deputy District Attorney, objected, and the judge sustained the objection.

The five men and seven women, the first to take their places in the jury box, faced the thirty-seven defendants. The indicted Klansmen sat in four rows of chairs on the north side of the courtroom, with the attorneys' table between them and the jury box. William S. Coburn, deposed Grand Goblin of the Klan on the Pacific Coast, was the only exception. He sat behind his attorneys, George C. Watson and John T. Milligan, after special permission was obtained from the court.

The entrance of the defendants into the courtroom was the dramatic incident of the morning. Thirty-four of them, men of all ages, appearances and stations in life, filed in and quietly took the seats reserved for them. Capt. Coburn, and G. W. Price, present head of the Klan in California, were inside the rail when the Klansmen began their parade to the bar of justice. The last man to enter was Nathan A. Baker, Kleagle of the "Invisible Empire" and acknowledged leader of the Elduayen affair.

Gray-haired men rubbed elbows with smiling youths in the defendants' corner. There were mustached faces, clean-shaven faces, men in advanced stages of life and just mere youths. Some looked serious and some looked grave. All paid the greatest attention to the proceedings.

At the counsel table sat Dep. Dist. Attys. Keyes and Turney, for the prosecution, and Mr. D'Orr, A. L. Abrahams, John T. Milligan and George C. Watson for the defense.

Mrs. Charles Steere, housewife,

HOLD-UPS IDENTIFIED

Frank J. Northoff, alias Frank Norton, who recently escaped from the County Jail; Charley DeForge and Lucian Griffin, the latter two arrested late Sunday on charges of robbery, were yesterday identified by victims of six hold-ups in the last two weeks.

Norton was recognized as the lone bandit who held up and robbed R. D. Brown, R. Gottlieb of Santa Monica, J. B. McGreagor of Santa Monica and Dan Eagen. Griffin was identified by Eagen as the companion of Norton in this robbery.

DeForge, according to Detective Sergeants Hamilton, Williams and Gibson, who made the arrest of the asserted gang, was identified as the bandit who held up and robbed the Kimble Brothers' oil station at 4040 Whittier avenue, and P. Pravenman, near his home at 2501 East Fourth street.

The victims of the robberies, according to the detectives, picked the three men out of fifteen inmates of the City Jail yesterday.

Trying to Legalize Drunkenness

A FEW years ago there were laws to punish drunkenness, but no law to prevent a man from getting drunk. The manufacture and sale of liquor were legal.

Today there is a law to prevent men from getting drunk, and to punish those who make or sell the intoxicating liquor which breeds drunkards. This law is the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and the Volstead Act enforces it.

The making of drunkards is not now a lawful occupation. There are not so many drunkards, and many of those who succumb to this curse are victims of "moonshiners," "rum-runners" and "bootleggers," who operate in violation of the Constitution and in defiance of the law.

The business of making drunkards is to be legalized again if the "liquor interests" and certain allied forces succeed in nullifying the Volstead Act and obtaining the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, in the name of "Personal Liberty."

Huge sums are being spent, and an army of workers employed, in an organized effort to elect men to Congress who will vote to repeal the Prohibition laws. If you want to know how this activity is being carried on all over the country, read the articles now appearing daily in The Christian Science Monitor. Special reports from staff correspondents in many news centers tell just how the organized forces opposed to Prohibition are operating.

WATER, POWER ACT OPPOSED

Aspirant for Lieutenant-Governor Flays Measure

Rominger Addresses Women on Tax Increases

Censure Johnson for Failure to Answer

BY MYRA NYE

"I stand unequivocally against the Water and Power Act. Moreover when the primary election is over on the 29th inst. I expect to go out and devote my energies toward defeating its passage in November."

State Senator Rominger, candidate to succeed C. C. Young as Lieutenant-Governor of California yesterday won to himself the unqualified approbation of the Woman's City Club when, at the close of the session, in answer to a question of one of the members, he answered thus directly. He was the only one of the three candidates who so replied, the others evading or answering in part. They were Mattison B. Jones, candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket, and the incumbent for Lieutenant-Governor.

ASKS ANSWER

"A truthful reply to our questions without evasion isn't going to hurt any candidate. Americans are used to the truth and why a candidate should feel backward about presenting his view to his constituents is more than I can see," Mrs. William P. Cunningham, president of the club, stated before introducing any of the speakers. The question was one of many put to the speakers.

"There are two main principles in my platform. They are economy and law enforcement," said Senator Rominger in the beginning of his address. That there are 11,000 State employees and the budget for expenditure is $88,000,000 are facts that our opponents say are 'chestnuts' and do not interest the voters.

ASK FOR MORE

"But you and I know these things do interest the voters. It is our money they are spending. After two years we found that the surplus of $2,000,000 we had left in the treasury was entirely exhausted, but they were making a demand for enormous sums in addition, not for future expense, but to make up deficits.

"We ask the administration to answer us, and up and down the State they evade us by pleading for the soldiers' bonus, dear to all of us, and by saying the money was spent in education. Every one of us is for education. We do not cry aloud over that expense. But we do demand to know why they always side-step this question of economy. Why do they side-step this proposition of the Board of Control? We have a Board of Control and now they would give us another. What a farce."

Clearly and emphatically the candidate for Lieutenant-Governor marshalled his facts and presented them in no uncertain manner, gaining more and more applause as he proceeded.

"The Governor of the State boasts of our wonderful highway as he goes up and down campaigning for re-election. But in the next budget $65,000,000 is asked to repair these roads. In fact, at the present rate of growth, the next budget will be well over $100,000,000, and no one will pay it but the taxpayers, you and I."

The speaker acknowledged the great increase in population in the State, but declared, "While the population had increased one-half times as much as it was in 1910, the expense had more than doubled."

REVIEWS RECORD

The candidate reviewed his own record for eleven years in public work, having served his district, the Thirty-third, for eight years as assemblyman, and now for three years as State Senator. He had supported the Federal bill for prohibition, had a part in putting it over, had voted for the Harris bill, a bill of enforcement, at the last Legislature, and now the Wright bill had his entire indorsement.

"It is in your hands," said the speaker, "whether you approve the present State administrative regime with its stupendous extravagance or whether you believe the time has come to call a halt. I rest on your decision and shall abide by it," he concluded amidst applause.

Mattison B. Jones, candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket, spoke along the same lines as Senator Rominger, presenting from different angles the extravagance of the present administration, saying it was absolutely without reason and burdensome to the taxpayer beyond measure. Mr. Jones, the first speaker of the afternoon, spoke well and was well received.

YOUNG SPEAKS

C. C. Young, the incumbent Lieutenant-Governor, gave an account of his stewardship. He said he had voted for woman's suffrage, for the direct primary, for local option and racial discrimination. He was for the red-light abatement, for raising the age of consent and introduced the antislot machine gambling bill in the Senate.

Like another chapter in an exciting continued story was the action taken by the club upholding Mrs. Cunningham in the stand she took Wednesday when she asked Senator Johnson, "Do you believe in any modification of the Eighteenth Amendment?" and was refused a reply.

The resolutions which follow were presented by Mrs. Edward C. Bellows, with many rising simultaneously to second the motion. It did not pass without opposition, however. The cleavage was defined, the Moore-for-Senator women apparently favoring it almost unanimously.

WOMEN INTERESTED

Mrs. Cunningham had just finished a statement as to her attitude regarding what had happened on Wednesday, stating that the same question would be put to Mr. Moore when he comes to the city. She further stated that she had received telegrams from women's clubs in three different States asking for instructions as how similarly to question their own Senatoral candidates, and commending her for her stand.

The club stood about 3 to 1 for the passage of the resolutions.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, our president, Mrs. W. P. Cunningham, was, on the afternoon of August 2, at Trinity Auditorium, placed in a very trying position, while seeking to obtain information on a question of vital governmental importance, for our benefit; now

Therefore, we, the members of the Woman's City Club of Los Angeles, in regular session assembled, do unanimously and publicly hereby express our sincere thanks to her for her efforts in our behalf, and deeply regret that she should have been subjected to indignity and discourteous treatment as a result thereof:

Furthermore, we solemnly protest against the charge that her question concerning the Volstead Act was not proposed in good faith, and we heartily approve and commend the manner in which Mrs. Cunningham held her ground, insisting with womanly dignity on a straightforward answer to a plain, legitimate question.

Eschewing and avoiding all partisan action, but upholding our right as intelligent voters to be informed of the position of every candidate for office on questions of grave import to us, we pledge our loyal support to and co-operation with our president in such further efforts as she may make for similar purposes with other candidates.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

CONSTIPATION

What will remedy constipation in one individual will not always be effective in another. Trite but true.

If the constipation is due to lack of residue in the diet, it is obvious that the thing to do is to increase the cellular vegetables or to include some article like bran.

One should avoid sugar and white flour products, for while they are good enough foods, they contain no residue and very few mineral salts or vitamins. For sweetening, then, use honey or molasses.

While a moderate amount of fat is laxative, too much fat is constipating—probably by causing the diet to become unbalanced.

If it is not possible for you to get bran bread, you can get a package of bran, especially prepared by the manufacturers of cereals, and you can take a small cup or a half cup of that in the morning or evening. Have a regular time for it. If you are counting calories—a small cup is about 50 calories. If you take cereals for breakfast—which you do if you are trying to gain and don't if you are trying to reduce—the bran can be added to the cereal.

As I told you last week, Dr. Kellogg of Battle Creek believes the bowels should move two or three times a day, and he gives enough bran to insure that result. He says that it is nonsense to say that bran is irritating to the mucous membrane, for it is his experience that the digestive juices will soften the toughest specimen.

Try this method for a long enough time—at least a week, I should say. If this is not effective, try adding a dish of prunes (four large prunes, 100 C.) before retiring, or you may try a large tablespoonful of mineral oil or pure vaseline. Mineral oils are put up under different trade names and can be purchased in any drug store.

If, after a thorough trial of this combination method, you are not successful, you probably could eat a bale of hay without effect. And you will have to try something else.

The vegetable gelatin or Japanese seaweed, agar-agar, apparently is able to get by the most diligent digestive tract without being absorbed. It has the further ability of doing a little absorbing on its own account and it takes to itself enough water to make the bowel movement of good consistency.

The amount necessary depends upon the individual and you have to find that out for yourself. You might begin with a large tablespoonful of the granulated. Moisten this with hot water, add cream or milk and take as a cereal, or add more water and drink it down. It is delicious either way if you are not careful in the use of your words.

While I was speaking of bran and course foods, I should have mentioned shredded wheat biscuits or triscuits (a.w.h. 100 C.: triscuits 50 C. each.) If these are used instead of bread, or if they are used as a cereal they are very often effective in constipation.

If you are not underweight you might try making one of your meals consist wholly of uncooked vegetables or fruit. There are many vegetables that are more delicious raw than cooked. You often eat lettuce, tomatoes, cabbage and so on. Now try minced beets, corn, spinach, peas, etc., in the same manner. You can make a mixture of any raw vegetables that you like into a loaf and serve as a salad. If you add peanuts, you can serve it as a meat or protein dish, especially if you serve it with a sauce made of peanut butter (Vegetables from 5 to 20 C's an ounce; peanuts, 10 to 12 double, 100 C's; peanut butter, 1¼ level tablespoonful, 100 C's.)

RESUME

For constipation:

(3.) Regular time for evacuation. Food is the best stimulus to the movement of the intestinal tract; therefore, plan for this important time after a meal.

Miss Danziger is Married

A home wedding of charming simplicity marked the marriage on Sunday of Miss Daisy Danziger, daughter of Mrs. Daisy Canfield Danziger, and Richard Bruce Hay Chapman, of San Francisco. The ceremony was read by the Rev. John A. Eby, pastor of the Wilshire Presbyterian Church, at Mrs. Canfield's apartment in South Normandie avenue. There were no attendants. The young bride was most attractive in a lovely frock of Alice-blue crepe de chine with a small hat of the same shade. She wore a corsage bouquet of Cecile Brunner roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Hay have left for a honeymoon in Honolulu and after September 1, next, will be at home at 816 South Catalina street.

HOUSEKEEPING VERSUS LITERATURE

Now, Betty, dear, go and tell nurse to take you out to your swing and play with you. I want you to be in the fresh air. Yes, darling, mother is going to write on her book. She is going to write on her book all morning, while her little girl is having a happy time playing in the open air. Yes, darling, of course mother will make you a collar of kisses before you go. There is a whole chain of them, and this big one is a locket. Now trot along, babykins, and let mother get to work.

That's right, Miss Smith, close the door and hang the busy card outside. I feel like dictating for hours today. I'm sure we shall make splendid progress. Let me see, where did I leave off yesterday? Will you read the last paragraph of your notes, please? Thank you. I remember perfectly now. Are you ready? Good.

"She had not been mistaken. Far out at sea she saw"—Oh, is that you, Bridget? No, you're not disturbing me—much. What is it? The butcher hasn't got calves' liver today? Well, that's too bad. Tell him to send chops for luncheon instead. Yes, eight will be enough.

Now, Miss Smith. "She had not been mistaken. Far out at sea she saw—" Come in, Annie. Yes, I did want to see the electrician, but I don't think I can take time for it now.

Tell him to go out to the garage and put the new light wherever the chauffeur wants them. Now, Miss Smith. "Far out at sea she saw—" Good gracious! what is Georgie crying about. Please see Miss Smith? Oh, he doesn't want to take his nap? Well, let him go out and play with Betty a while. We simply must have peace this morning.

"Far out at sea she saw—" Good heavens! Who is knocking now? What is it, Higgins? Yes, of course, I have time if it's important. Yes, I think you're quite right. Have the electrician put an extra, movable bulb, so that you can throw the light wherever you need it. Tell him just what you want. Now, Miss Smith. "Far out at sea she saw—"

If anyone knocks at that door again I shall go stark, raving crazy. Yes, Annie, what is it? Mrs. Stewart is calling? Good heavens, what an hour for the woman to come! You know I never seen anyone when I'm dictating. Tell her I have gone to town. Where was I, Miss Smith? All right. "Far out at sea she saw a black—" Don't answer that telephone, Miss Smith. We haven't time to stop. Just let it ring.

"Far out at sea she saw—" Well, yes, answer it and get it over, whatever it is. Mrs. Hewitt? Yes, of course. How do you do, dear? No, indeed. I'm only dictating. Why, yes. Yes, I think it's a splendid idea to stir up the cemetery board and have those headstones straightened. Their condition is a disgrace to the town. Of course, I'm interested. I expect to be lying there myself in a few days—a few years, I mean. No, dear, of course, I'm not ill. No, no, I was only joking. Yes, I'll go on the committee. Good-by, good-by. Where were we, Miss Smith? "Far out at sea she—"

Betty Jerome, stop howling this instant and tell mother what has happened. Cook says we are not to have ice cream for luncheon? Darling, we can't have ice cream every meal. Now, you run right out and ask cook to give you one of the holes with cookies around then that you like so much. She has some. I saw her baking them this morning. And don't come come back here till mother sends for you. Yes, get a cookie for Georgie, too.

Oh, dear, Miss Smith, what was that last sentence? "Far out at sea—" Now, Annie, really you know you ought not to interrupt me—oh, well, if it's Mr. Conning I suppose I ought to see him. I simply must have the holes in that side hedge filled with something. That will be all for today, Miss Smith. I'll remember where we left off. "Far out at sea she saw a black—" Gracious, I've forgotten what I was going to have the creature see! Yes, Anne, tell Mr. Conning I'll be right there!

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Too Narrow-Gauged

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have just listened very attentively to Senator Johnson's speech to the Los Angeles City Club. It will perhaps surprise some of his admirers to have one say that while he is an eloquent speaker he is not a clear thinker. There were to my mind three climaxes in his speech. One was his claim of honesty in the positions he has taken in the Senate. I will not dispute that. Another was his attempt to show that no statesmen are now in favor of the League of Nations, especially none of the leading statesmen of Europe. His proof was that Lloyd George and others demand that the Treaty of Versailles be amended because time has brought greater light and unanticipated developments. Here was the defect of his logic. A desire for amendment is not the same as opposition to anything. Had he called those European statesmen to testify as to whether they would wish to abolish the League of Nations he might easily have heard them say, as they have repeatedly said, that such a step would threaten the destruction of civilization. I advise those captivated by his eloquence to note the weakness in his logic. They would do well to read in the August Atlantic "The League of Nations After Two Years," by Raymond B. Fosdick. His third climax was where he compared his opposition to the League of Nations and the four-power treaty to Washington's opposition to an alliance with France after the Revolutionary War. There was just this fundamental difference which Mr. Johnson did not seem to see. The alliance France sought was an alliance of two nations against other nations that might oppose them, whereas the alliance of the League of Nations and the four-power treaty were the alliance of many and, if possible, all nations for the peace and good will of all the nations. This beautiful ideal of not only a wish for peace which every sane person must feel but an alliance for peace between all nations was not dreamed of in Washington's day, else I am sure he would have gloried in it. It is the very opposite of the alliance with France which he turned down. Hearing Mr. Johnson convinced me that he calls things equal that are not equal and reasons from assumptions, rather than from facts. He is too narrow-gauged for an international statesman and that is the kind of a statesman the Senate needs in this day.

Not Will Power

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Mr. Oppenheim's kindly reference to Christian Science in Thursday's paper necessitates further comment that your readers may have the correct viewpoint, which The Times always endeavors to present.

Unquestionably his use of quotation marks was not intended to convey that the statements therein were taken from Mrs. Eddy's writings or authorized Christian Science literature, because their import is obviously not the teachings of Christian Science. Warning against human will power, to which his statements would ally Christian Science, Mrs. Eddy writes: "Every Christian Scientist, every conscientious teacher of the science of mind-healing, knows that human will is not Christian Science, and he must recognize this in order to defend himself from the influence of human will." (Science and Health, page 451.) This is decidedly the reverse of Mr. Oppenheim's belief that Christian Science "is the triumph of human will power." As a matter of fact, absolute failure is the only expectation a Christian Scientist has from human will power, either as a medium for invoking the power of God or as a factor in the practice of Christian Science.

Therefore, let no one imagine he is using Christian Science by trying to "will" the power of God into his experience, or by saying "health" and "wealth" to heal sickness and gain riches. Rather, let it be understood that in Christian Science he must pray without ceasing, "Not my will, but Thine, be done;" and in the measure that he obliterates all sense of human will power and also all so-called thought forces of the carnal mind there will be manifested to him the healing of sin, disease, want—all the evils arising from the belief of a human will; "for by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God." (Eph. ii:8.)

Why So High and Mighty

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I saw in The Times of Aug. 3, 1922, that Hiram Johnson resents being asked questions by anybody as to his attitude on certain vital matters now before and to come before Congress. "On what meat does this our Caesar find that he hath grown so great?" that he can almost insult by his brusk manner one of the best women in the State; and through her all the women of the State who want to know what course he will take on certain vital issues. Mr. Johnson needs to know (or be taught) that as a Senator he is the servant of the people, not their master! That the humblest voter in the State has a right to ask him to define his attitude and state his position on any question pending or likely to come before Congress and the right to expect and demand a civil and respectful answer.

Single Standard

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] A clean-cut, intelligent fellow had occasion to enter a courtroom in the Hall of Records without a coat and immediately a court officer ordered the man out for not wearing a coat. The day was very warm.

In the courtroom and on the jury were women who did not even have an undershirt on that you could notice, and besides the legs and arms were openly exposed to view, their dresses being a foot too short at each end.

If the courtroom is such a modest place why don't they begin with the sex that is making the most indecent exposure?

Comfort ought to have priority over conventionality, and undressed women should observe requirements for adequate covering of their persons as well as men.

How About Taft?

CHICO, Aug. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Glad you are quizzing Hiram and while about it would it not be a good time to have him explain his attitude toward ex-President Taft on his appointment to the Supreme bench. If he is so allured friendly and in accord with the administration, why did he stand up with three rebel Democrats and vote against his confirmation? Taft is loved and liked by everybody and in view of the fact that he is soon to honor this State by visiting us, I believe it would be very appropriate at this time for Hiram W. Johnson to pause a moment and make due apologies to his audience for the shameful insult he saw fit to heap upon our beloved ex-President and we would be pleased to read one of your good editorials bearing on this matter.

Let Him Sleep

Three students at the DePauw University summer school are rooming together at Greencastle. One morning two of them had arisen and were making an effort to arouse the other. But half awake, he pleaded with them for time.

"I can't get up yet. I must go back to sleep," he said.

"But why must you go back to sleep?" they argued.

"You see, I dreamed I was in Toledo and lost my hat. Now I must go back to sleep and find it."—Indianapolis News.

Question: How long does anti-typhoid vaccination last?

P. R. K.

Answer: Three doses of the vaccine are injected under the skin at intervals of about one week. After each dose there may be slight swelling and tenderness. Sometimes there is fever and headache for a short time. This vaccination affords protection against typhoid fever which lasts from one to four years.

Q.: How many different articles are handled by druggists?

G. E. C.

A.: There are now more than 8,700 articles in the department of drugs, chemicals, oils, etc., and about 8,000 in the department of proprietary or patent medicines, while various sundries bring up the total number of articles handled by the drug trade of today to approximately 25,000.

Q.: From what musical instrument was the piano developed?

J. W.

A.: Primitive man discovered that the string on a hunter's bow emitted a tone when plucked. After a time the harp was evolved. The cithara was a development of the harp. Then came the dulcimer, the clavicord, harpsicord and pianoforte.

F. C. S.

A.: Apply calcined magnesia moistened with benzine.

Q.: Can a man be held to a contract he made while he was intoxicated?

E. B. B.

A.: The general rule is that contracts made by a person under the influence of liquor are voidable but not void, so that if some innocent third person for value acquires rights the contract is binding upon the person making it. If a person makes a contract when he is so far under the influence of liquor as to be deprived of his senses, and the contract is so one-sided as to be unreasonable, the question of fraud may enter into the transaction.

Q.: Is there any trade where the employees fix the price of the commodity sold?

W. W. E.

A.: The barbers are organized in a union which not only regulates wages and hours of labor, but fixes prices charged to patrons. Every rise in barbers' wages must under union rules be followed by a corresponding increase in prices and vice versa.

ORPHEUM OFFERS HARMONY AND DIVERSITY

By William Foster Elliot

When one has said that this week's Orpheum bill is extremely musical—five acts out of the eight employing a "concord of sweet sounds" in one way or another—the only possible generalization has been made. The Orpheum frequently asserted loudly and publicly that vaudeville means variety, and this week they have carried out their threat in spite of the musical majority, thereby compelling one to take things up in detail.

Which is unusually hard to do, for I find myself compelled by natural honesty to praise highly two acts that yesterday's audience received with little more than politeness, and to be disrespectful toward at least one which said audience simply ate up.

The two acts in question are "The True Story" in which Florence Roberts and Fredrik Vogeding appear, and the songs of Grace Fisher. "The True Story" is hardly more than an amusing bit of dialogue; it isn't at all dramatic in the ordinary sense; nor does it contain any frantically clever lines. But it is worked out in a novel fashion, and is convincing by its humanness if not by its brilliance.

The real point about "The True Story," however, is the acting of Miss Roberts and Mr. Vogeding. They depart abruptly from the vaudeville tradition in these things, and give simple, naturalistic portraits, without rant or rhetoric, making of the slight vehicle an extremely enjoyable quarter of an hour for anyone who likes acting, but hates being shouted at. Hence, I award them one-half of the candy cane.

The other half goes to Grace Fisher. Rarely does one hear in variety a lovelier voice, or see a more winsome personality. Her artistry is of subtle kind which grows on you. Her high notes are round and full of color; her diction exceptional, and she has the rare faculty of being able to back up her meanings with expression and gesture. Miss Fisher is a real treat, and I venture to prophesy that before the week is out she will be the big hit among the musically discriminating.

Emilie Lea is a distinct disappointment—only a typical vaudeville dancer with a bit more technique and agility. In other words, she does a lot of irrelated turns that make one admire her physical endurance, but which mean nothing. She sings, too, but not well.

Redmond and Wells do a bit of nothing much, in which the lady displays a good deal of her very handsome self, and her partner does a bit of dancing of the loose-jointed kind. Snell and Vernon have a snappy acrobatic bit which is all too brief. Ernestine Vernon being very shapely. Cooke, Mortimer and Harvey have a surprise which I'd rather not give away.

Murray Kissen and company are a male quartet who render a good deal of barber shop music with an appropriate setting, and some Hebrew comedy which is funny if you think so, and not otherwise.

John Steel holds over from last week, and seems to be the most popular member of the aggregation, though, personally, I'd rather hear Grace Fisher. And there you have it.

KING DRAWS LAUGHS WITH "GOING SOME"

Apparently, from the Auditorium to Pantages was a good move for Will King, for I notice that over there he seems to be gaining in popularity with each successive week. Certainly he was greeted with howls of laughter yesterday afternoon, when he and his aggregation appeared in a scrambled version of "Going Some."

Although Rex Beach would probably fail to recognize his brain child as dressed (or undressed) by King, it still remains an amusing, if perfectly innocuous, piece of hokum. King takes the part of the trainer who has decidedly original ideas about how to keep Mike Dooley (otherwise Lew Dunbar) in shape for the great race. Reece Gardner is a sort of musical comedy Bill Hart with a lot of artillery. The other favorites have roles which are more or less familiar, and still different.

Individual honors go, as usual, to Bessie Hill and the Golden Gate Four. I observe with some regret, however, that Bessie seems to have abandoned her one-time pleasant habit of kidding the audience, and this is a sad loss. She used to do it well, and with an infectious determination. She is hereby advised to resume the habit.

Other vaudeville numbers are Billy Bouncer in an act which is said to be copyrighted, though why it should be is a mystery. No one, I should think, would care to steal anything involving so much hard work. Al Pemerton in popular song hits; McLellen and Sarah in nut comedy of some piquancy, and Carl McCullough in bits of travesty, which are billed as bright and actually are so.

Pantages's photoplay feature is "Free Air," adapted from a story by Sinclair Lewis. It is amusing, but not dangerously so. One fails to find the author of "Main Street," But what one does find is a good deal more cheerful than that dissection of a small town, so what are the odds?

HUMOR APPEAL IN CURWOOD FILM

A less red-blooded and hence more attractive James Oliver Curwood appears before the public in "The Girl from Porcupine," this week's feature at Clune's Broadway. There is not a single "mounty" in the opus, and only a few shootings. And there is a lot of exceedingly pathetic human drama, sentimental, of course, but none the less effective in its cardiac reaction.

The tale concerns the fortunes of a little girl whom two old Klondikers send to an eastern finishing school to be polished, and the misfortunes of the miners, who in their naivete believe that the days of piracy were over with Capt. Kidd.

The school consents to polish Hope Duggan in consideration of receiving from Porcupine the sum of $1000 monthly. As the Klondike claim has never paid more than $400 per month, the two old men fall into arrears, and in their efforts to make good and keep the faith with their ward, one of them shortly wears himself out and dies.

These sequences are genuinely pathetic, and have, as well, an appealing satirical slant when contrasted with the shots of the finishing school sandwiched in here and there.

There is a love story, too, but it really doesn't bulk half so large as the simple loyalty and heroism of the two old miners. The lover is well played, though, by William Collier, Jr. Faire Binney does Hope Duggan.

On the whole, "The Girl from Porcupine" is technically good. There is enough humor to make the pathos bearable, and the cast contains a wistful, lop-eared doggie of uncertain heredity, whose work is sheer unalloyed delight.

Farce Heads Hillstreet Variety Bill

Heading the week's vaudeville at the Hillstreet is Frank Wilcox and company in the laughable farce, "Sah-h." As a farceur Wilcox has few equals on the vaudeville stage. The sketch is one of those affairs in which a man is pursued by three "females of the species," and kept busy holding them apart until he completes a business deal.

Jimmy Savo is repeating his former success with his "A Salvo of Screams." It isn't what Jimmy says, but what he does, that keeps his audience in an uproar. Wills and Harold Brown open the show with "Rag Art." One might think from the title that the pair are a couple of syncopated jazz artists, but in this case the rag is the real thing, for, with rags as the material, they fashion pictures that when the spotlight is thrown on them look like oil paintings.

Paul Murray and Gladys Gerrish present "Studying Stars." Miss Gerrish's impressions of Marilynn Miller, Ann Pennington and other stars of the Broadway firmament were well received. That audiences like to be mystified was amply proven by the reception accorded Herbert Brooks at the end of his demonstration of card tricks.

For the benefit of those who left before Frank Wilson completed his act it may be said that they missed the best cycling act the Hillstreet has ever staged. Wilson does more while riding a bicycle without his hands on the bar than most trick riders can do holding on to everything in sight.

The feature photoplay program is Conway Tearle in "A Wide Open Town," which is in every respect worth seeing. The story deals with the reformation of a gambler through his love of a girl and though there is nothing unusual in the theme, the story is well put together, interesting throughout and excellently acted.

"Hearts' Haven" is Expression of Optimism

Those who like sentiment and optimism generously mingled are going to enjoy the quietude of "Hearts' Haven," which is on view this week at Tally's Theater. It has a theme of hopefulness and faith, and a radiant sort of goodness that is popularly uplifting, even with a slender plot and a minimum of dramatic action.

Based on a story by Clara Louise Burnham, "Hearts' Haven" is chiefly a story of the trifles of life and living. It is told without affectation except for its humor, and in its humanness exhibits feeling and purpose.

The main event in its unfolding is the cure of a young girl through faith and the effect of this event on the rest of the principals. There is an obvious Christian Science viewpoint in the way the family doctor is routed and the medicine is thrown out of the window.

Chiefly interesting are the way the romances finally culminate in happiness for the majority of the good characters, even to the comedy personnel of the picture. The last reel discloses the title.

While there is no clash or conflict during the unfolding of the theme, this is one of the type of pictures that may be enrolled as clean and sunshiny, even if not dramatic. The acting is of a generally uniform texture. The kiddies are especially appealing, while Claire MacDowell, Robert McKim, Claire Adams, Carl Gantvoort, Frank Hayes and others may be mentioned very favorably. There is an auto accident that gives a touch of realism to the climax.

Brothers Rivals?

We may expect a decision on Theda Bara's first starring picture under her contract with Selznick within a month. Many manuscripts are now being perused to obtain a suitable story. The picture will be filmed in the East, instead of California, as originally intended.

A special arrangement has been made whereby David O. Selznick will assume charge of the Bara unit of production, this being his first venture of this kind. Heretofore he has always been aligned with his brother, Myron Selznicks' enterprises. He has carried various titles such as secretary and vice-president, but the Selznick pictures have always been actually produced under the direction of Myron Selznick. The separation and the development of two separate units will, it is said, bring about a sort of friendly rivalry between the two brothers.

David O. Selznick is at present at the United studios here, but will leave for New York within a month, and immediately commence filming the Theda Bara subject.

SHOW HAS LARGE MAP

"BONDED WOMAN," "SNOWY" BAKER AT GRAUMAN'S

By Edwin Schallert

You have to be a rapid traveler to keep up with the itinerary at Grauman's Theater this week. What with a sea-faring film story, and an Australian novelty act, the geography is spread all over the show. The sea cinema is "The Bonded Woman," featuring Betty Compson, with John Bowers and Richard Dix as first and second mate, respectively, and the Australian divertisement is comprised of the stunts of horsemanship and whipcracking purveyed by "Snowy" Baker, the celebrated athlete. The applause went chiefly to "Snowy," who gets his stuff over with sincerity and a strong arm. His motion picture helps to throw more light on his exploits.

I am sorry that I cannot rave over "The Bonded Woman." It has some good acting, and an excellent storm at sea. It whirls along on a gale of excitement at the beginning, but it seems totally lacking in any motive except the most arbitrary and extravagant.

On the slightest pretext our heroine becomes infatuated with a rough mate who saved the life of her father. She passes up the perfectly good and energetic young steamship owner for the wild, devil-may-care sailor. We are told via the subtitles that women inevitably give the "saints" the go-by, while they follow the "sinners" to the end of the world so as to try to reform them. There are a few women, yes, who do, but they generally have to have a little more evidence of the real stuff that makes man than the rough mate in this picture exhibits, and they generally don't go to viciously romantic resorts in Samoa, or wreck ships on desert islands to accomplish their purpose.

"The Bonded Woman" acquires its title from the fact that the heroine guarantees the integrity of her inamorata, when he would a captain be. He is more addicted to bonded whisky than to women, bonded or not, and that makes the task of the lady in reforming him more difficult.

Bowers does his work convincingly as mate, while Dix manages to keep in the picture in the hopeless part of the "saint." Miss Compson, in an obvious blondish make-up, succeeds in acting sincerely despite her disguise.

SELF FIRST, IS JOHNSON IDEA

Lyman J. Gage Tells Why He Supports Moore

Senator Would Make Party Serve His Ambition

As Politician Has Learned Art of Intrigue

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 7.—Lyman J. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury in the Cabinet of President McKinley, has indorsed Charles C. Moore as Republican candidate for United States Senator from California. In doing so, Mr. Gage has joined thousands of other representative Californians who have expressed a preference for Mr. Moore, and the retirement of Hiram Johnson.

Mr. Gage has long been an advocate of world peace, and his view of the comparative qualities of Moore and Johnson is colored by the intimate knowledge of international relations which he gained while Secretary of the Treasury — a knowledge which qualifies him to speak as an authority and which gives his judgment the high standing of practical experience and world-wide knowledge. Mr. Gage's statement is as follows:

REASONS ARE GIVEN

"Why do I suport Charles C. Moore as against Hiram Johnson for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from California at the August primaries?

"It is because it is a choice between two men, and it is by comparison of the two that my conclusion to support Moore has been reached.

"As I look at it, Johnson has become a professional politician who strives to make his party serve his personal ambitions, rather than unselfishly to devote his powers to the service of his party and the people. As a politician long in office, he has learned the art of political intrigue and possesses thereby dangerous power. It is true, also, that he was hostile to any form of international unity as proposed by the League of Nations, and bitterly fought the most forward movement of many generations in the interests of humanity and peace. I refer to the four-power pact between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan.

MOORE CLEAR THINKER

"On the other hand, I see, or think I see, in Mr. Moore, a natural, high-minded representative of the common people. His experience in life has been related to industry and business. He understands practical affairs. If not an orator, he has the power of thought and the gift of practical wisdom, and of his integrity of character no question has ever been raised. In all the public questions of his time, he has been devoted and efficient in unselfish service."

CINCINNATI WOMAN SEEKING HUSBAND

Is D. C. Flynn in town? About two months ago he left his home in Cincinnati for Los Angeles, according to a letter received by The Times from his wife. She has not heard from him since, and now she is ill and anxious. For thirty years Mr. Flynn was a proofreader on the Cincinnati Enquirer, and his wife believes he has secured work on a local newspaper.

SALESMEN SEE MOORE AS WINNER

California Traveling Men Feel That Majority is for Moore

"Nothing to it but Moore."

That is the verdict of hard-headed but clear-thinking "drummers," most of them members of the United Commercial Travelers' Association, who have been summing up the Senatorial fight on their trips up and down California during the past few weeks.

Dave Lockard, well-known member of the U.C.T., canvassed the situation yesterday in an effort to determine whether Charles C. Moore or Hiram Johnson had the better chance to secure the Republican nomination for the toga at the August 29 election. The consensus of opinion was that Moore would have easy sailing—so easy, in fact, that those who have noted the fact that Johnson beat Willis Booth in 1916, by a scant 15,000 will be almost shocked at the Moore majority.

"Traveling men don't make much of a play at partisan politics," said Lockard in telling what he had learned at first hand from the knights of the grip. "They are naturally a hard-shelled lot. They come in contract with all sorts of persons; they get their opinion hot of the griddle and they always discount personal prejudices in favor of learning what the majority has to say about any subject of general interest.

"At the start of the Senatorial campaign it was very much Johnson. Today, according to the traveling men who come in contact with the voters daily, Moore is the big favorite, while Johnson is looked on as the leader of a forlorn cause—a cause without anything to justify its support from the general citizens."

Moore Club to Give Dance for "First Voters"

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PASADENA, Aug. 7.—To interest the young folk in the candidacy of Charles C. Moore for the United States Senate, the Moore-for-Senator Club and the Women's Moore-for-Senator League will join Tuesday evening, on the 15th inst., in a "First Voters" dance at Brookside Park. No admission will be charged, but first voters are asked to secure tickets at the Moore-for-Senator hearquarters, 65 South Raymond avenue, so that the dancing space will not be crowded with those who have not yet the franchise.

The tennis courts at Brookside have been reserved for that evenning, and a first-class orchestra engaged for the dancing. A program of special entertainment in the form of fancy dances and other features is being worked out and refreshments will be served.

WOOLWINE MAY TRY KLAN QUIZ

CASE IS DEFINED

The judge read the indictment and then told the prospective jurors that the indictments were the outcome of the Inglewood case or of what has sometimes been called the Ku Klux Klan case. He then plunged into questions designed to bring out the jurors' state of mind regarding the Klan sympathies, and their feelings toward the defendants.

Attorney D'Orr wanted to know from the first prospective juror questioned if she had read any "propaganda" for or against the Klan.

"You believe, do you not," he asked Mrs. Steere, "that society itself could not exist without laws?" He then wanted to know if Mrs. Steere believed in the enforcement of the liquor laws. She said she did.

Mr. D'Orr tried to make it clear to every person questioned that the individuals and not their memberships in the Ku Klux Klan were on trial, and wanted to know if such memberships, should they be brought into the case, would prejudice the defendants. None of the prospective jurors felt that they would be prejudiced on account of the Klan membership, they told Mr. D'Orr.

Capt. Coburn sat behind his attorneys and made copious notes of the questions and answers during the morning session. He scrutinized carefully the faces of the men and the women in the jury box. King Kleagle Price sat in the extreme corner of the defendants' corner. The seating arrangements were changed during the afternoon session so that the judge, jury and attorneys may have less difficulty in identifying each individual named in the indictment.

Elaborate arrangements to handle large crowds have been made by the court-room attaches. Bailiff Bryant is in charge, and is being assisted by Deputy Sheriffs Cochran and Yorba. A heavy plank railing has been constructed from the hallway leading to the court-room, and only those having business were admitted yesterday. The eighth floor was crowded during the morning hours and in the afternoon.

HOLD SUSPECTS FOR SALES OF NARCOTICS

Joe Pinto, asserted narcotic peddler, was arrested by Narcotic Enforcement Agent Woods yesterday. The officer says he purchased from Pinto an ounce of morphine for $72.50. Pinto lives in Venice, but the arrest was made here. Pinto is in the County Jail.

Lem Soo, an Oriental, is in the County Jail on a narcotic charge. He is asserted to have sold two small quantities of morphine to enforcement agents, who placed him under arrest.

THEATER PANIC BARELY HALTED

Smoke from Bakery Blaze Starts Exodus

Manager Reassures Crowd and Stops Rush

Cafe Employees Diven to Street by Fire

A panic was narrowly averted in Bard's Cinema Theater, 444 South Hill street, late yesterday, when a fire, originating in the storeroom of the M. Lowis bakery and cafe, next door, raged for nearly an hour, threatening for a time to spread to the theater.

The sudden exodus of about 200 persons who were in the theater at the time began when smoke was seen curling into the playhouse through the electric fan ventilators on the south wall. Several patrons at first rose from their seats and walked out slowly, but a minute or so later, when the clanging of the fire apparatus was heard resounding through the streets, the entire audience made at once for the doors, it was reported.

L. L. Barr, manager of the theater, and John Hansen, an usher, of 4319 South Halldale street, stepped to the stage and were successful after a time in calming the people, so that the street exits were reached without any serious injuries resulting.

Prompt work on the part of the firemen under the direction of Assistant Fire Chief Davis confined the blaze to the storeroom of the Lowis bakery, located in a short alleyway between the theater and the Park Hotel, a three-story frame structure. Several of the rooms on the first and second floors of the hotel were badly damaged by smoke and flame. The total damage was estimated at $6000.

The main part of the restaurant was but partly damaged by smoke. Eighteen employees in the establishment were compelled to flee swiftly to the street to escape tongues of flame that shot into the cafe from the storeroom.

FLAYS NEEDLES CITY OFFICIALS

In order to protect the lives of their men, Mr. Hibbard stated yesterday, it has become necessary for the men to eat, sleep and work within guarded inclosures.

"The men do not even dare go to their homes to see their families because of the danger," Mr. Hibbard said. "Some of the men haven't seen their families in thirty days."

ASK GRAND JURY QUIZ

"It is hard for one to imagine that such conditions exist in the United States. It is purely a case of one set of Americans wanting to work and another set—a mob, fighting to keep them from it."

When the grand jury convenes in San Bernardino county, attorneys representing the Santa Fe lines will ask that the condition caused by the strikers in Needles be investigated.

"Whether conditions will be investigated in Needles depends entirely upon the District Attorney in San Bernardino," Mr. Hibbard said, in discussing taking the matter before the grand jury. "If he is anxious to see that justice is done and law preserved, he will see to it that an investigation is started immediately."

In speaking of the capture of the suspect accused of killing Roy E. Burton, Santa Fe watchman in the Santa Fe railway yards at San Bernardino, the night of July 27, Mr. Hibbard said:

"In regard to the killing of young Roy E. Burton, we were especially grieved at the brutal affair, and are highly pleased at the diligence which Sheriff Shay of San Bernardino, and the local officials, have shown in ferreting out those who are the possible slayers. That was a dastardly trick, but it shall not go unpunished, and I believe the guilty parties will be brought to trial.

"Justice, however, should always be tempered with mercy. In our desire to apprehend the guilty, we must not let our zeal carry us beyond the bounds of reason. We are endeavoring in every possible way to aid the representatives of law and order, and we shall continue to protect the men who have stayed with us, and it is our hope that the guilty party or parties who shot this young watchman in cold blood, may be run down and brought to speedy trial.

"Our reward was $1000, instead of $500, and we have posted notices to that effect.

"A general state of lawlessness has prevailed at Needles since the beginning of the strike. The Mayor and members of the Council are either strikers or strong sympathizers. All of the police officers appointed since the beginning of the strike (and the number at one time reached as high as seventy) have been recruited from the ranks of the strikers. This places them in full authority locally. Several parties have been kidnaped, taken out into the desert and left to find their way back and to suffer serious exhaustion and possible death from thirst.

"About 12:30 this morning, two employees of the road were taken from the pumping plant at Fenner and their whereabouts are not yet known. It is a disgrace to the boasted liberty of the State of California, that conditions of this kind should prevail at Needles. Men employed in the shops there have not been home since the strike was inaugurated, and fear to go because they will be roughly handled by the strikers and will not get any protection by the authorities. Men who have exercised their God-given right to continue at work and in compliance with orders of the United States Railroad Labor Board are beaten on the street by strikers who went out in violation of orders of that Federal body and hence are not striking against the railroads, but against the United States government, which created the Labor Board by the 1920 act."

ARRESTED BY DRY AGENTS

Women Jurors to Drink Tea and Tell All

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAWTELLE, Aug. 7.—Socially speaking, it's quite the thing to serve on juries nowadays.

On Wednesday Mrs. J. L. Bowman, a member of the panel at the first trial of Madalynne Obenchain, will be hostess at a tea in her Santa Monica Boulevard home to more than thirty women who have served recently in Los Angeles as jury women.

Mrs. Bowman says the women will discuss their experiences while in the jury rooms and inaugurate a campaign for the re-election of the judges who presided at trials where they served.

LOS ANGELES HERO THRICE DECORATED

DAVID E. HAYDEN AWARDED ITALIAN WAR MEDAL FOR BRAVERY

David E. Hayden, who represented Los Angeles last November in the burial services for America's unknown soldier, has been decorated once again. Yesterday, after reading a citation telling how Hayden rescued a wounded comrade at the battle of Thiaucourt despite a heavy fire of machine-gun bullets, Cavalier Enrico Piano, the local Italian Consul, pinned the Merito di Guerra of Italy upon the hero's breast. Gen. Frank C. Prescott, U.S.A., retired, delivered an address preceding the decoration, which took place in the University of California auditorium. Hayden has already received the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Portuguese Cruz de Guerra.
